(c) one particular shareholder of the disposing affiliate that was, throughout the liquidation and dissolution, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer owns not less than 90% of the issued shares of each class of the capital stock of the disposing affiliate throughout the liquidation and dissolution;

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(7), will add the definition "designated liquidation and dissolution" to subsec. 95(1), applicable in respect of liquidations and dissolutions of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer that begin after August 19, 2011; however, if the taxpayer elects in writing under subsec. 16(28) of the draft legislation in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this amendment is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this amendment is assented to,

(a) the definition is applicable to liquidations and dissolutions of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002; and

(b) in respect of liquidations and dissolutions of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin on or before August 19, 2011, the definition is to be read without reference to its subpara. (b)(ii).

The above election also affects the in-force rules for Proposed Amendments to Reg. 5903(5)(b), 5905(7) and 5907(9)(b). See Application annotations to those proposals.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The expression "designated liquidation and dissolution" or "DLAD" is relevant for the amended version of paragraph 95(2)(e), as discussed below, and applies in respect of the liquidation and dissolution of a foreign affiliate into another foreign affiliate. It has some similarities to the new concept of a "qualifying liquidation and dissolution" ("QLAD"), in new subsection 88(3.1), but it also has some important differences. As with a QLAD, a DLAD is meant to identify the circumstances in which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is considered to be substantially wholly-owned, such that a rollover of all assets upon the liquidation and dissolution of such an affiliate is considered appropriate.

Unlike a QLAD, a DLAD is not elective — it applies automatically whenever one of three conditions is met, as follows:

1. the taxpayer has a surplus entitlement percentage in the liquidating affiliate of at least 90% at the time of the first distribution of property;

2. a single foreign affiliate of the taxpayer

   a. receives at least 90% of the net assets of the liquidating affiliate in the course of the liquidation and dissolution, and

   b. has at least 90% of the voting power in the liquidating affiliate's shares at the time of each distribution; or

3. a single foreign affiliate of the taxpayer owns at least 90% of the shares of each class of the liquidating affiliate throughout the liquidation and dissolution.

One of the key implications of conditions 2 and 3 above is that it is not necessary for the taxpayer itself to have a substantially-wholly-owned indirect interest in the liquidating affiliate — that testing is done at the level of the shareholder affiliate.

This new definition applies, along with new paragraph 95(2)(e), to liquidations and dissolutions that begin after August 19, 2011, but the taxpayer may elect to have it apply to liquidations and dissolutions that begin after December 20, 2002. If such an election is made, that definition is to be read without reference to the 90% voting power test, as discussed above, for liquidations and dissolutions that begin before August 19, 2011.

(i) the fair market value of the affiliate's interest in the partnership at that time

That portion of the definition "excluded property" following para. (c) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 71(2), applicable after 1989. That portion formerly read:

> and for the purpose of this definition, where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer has an interest in a partnership and the fair market value of the interest is equal to or greater than 10% of the fair market value of all interests in the partnership, the partnership shall be deemed to be another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the "foreign accrual property income" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, for any taxation year of the affiliate, means the amount determined by the formula

$$(A + A.1 + A.2 + B + C) - (D + E + F + G + H)$$

$$(A + A.1 + A.2 + B + C) - (D + E + F + F.1 + G + H)$$

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(1), will amend the formula in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definition "foreign accrual property income" ("FAPI") in subsection 95(1) is relevant for the purposes of section 91 and for the purposes of determining the tax surpluses and deficits of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer. Section 91 provides rules for determining amounts that the taxpayer is to include in computing its income for a particular taxation year as income from a share of a controlled foreign affiliate.

Variables A to C of the FAPI definition contain the additions to FAPI and variables D to H contain the deductions from FAPI.

The formula in the FAPI definition is being amended to add new variable F.1 to incorporate the concept of a "foreign accrual capital loss". As well, existing variables B, E and G are being amended. See below for more details.

The amendments to the FAPI formula and variable G, and the addition of variable F.1, apply to foreign affiliate taxation years that end after August 19, 2011.

The amendment to variable B applies in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate that end after December 19, 2002.

The amendments to variable E apply to dispositions that occur after February 27, 2004, but a transitional reading applies for dispositions occurring in foreign affiliate taxation years that end on or before August 19, 2011.

A is the amount that would, if section 80 did not apply to the affiliate for the year or a preceding taxation year, be the total of all amounts, each of which is the affiliate's income for the year from property, the affiliate's income for the year from a business other than an active business or the affiliate's income for the year from a non-qualifying business of the affiliate, in each case that amount being determined as if each amount described in clause (2)(a)(ii)(D) that was paid or payable, directly or indirectly, by the affiliate to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or of a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length were nil where an amount in respect of the income derived by the other foreign affiliate from that amount that was paid or payable to it by the affiliate was added in computing its income from an active business, other than

(a) interest that would, by virtue of paragraph 81(1)(m), not be included in computing the income of the affiliate if it were resident in Canada,

(b) a dividend from another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer,

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"A(b)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 26, 2011: See under 95(2)(n).

(c) a taxable dividend to the extent that the amount thereof would, if the dividend were received by the taxpayer, be deductible by the taxpayer under section 112, or

(d) any amount included because of subsection 80.4(2) in the affiliate's income in respect of indebtedness to another corporation that is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or of a person resident in Canada with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length,

A.1 is twice the total of all amounts included in computing the affiliate's income from property or businesses (other than active businesses) for the year because of subsection 80(13),

A.2 is the amount determined for G in respect of the affiliate for the preceding taxation year,

B is such portion of the affiliate's taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions of property, other than dispositions of excluded property to which none of paragraphs (2)(c), (d) and (e) apply, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year,

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"B

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of the affiliate's income (to the extent that the income is not included under the description of A) for the year, or of the affiliate's taxable capital gain for the year that can reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year, from a disposition of property

(a) that is not, at the time of disposition, excluded property of the affiliate, or

(b) that is, at the time of disposition, excluded property of the affiliate, if any of paragraphs (2)(c) to (e) or 88(3)(a) applies to the disposition,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(2), will amend the description of B in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after December 19, 2002.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Under current variable B, the amount added to FAPI is the portion of the affiliate's taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions of property, other than dispositions of excluded property to which none of paragraphs 95(2)(c), (d) and (e) apply, that may reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year.

Variable B is being expanded to include certain gains on income account and any gains realized under paragraph 88(3)(a) or 95(2)(d.1).

C is, where the affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, the amount that would be required to be included in computing its income for the year if

(a) subsection 94.1(1) were applicable in computing that income,

(b) the words "earned directly by the taxpayer" in that subsection were replaced by the words "earned by the person resident in Canada in respect of whom the taxpayer is a foreign affiliate",

(c) the words "other than a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or a prescribed non-resident entity" in paragraph 94.1(1)(a) were replaced by the words "other than a prescribed non-resident entity or a controlled foreign affiliate of a person resident in Canada of whom the taxpayer is a controlled foreign affiliate", and

(d) the words "other than a capital gain" in paragraph 94.1(1)(g) were replaced by the words "other than any income that would not be included in the taxpayer's foreign accrual property income for the year if the value of C in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) were nil and other than a capital gain",

D is the total of all amounts, each of which is the affiliate's loss for the year from property, the affiliate's loss for the year from a business other than an active business of the affiliate or the affiliate's loss for the year from a non-qualifying business of the affiliate, in each case that amount being determined as if there were not included in the affiliate's income any amount described in any of paragraphs (a) to (d) of the description of A and as if each amount described in clause (2)(a)(ii)(D) that was paid or payable, directly or indirectly, by the affiliate to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or of a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length were nil where an amount in respect of the income derived by the other foreign affiliate from that amount that was paid or payable to it by the affiliate was added in computing its income from an active business,

E is the amount of the affiliate's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property (other than excluded property) that can reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year,

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"E

E is the lesser of

(a) the amount of the affiliate's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property (other than excluded property and property in respect of which an election is made by the taxpayer under subsection 88(3.3)) that can reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year, and

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of a taxable capital gain of the affiliate that is included in the amount determined for B in respect of the affiliate for the year,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(3), will amend the description of E in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable to dispositions of property by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after February 27, 2004 except that, in respect of such dispositions of property that occur in taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end before August 20, 2011, the description of E in the definition is to be read as follows:

E is the amount of the affiliate's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property (other than excluded property and property in respect of which an election is made by the taxpayer under subsection 88(3.3)) that can reasonably be considered to have accrued after its 1975 taxation year,

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Current variable E allows a deduction from FAPI for the allowable portion of current year capital losses of a foreign affiliate. Variable E is being amended to limit that deduction where the taxable portion of current year capital gains of the affiliate (that are included in variable B) is less than such allowable capital losses. This amendment is part of an initiative to bring the foreign affiliate FAPI rules in line with the rules applicable to Canadian corporations, i.e. the rules that "stream" capital losses against capital gains. Variable E is also being amended to disable the suppression rule in subsection 88(3.3). For more details, refer to the above commentary for that subsection.

F is the amount claimed by the taxpayer, which amount may not be greater than the amount prescribed to be the deductible loss of the affiliate for the year,

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"F

F is the prescribed amount for the year,

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 33(1), will amend the description of F in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to and would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "foreign accrual property income" (referred to in these notes as "FAPI") in subsection 95(1) is relevant for the purposes of section 91 and for the purposes of determining the tax surpluses and deficits of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer. Section 91 provides rules for determining amounts that the taxpayer is to include in computing its income for a particular taxation year as income from a share of a controlled foreign affiliate.

Variables A to C of the FAPI definition contain the additions to FAPI and variables D to H contain the deductions from FAPI. Where the deductions exceed the additions, the resulting amount is a foreign accrual property loss (referred to in these notes as a "FAPL"). FAPLs of other years are taken into account in the determination of FAPI by virtue of variable F and section 5903 of the Regulations.

As discussed below, section 5903 of the Regulations is being significantly modified. The description of variable F of the FAPI definition is being amended in order to better integrate its language with new section 5903.

F.1is the lesser of

(a) the prescribed amount for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of a taxable capital gain of the affiliate that is included in the amount determined for B in respect of the affiliate for the year

exceeds

(ii) the amount determined for E in respect of the affiliate for the year,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(4), will add the description of F.1 to the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: As noted above, a new variable F.1 is being added to the FAPI definition. Variable F.1 allows taxpayers to deduct "foreign accrual capital losses" ("FACLs"), a new concept that is set out in new section 5903.1 of the Regulations. This new concept is part of the capital loss streaming initiative noted above. Taxpayers will now have to separately apply FACLs, under variable F.1, and "foreign accrual property losses" ("FAPLs"), under variable F, in computing FAPI. As with the new limitation on variable E deductions, discussed above, FACL claims will be limited by the capital gains of the affiliate that are included in variable B (after reduction for any claims for current year losses under variable E).

The intended effect of the separate deduction of FAPLs and FACLs is that taxpayers should no longer be able to reduce FAPI earnings that are on income account with FAPI losses that are on capital account. For more details on FACLs, readers are referred to the commentary below on new section 5903.1 of the Regulations.

G is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of amounts determined for A.1 and A.2 in respect of the affiliate for the year

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts determined for D to F in respect of the affiliate for the year, and

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"G(b)

(b) the total of all amounts determined for D to F.1 in respect of the affiliate for the year, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(5), will amend para. (b) of the description of G in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Variable G of the FAPI definition is part of the forgiveness of debt rules in the FAPI regime. Variable G works hand-in-hand with variables A.1 and A.2 of the FAPI definition so that debt forgiveness inclusions only grind FAPI losses when those losses are claimed. Variable G is being amended as a consequence of the addition of variable F.1.

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"investment business"(a)(i)(A)

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 33(2), will amend cl. (a)(i)(A) of the definition "investment business" in subsec. 95(1) to substitute "establishment in that country" for "establishment (as defined by regulation) in that country", applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to and would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The definition "permanent establishment" is being added to subsection 95(1). This definition will have the meaning assigned by paragraph 5906(2)(b) of the Regulations. There are a number of provisions of subdivision i of Division B of Part I of the Act that use the term "permanent establishment", some of which make reference to the Regulations, some of which do not. The definition of "permanent establishment" in subsection 95(1) and the meaning prescribed for that definition in amended paragraph 5906(2)(b) are meant to provide a consistent definition of that term for all purposes of the foreign affiliate rules in subdivision i.

The provisions of subdivision i which currently make specific reference to the Regulations for the meaning of "permanent establishment" are being amended to remove those references. Those references will no longer be necessary once the definition "permanent establishment" is added to subsection 95(1). The relevant provisions are:

- clause (a)(i)(A) of the definition "investment business" in subsection 95(1),
- clause 95(2)(l)(iii)(A),
- clause 95(2.3)(b)(ii)(A),
- subparagraph 95(2.4)(a)(i), and
- subclause (c)(ii)(B)(I) of the definition "indebtedness" in subsection 95(2.5).

For more details, see the commentary to section 5906 of the Regulations.

(B) of the country in which the business is principally carried on, or

(C) if the affiliate is related to a non-resident corporation, of the country under whose laws that non-resident corporation is governed and any of exists, was (unless that non-resident corporation was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued, if those regulating laws are recognized under the laws of the country in which the business is principally carried on and all of those countries are members of the European Union, or

(ii) the development of real estate for sale, the lending of money, the leasing or licensing of property or the insurance or reinsurance of risks,

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"investment business"(a)(ii)

(c) the acquisition by the lender of a foreign resource property (other than a foreign resource property that is a rental or royalty payable by a person with whom the lender does not deal at arm's length) of another person, and

(d) the sale by the lender of loans or lending assets (other than loans or lending assets owing by a person with whom the lender does not deal at arm's length) or the sale by the lender of any interest in such loans or lending assets;

"non-qualifying business" of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer at any time means a business carried on by the foreign affiliate through a permanent establishment in a jurisdiction that, at the end of the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes that time, is a non-qualifying country, other than

(a) an investment business of the foreign affiliate, or

(b) a business that is deemed by subsection (2) to be a business other than an active business of the foreign affiliate;

Related Provisions: 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"A — Income from non-qualifying business is FAPI; 95(1)"income from a non-qualifying business" — Extended definition.

History: The definition "non-qualifying business" in subsec. 95(1) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(9), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95.

"non-qualifying country" at any time means a country or other jurisdiction with which

(a) Canada neither has a tax treaty at that time nor has, before that time, signed an agreement that will, on coming into effect, be a tax treaty,

(b) Canada does not have a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement that is in force and has effect at that time, and

(c) Canada has, more than 60 months before that time, either

(i) begun negotiations for a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement (unless that time is before 2014 and Canada was, on March 19, 2007, in the course of negotiating a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement with that jurisdiction), or

(ii) sought, by written invitation, to enter into negotiations for a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement (unless that time is before 2014 and Canada was, on March 19, 2007, in the course of negotiating a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement with that jurisdiction);

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"non-qualifying country"

Advisory Panel on Canada's System of International Taxation report to Minister of Finance, Dec. 10, 2008: Recommendation 4.2: Pursue tax information exchange agreements (TIEA) on a government-to-government basis without resort to accrual taxation for foreign active business income if a TIEA is not obtained.

Related Provisions: 95(1)"non-qualifying business" — Business carried on in non-qualifying country may be non-qualifying business.

"participating percentage" of a particular share owned by a taxpayer of the capital stock of a corporation in respect of any foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that was, at the end of its taxation year, a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer is

(a) where the foreign accrual property income of the affiliate for that year is $5,000 or less, nil, and

(b) where the foreign accrual property income of the affiliate for that year exceeds $5,000,

(i) where the affiliate and each corporation that is relevant to the determination of the taxpayer's equity percentage in the affiliate has only one class of issued shares at the end of that taxation year of the affiliate, the percentage that would be the taxpayer's equity percentage in the affiliate at that time on the assumption that the taxpayer owned no shares other than the particular share (but in no case shall that assumption be made for the purpose of determining whether or not a corporation is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer), and

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"participating percentage"(b)(i)

(i) the percentage that would be the taxpayer's equity percentage in the affiliate at the end of that taxation year on the assumption that the taxpayer owned no shares other than the particular share (but in no case shall that assumption be made for the purpose of determining whether or not a corporation is a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer) if

(A) the affiliate and each corporation that is relevant to the determination of the taxpayer's equity percentage in the affiliate have, at that time, only one class of issued shares, and

(B) no foreign affiliate (referred to in this clause as the "upper-tier affiliate") of the taxpayer that is relevant to the determination of the taxpayer's equity percentage in the affiliate has, at that time, an equity percentage in a foreign affiliate (including, for greater certainty, the affiliate) of the taxpayer that has an equity percentage in the upper-tier affiliate, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(6), will amend subpara. (b)(i) of the definition "participating percentage" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The "participating percentage" of a share owned by a taxpayer in respect of a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer is relevant in determining the amount to be included in the taxpayer's income in respect of the controlled foreign affiliate's FAPI.

Subparagraph (b)(i) of the definition "participating percentage" applies in the case where each corporation that is relevant to the determination of a taxpayer's "equity percentage" in a particular foreign affiliate has only one class of issued shares. In that case, the participating percentage is determined by reference to a simple "equity percentage".

Subparagraph (b)(ii) provides a catch-all rule for situations where subparagraph (b)(i) does not apply. Subparagraph (b)(ii) requires a more complex determination of participating percentage using prescribed rules that are set out in section 5904 of the Regulations.

Subparagraph (b)(i) is being amended to ensure that those prescribed rules, rather than the simple "equity percentage" rule, apply where certain circular shareholdings exist in the relevant chain of foreign affiliates. Section 5904 is also being amended to deal with circular shareholdings, as discussed below.

(ii) in any other case, the percentage determined in prescribed manner;

Related Provisions: 94.2(2) — Non-resident trust deemed to create participating percentage for certain purpose; 95(4) — Equity percentage.

Regulations: 5904 (prescribed manner).

Proposed Addition — 95(1)"permanent establishment"

"permanent establishment" has the meaning assigned by regulation;

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 33(3), will add the definition "permanent establishment" to subsec. 95(1), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to and would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): See under 95(1)"investment business"(a)(i)(A).

Regulations: 5906(2)(b) (meaning of permanent establishment).

"relevant tax factor" means

(a) where the taxpayer is an individual, 2, or

(b) where the taxpayer is a corporation, the quotient obtained when one is divided by the percentage set out in paragraph 123(1)(a);

Proposed Amendment — 95(1)"relevant tax factor"

"relevant tax factor", of a person or partnership for a taxation year, means

(a) in the case of a corporation, or of a partnership all the members of which, other than non-resident persons, are corporations, the quotient obtained by the formula

where

A is the percentage set out in paragraph 123(1)(a), and

B is

(i) in the case of a corporation, the percentage that is the corporation's general rate reduction percentage (as defined by section 123.4) for the taxation year, and

(ii) in the case of a partnership, the percentage that would be determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of the partnership if the partnership were a corporation whose taxation year is the partnership's fiscal period, and

(b) in any other case, 2.2;

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), s. 48, will amend the definition "relevant tax factor" in subsec. 95(1) to read as above, applicable to 2002 et seq.

Technical Notes (July 2010): The definition "relevant tax factor" in subsection 95(1) is used in determining the Canadian tax relief provided in respect of foreign taxes imposed on the earnings of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer. The existing definition provides that the relevant tax factor for a corporation (or a partnership all the resident members of which are corporations) is the reciprocal of the basic corporate tax rate (i.e., 1/.38, or 2.63). The factor for individuals and other partnerships is 2.

As part of a series of amendments reflecting recent and planned reductions in income tax rates, the definition "relevant tax factor" is amended. The relevant tax factor for a corporation (or a partnership all the resident members of which are corporations) will take account of the "general rate reduction percentage" provided in section 123.4. For example, if a corporation's taxation year is the calendar year, its relevant tax factor for 2003 will be 1/(.38 – .05), or 3.03.

Similarly, to take account of decreasing personal income tax rates, the relevant tax factor for individuals and other partnerships is increased to 2.2.

"specified fixed interest", at any time, of an entity in a trust, means an interest of the entity as a beneficiary under the trust if

(a) the interest includes, at that time, rights of the entity as a beneficiary under the trust to receive, at or after that time and directly from the trust, income and capital of the trust,

(b) the interest was issued by the trust, at or before that time, to an entity, in exchange for consideration and the fair market value, at the time at which the interest was issued, of that consideration was equal to the fair market value, at the time at which it was issued, of the interest,

(c) the only manner in which any part of the interest may cease to be the entity's is by way of a disposition (determined without reference to paragraph (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) and paragraph 248(8)(c)) by the entity of that part, and

(d) no amount of income or capital of the trust that any entity may receive directly from the trust at any time as a beneficiary under the trust depends on the exercise by any entity of, or the failure by any entity to exercise, a discretionary power;

History: The definition "specified fixed interest" in subsec. 95(1) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(9), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95.

"specified person or partnership", in respect of a taxpayer, at any time means the taxpayer or a person (other than a designated acquired corporation of the taxpayer), or a partnership, that is at that time

(a) a person (other than a partnership) that is resident in Canada and does not, at that time, deal at arm's length with the taxpayer,

(b) a specified predecessor corporation of the taxpayer or of a specified person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer,

(c) a foreign affiliate of

(i) the taxpayer,

(ii) a person that is at that time a specified person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer under this definition because of paragraph (a) or (b), or

(iii) a partnership that is at that time a specified person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer under this definition because of paragraph (d), or

(d) a partnership a member of which is at that time a specified person or partnership in respect of the taxpayer under this definition;

Related Provisions: 95(2.6) — Interpretation rule for definition.

History: The definition "specified person or partnership" in subsec. 95(1) added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 25(1), applicable on the same basis as 95(1)"antecedent corporation".

"specified predecessor corporation" of a particular corporation means

(a) an antecedent corporation of the particular corporation,

(b) a predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) in respect of an amalgamation by which the particular corporation was formed, or

(c) a specified predecessor corporation of a specified predecessor corporation of the particular corporation;

History: The definition "specified predecessor corporation" in subsec. 95(1) added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 25(1), applicable on the same basis as 95(1)"antecedent corporation".

"specified purchaser", at any time, in respect of a particular taxpayer resident in Canada, means an entity that is, at that time,

(a) the particular taxpayer,

(b) an entity resident in Canada with which the particular taxpayer does not deal at arm's length,

(c) a foreign affiliate of an entity described in any of paragraphs (a) and (b) and (d) to (f),

(d) a trust (other than an exempt trust) in which an entity described in any of paragraphs (a) to (c) and (e) and (f) is beneficially interested,

(e) a partnership of which an entity described in any of paragraphs (a) to (d) and (f) is a member, or

(f) an entity (other than an entity described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e)) with which an entity described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e) does not deal at arm's length;

History: The definition "specified purchaser" in subsec. 95(1) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(9), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95.

"surplus entitlement percentage", at any time, of a taxpayer in respect of a foreign affiliate has the meaning assigned by regulation; and Regulations: 5905(13) ("surplus entitlement percentage").

Proposed Addition — 95(1)"taxable Canadian business"

"taxable Canadian business", at any time, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada or of a partnership of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is a member (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this definition as the "operator"), means a business the income from which

(a) is, or would be if there were income from the business for the operator's taxation year or fiscal period that includes that time, included in computing the foreign affiliate's taxable income earned in Canada for a taxation year under subparagraph 115(1)(a)(ii), and

(b) is not, or would not be if there were income from the business for the operator's taxation year or fiscal period that includes that time, exempt, because of a tax treaty with a country, from tax under this Part;

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(7), will add the definition "taxable Canadian business" to subsec. 95(1), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002; however, if the taxpayer elects in writing under para. 16(29)(b) of the draft legislation in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this amendment is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this amendment is assented to,

(a) the definition is also applicable in respect of taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1994 and before December 21, 2002, and

(b) in applying para. (b) of the definition in respect of the 1997 and preceding taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that paragraph is to be read as follows:

(b) is not, or would not be if there were income from the business for the operator's taxation year or fiscal period that includes that time, exempt — because of a comprehensive agreement or convention for the elimination of double taxation on income, between the Government of Canada and the government of another country, which has the force of law in Canada at that time — from tax under this Part;

The above election also affects the in-force rules for Proposed Amendments to Reg. 5907(2.9) and 5908(13)–(14). See Application annotations to those proposals.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 95(1) is being amended to add the new definition "taxable Canadian business". This expression is used in new paragraph 95(2)(j.1) and amended paragraph 95(2)(k). For further details, see the commentaries to those paragraphs.

A "taxable Canadian business" is a Canadian business of a foreign affiliate, or a partnership of which a foreign affiliate is a member, that is fully subject to tax in Canada, i.e. one whose earnings are not exempted under a Canadian tax treaty.

This new definition applies to foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after December 20, 2002. However, a taxpayer may elect to have it (as well as other related provisions) apply to foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after 1994. Where such an election is made, a special reading of the "taxable Canadian business" definition applies for years preceding the introduction, in 1998, of the definition "tax treaty" in subsection 248(1).

Related Provisions: 95(2)(j.1), (k), (k.2) — Application to FAPI rules; 95(2)(u)(ii) [until 2011] — Tiers of partnerships.

"taxation year" in relation to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer means the period for which the accounts of the foreign affiliate have been ordinarily made up, but no such period may exceed 53 weeks.

Related Provisions: 95(1) — Foreign affiliate; 249 — Taxation year.

"trust company" includes a corporation that is resident in Canada and that is a loan company as defined in subsection 2(1) of the Canadian Payments Association Act [now the Canadian Payments Act — ed.].

History: The definition "trust company" added to subsec. 95(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 122(4), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there was a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the amendment applies to taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end after 1994 unless

(a) the foreign affiliate had requested the change in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which the foreign affiliate was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the foreign affiliate's first taxation year that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time when that taxation year would have begun if the change had not occurred.

Proposed Amendments — 95(2) base erosion rules — Canadian banks

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, March 29, 2012: Base Erosion Rules — Canadian Banks

Budget 2012 proposes that amendments be made to the so-called "base erosion" rules in the Income Tax Act's foreign accrual property income regime. Amendments will be developed to alleviate the tax cost to Canadian banks of using excess liquidity of their foreign affiliates in their Canadian operations. Amendments will also be developed to ensure that certain securities transactions undertaken in the course of a bank's business of facilitating trades for arm's length customers are not inappropriately caught by the base erosion rules.

These amendments will be developed in conjunction with industry representatives and will include appropriate safeguards to ensure the Canadian tax base is adequately protected.

Advisory Panel on Canada's System of International Taxation report to Minister of Finance, Dec. 10, 2008: Recommendation 4.5: In light of the Panel's recommendations on outbound taxation, review and undertake consultation on how to reduce overlap and complexity in the anti-deferral regimes while ensuring all foreign passive income is taxed in Canada on a current basis.

Recommendation 4.6: Review the scope of the base erosion and investment business rules to ensure they are properly targeted and do not impede bona fide business transactions and the competitiveness of Canadian businesses.

(a) [income related to active business] — in computing the income or loss from an active business for a taxation year of a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year or that is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer throughout the year, there shall be included any income or loss of the particular foreign affiliate for the year from sources in a country other than Canada that would otherwise be income or loss from property of the particular foreign affiliate for the year to the extent that

(i) the income or loss

(A) is derived by the particular foreign affiliate from activities that can reasonably be considered to be directly related to active business activities carried on in a country other than Canada by

(I) another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year, or

(II) a life insurance corporation that is resident in Canada throughout the year and that is

1. the taxpayer,

2. a person who controls the taxpayer,

3. a person controlled by the taxpayer, or

4. a person controlled by a person who controls the taxpayer, and

(B) would be included in computing the amount prescribed to be the earnings or loss, from an active business carried on in a country other than Canada, of

(I) that other foreign affiliate referred to in subclause (A)(I) if the income were earned by it, or

(II) the life insurance corporation referred to in subclause (A)(II) if that life insurance corporation were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the income were earned by it,

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(a)(i)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 4, 2009:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your correspondence to me dated February 4, 2009 and your subsequent communications with Mr. Dave Beaulne of this Division. In your correspondence, you describe difficulties in the application of subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Income Tax Act (Act) in relation to partnerships.

You mention that subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act permits a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest to include in its income or loss from an active business its income or loss from property if that income or loss from property meets two conditions. The first condition is that the income or loss from property be derived by the particular foreign affiliate from activities that can reasonably be considered to be directly related to active business activities carried on in a country other than Canada by another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (where certain criteria are met) or by a life insurance corporation (where certain other criteria are met). The second condition is that the income or loss would be included in computing the amount prescribed to be the earnings or loss from an active business carried on in a country other than Canada of the other foreign affiliate of the taxpayer or, on the assumption that the life insurance corporation were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, the life insurance corporation, as the case may be.

You submit that subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act recognizes that it may not be possible for a business to be carried on in a single legal entity because of commercial issues. You further submit that foreign partnerships should be entitled to access the recharacterization rule contained in subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act to the same extent as foreign corporations.

We agree that, from a tax policy perspective, it is appropriate for the income or loss from property of foreign partnerships to have access to the recharacterization rule contained in subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) in a manner similar to the income or loss from property earned by foreign corporations. We are, therefore, prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended to ensure that the income from property of a foreign partnership of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is a member be recharacterized as active business income in circumstances similar to those in which a foreign affiliate earning that income directly is currently eligible for such recharacterization.

We will also recommend that this amendment apply for taxation years of foreign affiliates, that begin after the announcement date of draft legislation incorporating this amendment and that, if a taxpayer elects in respect of all of its foreign affiliates, the amendment apply for taxation years of the taxpayer's foreign affiliates, that end after 2007.

While we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance of Parliament will agree with our recommendations in respect of this matter, we hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful.

Yours sincerely,

Gerard Lalonde, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(ii) the income or loss is derived from amounts that were paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to the particular foreign affiliate or a partnership of which the particular foreign affiliate was a member

(A) by a life insurance corporation that is resident in Canada and that is the taxpayer, a person who controls the taxpayer, a person controlled by the taxpayer or a person controlled by a person who controls the taxpayer, to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable were for expenditures that are deductible in a taxation year of the life insurance corporation by the life insurance corporation in computing its income or loss for a taxation year from carrying on its life insurance business outside Canada and are not deductible in computing its income or loss for a taxation year from carrying on its life insurance business in Canada,

(B) by

(I) another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year, to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable are for expenditures that were deductible by that other foreign affiliate in computing the amounts prescribed to be its earnings or loss for a taxation year from an active business (other than an active business carried on in Canada), or

(II) a partnership of which another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in respect of which other foreign affiliate the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year) is a qualifying member throughout each period, in the fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year, in which that other foreign affiliate was a member of the partnership, to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable are for expenditures that are deductible by the partnership in computing that other foreign affiliate's share of any income or loss of the partnership, for a fiscal period, that is included in computing the amounts prescribed to be that other foreign affiliate's earnings or loss for a taxation year from an active business (other than an active business carried on in Canada),

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(a.3)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 17, 2006:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letters with respect to paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") and clause 6(d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations (the "Regulations").

Paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Act

In your correspondence, you express a concern with respect to the scope of paragraph 95(2)(a.3) in light of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E) of the Act.

Paragraph 95(2)(a.3) provides generally that the income for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada derived from indebtedness or lease obligations of persons resident in Canada (or in respect of businesses carried on in Canada) is not to be treated as active business income unless more than 90% of the foreign affiliate's gross revenue for the year from indebtedness or lease obligations is derived from indebtedness and lease obligations of non-resident persons with whom the foreign affiliate deals at arm's length.

In the example provided in your correspondence, you point out that, where the requirements for the application of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E) of the Act are met, that clause would treat, as active business income of the foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, the income of the foreign affiliate derived from the interest paid to the foreign affiliate by the taxpayer on a debt of the taxpayer in respect of the taxpayer's foreign insurance business. You point out that paragraph 95(2)(a.3) would, however, result in that same income being included in the foreign accrual property income of the foreign affiliate. You identify the inclusion, because of paragraph 95(2)(a.3), of that income of the foreign affiliate in the foreign accrual property income of the foreign affiliate as being inconsistent with the inclusion of that income of the foreign affiliate in the active business income of the foreign affiliate because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E).

We agree that it would be inappropriate to include an amount of income of a foreign affiliate in its foreign accrual property income because of paragraph 95(2)(a.3) when that same amount of income is included in its active business income under clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E). Therefore, we are prepared to recommend that paragraph 95(2)(a.3) be amended to provide for consistent treatment of that income as active business income. The recommended amendment to paragraph 95(2)(a.3) would ensure that any particular income of the foreign affiliate derived from indebtedness and lease obligations will not be included, because of paragraph 95(2)(a.3), in computing the foreign affiliate's income from a business other than an active business if the taxpayer is the taxpayer referred to in clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E) and the particular income would, because of clause 95(2)(a)(ii)(E), be included in computing the income of the foreign affiliate from an active business.

It will be recommended that such an amendment apply to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that end after February 27, 2004.

Clause (d)(ii)(B) of the definition "exempt earnings" in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations

Thank you for writing.

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(a.3)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 18, 2000:

Angelo Nikolakakis, Stikeman Elliott, Toronto

Dear Mr. Nikolakakis:

We are responding to your letters of July 19, July 26 and November 20, 2000 concerning paragraph (b) of the definition "investment business" in subsection 95(1), the interaction of subsection 95(2.2) and paragraph 95(2)(f), and the scope of paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act")...

In your letter of November 20, 2000, you requested that we amend subsection 95(2)(a.3) to preclude its application in respect of an affiliate's income from lease obligations relating to the use of property outside of Canada by persons having no material connection with the relevant taxpayer. You also requested that we confirm our willingness to recommend such an amendment to the Minister of Finance.

We are sympathetic to your request. Therefore, it will be recommended to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended. The amendment will provide that paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Act does not apply to the income derived by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from lease obligations of persons (other than the taxpayer or persons that do not deal at arm's length with the taxpayer) relating to the use of property outside of Canada. It will be recommended that the amendment be made effective for taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after 1999. It will also be recommended that a taxpayer be permitted to elect to have the amendment apply in respect of all the foreign affiliates of the taxpayer in respect of their taxation years commencing after 1994, which was the application date when it was first introduced.

Thank you for bringing these matters to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(b)(ii)(B)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 23, 2010:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letters, of January 5 and 27, 2010 to Mr. Dave Beaulne of our Division, on behalf of your client, [xxx] subparagraph 95(2)(b)(ii) of the Income Tax Act (Act).

In general terms, subparagraph 95(2)(b)(ii), as amended by the Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007 (the "2007 Amending Act"), ensures that the income of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from services is treated as foreign accrual property income ("FAPI") of the foreign affiliate if the services are performed by an entity described under any of clauses (A) to (D) of that subparagraph. The entity described under clause (B) is any other taxpayer who does not deal at arm's length with the affiliate or who does not deal at arm's length with any taxpayer of whom the affiliate is a foreign affiliate.

In your correspondence, you express your concern that clause 95(2)(b)(ii)(B) is overly broad. You submit that clause 95(2)(b)(ii)(B), which formerly (i.e., before the 2007 Amending Act) applied only to services rendered by an individual resident in Canada, was not intended to cause FAPI where the services were being performed outside Canada by non-residents.

We agree and are, therefore, prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that clause 95(2)(b)(ii)(B) of the Act be amended so that an entity described under clause 95(2)(b)(ii)(B) include only a person who is an individual resident in Canada, a corporation resident in Canada, or a non-resident person that performs the services in the course of a business carried on in Canada, where that individual, corporation or non-resident person does not deal at arm's length with the affiliate or any taxpayer of whom the affiliate is a foreign affiliate.

We will further recommend that such an amendment to clause 95(2)(b)(ii)(B) apply to taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after the day on which draft legislation detailing the amendment is first announced, but (if the taxpayer so elects in respect of all of its foreign affiliates) with elective retroactive application to foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after February 27, 2004.

While I cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with our recommendations, I hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful to you.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Gerard Lalonde, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

C is the fair market value, immediately after that time, of the share, and

D is the fair market value, immediately after that time, of all shares of the capital stock of the acquiring affiliate receivable by the disposing affiliate as consideration for the disposition,

(iii) the disposing affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the shares are deemed to be an amount equal to the cost to it of all shares and other property receivable by it from the acquiring affiliate as consideration for the disposition, and

(iv) the cost to the acquiring affiliate of the shares acquired from the disposing affiliate is deemed to be an amount equal to the disposing affiliate's proceeds of disposition referred to in subparagraph (iii);

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(8), will amend para. 95(2)(c) to read as above, applicable to dispositions that occur after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(c) provides a tax-deferred rollover for certain transfers of shares of a target foreign affiliate by a seller foreign affiliate to a purchaser foreign affiliate where part of the consideration received is shares of the purchaser affiliate. The rule in this paragraph gives similar results to the rule in subsection 85.1(3), which is discussed above under the commentary for subsection 85.1(4).

Paragraph 95(2)(c) is being amended in a similar way to subsection 85.1(4) in that the rollover in paragraph 95(2)(c) will no longer apply where the shares transferred have an inherent loss. The intention is to have these transfers subject to the same rules as other transfers of capital property: in some cases these losses would be realized, in others, such as where subsection 40(3.4) applies, the losses would be suspended. A further implication of this amended rule is that it would no longer be possible to shift the loss over to shares of a transferee affiliate nor to duplicate these losses by creating an inherent loss for the purchaser affiliate.

Paragraph 95(2)(c) is also being amended to modernize and clarify its language as well as to incorporate contextual amendments that are consequential to the amendments to the "relevant cost base" definition in subsection 95(4), as discussed below.

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(d)(iv)

(iv) "adjusted cost bases" were read as "relevant cost bases, in respect of the taxpayer,";

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(9), will amend subpara. 95(2)(d)(iv) to read as above, applicable in respect of mergers or combinations in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(d) provides for the rollover of shares of a predecessor foreign affiliate held by another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer on certain foreign mergers involving predecessor affiliates. This rollover is subject to the taxpayer's ability to elect a higher amount under a so-called "relevant cost base" election.

Subparagraph 95(2)(d)(iv) is being amended to incorporate contextual amendments that are consequential to the amendments to the "relevant cost base" definition in subsection 95(4), as discussed below.

Related Provisions: 87(8.1) — Foreign merger; 93(1.4) — No election allowed on disposing of share of foreign affiliate; 95(1)"foreign accrual property income"B(b) — Inclusion in FAPI; 95(2)(f.6)(i) — No rollover where 95(2)(d) applies; 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest.

Regulations: 5907(1)"net earnings"(d)(i), "net loss"(d)(i), "taxable earnings"(b)(v), "taxable loss"(b)(v) (exclusions from reduction); 5907(2.01) (determining earnings derived from disposition); 5907(5.3)(b) (Reg. 5907(5.1) does not apply to disposition); 5916 (prescribed manner of making election under 95(2)(d)(iii)(A)).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-392: Meaning of term "share".

(d.1) [foreign merger] — where there has been a foreign merger of two or more predecessor foreign corporations, in respect of each of which a taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage was not less than 90% immediately before the merger, to form a new foreign corporation in respect of which the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage immediately after the merger was not less than 90%, other than a foreign merger where, under the income tax law of the country in which the predecessor foreign corporations were resident immediately before the merger, a gain or loss was recognized in respect of any capital property of a predecessor foreign corporation that became capital property of the new foreign corporation in the course of the merger,

(i) each capital property of the new foreign corporation that was a capital property of a predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount of the property to the predecessor foreign corporation at that time; and

(ii) for the purposes of this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), the new foreign corporation shall, with respect to any disposition by it of any capital property to which subparagraph (i) applied, be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the predecessor foreign corporation that owned the property immediately before the merger, but for greater certainty nothing in this paragraph shall affect the determination of whether any property of a predecessor foreign corporation is disposed of on a foreign merger other than one to which this paragraph applies;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(d.1)

(d.1) if there has been a foreign merger of two or more predecessor foreign corporations to form a new foreign corporation that is, immediately after the merger, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer and one or more of the predecessor foreign corporations (each being referred to in this paragraph as a "foreign affiliate predecessor") was, immediately before the merger, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer,

(i) each property of the new foreign corporation that was a property of a foreign affiliate predecessor immediately before the merger is deemed to have been

(A) disposed of by the foreign affiliate predecessor immediately before the merger for proceeds of disposition equal to the relevant cost base of the property to the foreign affiliate predecessor, in respect of the taxpayer, at that time, and

(B) acquired by the new foreign corporation, at that time, at a cost equal to the amount determined under clause (A),

(ii) the new foreign corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each foreign affiliate predecessor for the purposes of applying

(A) this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1) with respect to any disposition by the new foreign corporation of any property to which subparagraph (i) applied,

(B) subsections 13(21.2), 14(12), 18(15) and 40(3.4) in respect of any property that was disposed of, at any time before the merger, by a foreign affiliate predecessor, and

(C) paragraph 40(3.5)(c) in respect of any share that was deemed under that paragraph to be owned, at any time before the merger, by a foreign affiliate predecessor, and

(iii) for the purposes of the description of A.2 in the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), the total of all amounts each of which is the amount determined for G in respect of a foreign affiliate predecessor for its last taxation year that ends on or before the time of the merger is deemed to be the amount determined for G in respect of the new foreign corporation for its taxation year that immediately precedes its first taxation year;

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(10), will amend para. 95(2)(d.1) to read as above, applicable in respect of mergers or combinations in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after August 19, 2011; however, if the taxpayer elects in writing under subsec. 16(31) of the draft legislation in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this amendment is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this amendment is assented to,

(a) para. 95(2)(d.1) applies to mergers or combinations in respect of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that occur after December 20, 2002; and

(b) in respect of such mergers or combinations that occur before August 19, 2011, the portion of para. 95(2)(d.1) after subpara. (i) is to be read as follows:

(ii) for the purposes of this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), the new foreign corporation is, with respect to any disposition by it of any property to which subparagraph (i) applied, deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the foreign affiliate predecessor that owned the property immediately before the merger;

This election also affects the in-force rules for Proposed Amendments to Reg. 5903(5)(a), 5907(1)"net earnings"(d)(i)–(ii) and 5907(9.1). See Application annotations to those proposals.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(d.1) provides for the rollover of capital property on a foreign merger of two or more predecessor foreign corporations, where certain conditions are met. The first such condition (referred to as the "SEP condition") is that the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage in each of the predecessor corporations was not less than 90% immediately before the merger and that the taxpayer's surplus entitlement percentage in respect of the new foreign corporation immediately after the merger was not less than 90%. The second such condition (referred to as the "non-recognition condition") is that no gain or loss was recognized, under the income tax law of the country in which the predecessor foreign corporations were resident, in respect of any capital property of a predecessor foreign corporation that became capital property of the new foreign corporation in the course of the foreign merger.

Paragraph 95(2)(d.1) is being amended to drop the SEP and non-recognition conditions. Instead, it will now be sufficient for one or more of the predecessor foreign corporations to be, immediately before the merger, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and for the new foreign corporation to be, immediately after the merger, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in order for this rollover provision to apply.

Also, the rollover will now apply to all property, not just capital property, and it will be based on the "relevant cost base" concept (in subsection 95(4)), as opposed to "cost amount".

It is also important to note the introduction of a so-called "absorptive merger" rule in new subsection 95(4.2) that clarifies how the definition of "foreign merger" is intended to apply, in certain circumstances, for the purposes of paragraph 95(2)(d.1).

Paragraph 95(2)(d.1) is also being amended to expand its continuity rules to give proper application to the various loss "suspension" rules in sections 13, 14, 18 and 40, as discussed above.

Finally, a new provision (subparagraph (iii)) is being added to ensure that the debt forgiveness rules are properly applied after the merger.

These amendments generally apply to mergers or combinations that occur after August 19, 2011. However, taxpayers may elect to have the amendments (other than the ones in respect of stop-loss continuity and debt forgiveness) apply to mergers or combinations that occur after December 20, 2002.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 9, 2006:

Mr. Nick Pantaleo, PriceWaterhouseCoopers LLP, Toronto, ON

Dear Mr. Pantaleo:

I am writing in response to your letter dated April 13, 2006 concerning the foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004. Proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would be applicable to foreign mergers (within the meaning of subsection 87(8.1)) of predecessor foreign corporations that occur after December 20, 2004. You requested confirmation of certain possible modifications in respect of that proposed paragraph that we have under consideration.

Although the technical details of our intended recommendations for modifications to the foreign affiliate proposals are still being finalized, we can confirm, in general terms, that our recommended modifications in respect of proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.l) would include the following modifications.

First, the 90% surplus entitlement percentage requirement and the foreign tax law non-recognition requirement would no longer be preconditions to the application of proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.l). However, as the paragraph is intended as a rule in the foreign affiliates context, it would not apply unless

- a "specified vendor" (as defined in proposed subsection 95(3.2)) in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada was, immediately before the foreign merger, a predecessor foreign corporation or a shareholder of a predecessor foreign corporation, and
- the foreign corporation formed on the merger was, immediately after the merger, a "specified purchaser" (as defined in proposed subsection 95(3.2) [now in 95(1) — ed.]) in respect of the taxpayer.

Second, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.l) would not apply unless the shares of the capital stock of each predecessor foreign corporation that, in the course of the foreign merger, are exchanged for or become shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation or the foreign parent corporation have a total fair market value equal to at least 90% of the total fair market value of all shares of the capital stock of the predecessor foreign corporation (other than shares owned by any predecessor foreign corporation that, in the course of the merger, are not exchanged for or become shares of the capital stock of the new foreign corporation or the foreign parent corporation) that are issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger.

Third, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.l) would provide that, if a predecessor foreign corporation is a specified vendor in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada and the new foreign corporation is a specified purchaser in respect of the taxpayer, each property of the new foreign corporation that was, immediately before the foreign merger, a property of the predecessor foreign corporation would be deemed to have been disposed by the predecessor foreign affiliate for proceeds of disposition and acquired by the new foreign corporation at a cost equal to

- the predecessor foreign corporation's "relevant cost base" (as described below) of the property, where the property is an excluded property of the predecessor foreign corporation,
- the predecessor foreign corporation's "relevant cost amount" (as described below), where the property is not an excluded property of the predecessor foreign corporation and the predecessor foreign corporation's relevant cost amount of the property is greater than the fair market value of the property, and
- the predecessor foreign corporation's relevant cost base of the property, in any other case.

Fourth, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would provide that, if a predecessor foreign corporation is not a specified vendor in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada and, immediately after the foreign merger, the new foreign corporation is a specified purchaser in respect of the taxpayer, each property of the new foreign corporation that, immediately before the merger, was a property of the predecessor foreign corporation would be deemed to have been acquired by the new foreign corporation at a cost equal to the fair market value of the property.

Fifth, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would be modified so that subsection 87(4), read in the manner provided by that paragraph, would apply to any specified vendor in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada where the specified vendor holds shares of the capital stock of the predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the foreign merger. That subparagraph would also be modified so that, in applying subsection 87(4), the references in that subsection to "adjusted cost base" would be read as references to the specified vendor's relevant cost amount (rather than relevant cost base) of those shares.

Sixth, proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.1) would provide that any income or profits taxes paid by or refunded to a predecessor foreign corporation that is a specified vendor in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada in respect of income, gains or losses computed in accordance with foreign tax laws that arise from the dispositions of property in the course of the foreign merger are not income or profit taxes paid by or refunded to the predecessor foreign corporation. An exception from this rule would be provided to the extent that those taxes paid by or refunded to the predecessor foreign corporation relate to income, gains or losses included in determining the amounts prescribed to be the predecessor foreign corporation's exempt or taxable earnings in respect of the taxpayer.

Finally, the rules in section 95 of the Act would be modified so that, in applying paragraph 95(2)(d.1),

- the predecessor foreign corporation's "relevant cost amount" of the distributed property in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada would be essentially the amount that would generally result in no gain or loss to the predecessor foreign corporation in respect of the taxpayer in respect of the distribution, and
- the predecessor foreign corporation's "relevant cost base" of the distributed property in respect of the taxpayer would be essentially the greater of
  - the predecessor foreign corporation's relevant cost amount of the distributed property in respect of the taxpayer, and
  - where the predecessor foreign corporation is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, the amount elected by the taxpayer (not exceeding the fair market value of the distributed property).

We propose to recommend that the above-mentioned modifications in respect of proposed paragraph 95(2)(d.l) be effective for foreign mergers that occur after December 20, 2002. A taxpayer resident in Canada could, by so electing in respect of all foreign mergers of all its foreign affiliates, opt not to have the first modification described above apply to foreign mergers that occur after December 20, 2002 and during a transition period.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Technical Notes: Paragraphs 95(2)(e) and (e.1) provide rules that apply where a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is liquidated and dissolved and property is distributed to shareholders that include other foreign affiliates of the taxpayer. Paragraph 95(2)(e.1) deals with liquidating affiliates that are substantially wholly-owned by the taxpayer and paragraph 95(2)(e) deals with those that are not.

Current paragraph 95(2)(e) provides a rollover, based on the "relevant cost base" concept, only in respect of distributed property that is shares of another foreign affiliate. Current paragraph 95(2)(e.1) provides a more broad rollover, but only in respect of capital property of the liquidating affiliate, and this rollover is based on "cost amount".

Similar to current paragraph 95(2)(d.1), current paragraph 95(2)(e.1) contains both a SEP condition and a non-recognition condition.

Paragraphs 95(2)(e) and (e.1) are being combined, with paragraph 95(2)(e) being the "survivor". In respect of liquidations of non-substantially-wholly-owned foreign affiliates, amended paragraph 95(2)(e) will now require any foreign affiliate shares disposed of by the liquidating affiliate to be excluded property in order to be eligible for a rollover. In respect of liquidations of substantially-wholly-owned foreign affiliates, the SEP and non-recognition conditions are being dropped and the new conditions for rollover treatment are contained in the new "designated liquidation and dissolution" ("DLAD") definition, which is discussed above. Where there is a DLAD, all property will now be eligible for a rollover, not just capital property, and the rollover will be based on "relevant cost base" rather than "cost amount".

The rules that apply in respect of the disposition of the liquidating affiliate's shares (referred to below as the "disposed shares") are also being significantly amended. New subparagraph 95(2)(e)(iv) sets out different computational rules that depend on whether there is an inherent gain in the shares, whether the shares are excluded property and whether the liquidation and dissolution is a DLAD.

New paragraph 95(2)(e) imports essentially the same rules that are in the currently-enacted versions of paragraphs 95(2)(e) and (e.1), but there are new rules for cases where the disposed shares have an inherent loss and the liquidation and dissolution is a DLAD. These new rules are intended to ensure that any inherent losses in respect of the disposed shares are realized by the shareholder affiliate for foreign affiliate surplus purposes. Where such loss shares are excluded property, this is achieved by virtue of the interaction between sub-subclause 95(2)(e)(iv)(A)(II)2 and subsection 5907(5) of the Regulations. Where such loss shares are not excluded property, this is achieved by subparagraph (iii) of the description of B in the "hybrid surplus" definition in subsection 5907(1) of the Regulations by reference to a special reading of subclause 95(2)(e)(iv)(A)(II) (which effectively ignores the rollover in sub-subclause 1) and the dis-application of subsection 93(4) (which would otherwise suspend the loss).

Note also the split-up of subsection 5907(5) into two subsections ((5) and (5.01)). This is done to facilitate the application of the currency conversion rule (now found in subsection 5907(5.01)) to subparagraph (iii) of the description of B in the "hybrid surplus" definition. For more details, refer to the commentary on subsections 5907(5) and (5.01) of the Regulations.

Paragraph 95(2)(e) is also being amended, in the case of a designated liquidation and dissolution, in order to ensure that

- it has continuity rules that give proper application to the various loss "suspension" rules in sections 13, 14, 18 and 40, which are discussed above; and
- the debt forgiveness rules are properly applied after the liquidation.

Amended paragraph 95(2)(e) and the repeal of paragraph 95(2)(e.1) generally apply in respect of liquidations and dissolutions that begin after August 19, 2011, but the taxpayer may elect to have these rules apply to liquidations and dissolutions that begin after December 20, 2002. Where that election is made, transitional rules apply to preserve the prospective application of the surplus reduction rules and the continuity rules relating to stop-loss and debt forgiveness.

Example

Assumptions

1. Canco, a corporation resident in Canada, owns, and has always owned, 100% of the shares of FA1, a non-resident corporation.

2. FA1 owns, and has always owned, 100% of the shares of FA2, also a non-resident corporation. FA1's adjusted cost base ("ACB") of the FA2 shares is C$1,000, the shares are not excluded property and they are held by FA1 as capital property.

3. FA2 owns, and has always owned, 100% of the shares of FA3, also a non-resident corporation. FA2's only asset is its shares of FA3 and FA2 has no liabilities. The shares of FA3 have an ACB to FA2 of C$600, a fair market value ("FMV") of C$500, and are held by FA2 as capital property.

4. FA2 is liquidated and dissolved.

Analysis

The liquidation and dissolution of FA2 qualifies as a "designated liquidation and dissolution" ("DLAD"), as defined under subsection 95(1).

Under amended subparagraph 95(2)(e)(i), the shares of FA3 are deemed to be disposed of for proceeds of disposition equal to the relevant cost base ("RCB") of the shares. In this example, because ACB exceeds FMV, there is no ability to elect under paragraph (b) of the definition of RCB in subsection 95(1). Furthermore, as the shares have always been indirectly held by Canco, the carve-out rule in paragraph 95(2)(f.1) should not be applicable. As such, the RCB of the FA3 shares to FA2 is equal to their ACB of C$600.

Under new subparagraph 95(2)(e)(iii), FA1 is deemed to have acquired the FA3 shares at a cost of C$600.

With respect to FA1's disposition of the FA2 shares on the dissolution of FA2, the provisions of subparagraph 95(2)(e)(iv) will apply. If clause 95(2)(e)(iv)(B) were applicable, the aggregate amount that would be determined under that clause is C$600. Because this amount is less than FA1's C$1,000 ACB of the FA2 shares, FA1's proceeds of disposition of the FA2 shares is determined under the provisions of subclause 95(2)(e)(iv)(A)(II). Since the FA2 shares are not excluded property, sub-subclause 95(2)(e)(iv)(A)(II)1 applies, and under this sub-subclause FA1's proceeds of disposition in respect of the FA2 shares is deemed to be FA1's ACB of those shares, i.e. C$1,000. Thus, under paragraph 95(2)(e), FA1 would have no gain or loss on the disposition of the FA2 shares with the result that no foreign accrual capital loss ("FACL") would be recognized by FA1.

However, for the purposes of computing FA1's hybrid surplus/deficit balance in respect of Canco, reference must be made to subparagraph (iii) of the description B in the definition "hybrid surplus" in subsection 5907(1). An amount is included under this subparagraph if a subject affiliate (FA1) would have a capital loss on the disposition of the shares of another foreign affiliate of Canco if the subject affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the disposed shares were determined under subclause 95(2)(e)(iv)(A)(II), read without reference to its sub-subclause 1, and section 93 were read without reference to subsection 93(4). In this example, the amount determined under subsubclause 95(2)(e)(iv)(A)(II)2 would be C$600 (i.e. the amount that would be determined under clause 95(2)(e)(iv)(B)) and, because FA1's proceeds of disposition of its FA2 shares would be C$600, FA1 would have a capital loss of C$400 on the disposition of its FA2 shares. Thus, although FA1 does not realize a FACL, this loss amount must still be deducted from FA1's hybrid surplus (or added to hybrid deficit) balance in respect of Canco.

However, if the surplus balances of FA1 are not maintained in Canadian dollars, the capital loss must be converted to the appropriate currency based on the exchange rate prevailing at the time of the disposition of the FA2 shares, as per new subsection 5907(5.01).

(i) each capital property of the disposing affiliate that was so distributed to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the disposing affiliate for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount of the property to the disposing affiliate immediately before the distribution,

(ii) for the purposes of this subsection and the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection (1), the other affiliate shall, with respect to any disposition by it of capital property to which subparagraph (i) applied, be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the disposing affiliate, and

(iii) the other affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the shares of the capital stock of the disposing affiliate disposed of in the course of the liquidation shall be deemed to be the adjusted cost base of those shares to the other affiliate immediately before the disposition;

Proposed Repeal — 95(2)(e.1)

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(10), will repeal para. 95(2)(e.1), applicable in respect of liquidations and dissolutions of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer that begin after August 19, 2011; however, if the taxpayer elects in writing under this subsection in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to, the repeal applies to liquidations and dissolutions of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, April 12, 2006:

Mr. R. Ian Crosbie, Davies Ward Phillips & Vineberg LLP, Toronto, ON

Dear Mr. Crosbie:

I am writing in response to your letters dated December 12, 2005 and January 30, 2006 with respect to proposed subsection 88(3) and paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") as contained in the foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004 by the Minister of Finance. You have requested confirmation of certain possible modifications to proposed subsection 88(3) and paragraph 95(2)(e.1) and certain other identified related provisions of the Act that would apply to a liquidation and dissolution, after February 27, 2004, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada.

Subsection 88(3) of the Act

[See under 88(3) — ed.]

Paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Act

In your correspondence, you expressed your views about two of the conditions to the application of paragraph 95(2)(e.1) to a liquidation and dissolution of a foreign affiliate (the "disposing foreign affiliate") of a taxpayer resident in Canada into another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

The first condition is the requirement that the taxpayer have a surplus entitlement percentage, in respect of the disposing foreign affiliate, of at least 90% immediately before the liquidation of the disposing foreign affiliate (the "90% SEP requirement"). You seek confirmation of our intention to recommend that, as an alternative to meeting the 90% SEP requirement, paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would be available where, immediately before the liquidation, a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer has a 90% or greater fair market value participating equity interest in the disposing foreign affiliate.

The second condition is the requirement that there be no gain or loss recognized, under the income tax laws of the country in which the disposing foreign affiliate was resident immediately before the liquidation, in respect of any property distributed by the disposing foreign affiliate in the course of the liquidation to another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (the "non-recognition requirement"). You argue for the removal of the non-recognition requirement as a precondition to the application of paragraph 95(2)(e.1) so as to permit rollover treatment in respect of all property (rather than only excluded property) of the disposing foreign affiliate disposed of to any foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in the course of the liquidation and dissolution.

In your view, where proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) applies, that rollover treatment should be provided for by deeming the disposing foreign affiliate's proceeds of disposition of the property to be, subject to a relevant cost base election by the taxpayer, the cost amount of the property to the disposing foreign affiliate immediately before the liquidation.

From a tax policy viewpoint, we are sympathetic to the requests made for such revisions to the proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1). Although the technical details of our intended recommendations for modifications in respect of proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) and to the February 2004 foreign affiliate proposals in general are still being finalized, we can confirm, in general terms, that our recommended modifications in respect of that proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Act would include the following modifications.

First, the recommended modifications to proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would remove the non-recognition requirement that is a condition to the application of that paragraph.

Second, proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would be amended to provide that it apply to a liquidation and a dissolution of a foreign affiliate (the "disposing foreign affiliate") of a taxpayer resident in Canada if one of the two following alternative tests is met by the taxpayer resident in Canada:

- The taxpayer would, immediately before the time of the earliest distribution of property by the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of shares of the capital stock of the disposing foreign affiliate in the course of the liquidation and the dissolution of the disposing foreign affiliate, have a surplus entitlement percentage in respect of the disposing foreign affiliate of not less than 90% (on the assumption that shares of the capital stock of non-resident corporations owned by any taxpayers resident in Canada and related (otherwise than by virtue of paragraph 251(5)(b) of the Act) to the taxpayer were attributed to the taxpayer.

- A foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that is a shareholder of the disposing foreign affiliate has a 90% or greater fair market value participating equity interest in the disposing foreign affiliate. It would be met if the total fair market value of the properties distributed in the course of the liquidation and dissolution by the disposing foreign affiliate to the shareholder foreign affiliate was not less than 90% of the total fair market value of the properties distributed by the disposing foreign affiliate to all of its shareholders.

Third, the recommended modifications to that proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would provide that, where that paragraph applies to a liquidation and a dissolution of the disposing foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada, the following rules would apply (except to the extent that subsection 88(3) would apply to the disposing foreign affiliate and the shareholder of the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of the distribution of the property):

- the disposing foreign affiliate would be deemed to have disposed of each property distributed, in the course of the qualifying liquidation and dissolution, to a shareholder of the disposing foreign affiliate that was, immediately before the distribution, a "specified purchaser" (within the meaning to be assigned by draft subsection 95(3.5) [originally written "95(3.3)", but Finance has confirmed it should be (3.5) — ed.]) in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada for proceeds equal to the greater of
  - the "relevant cost amount" of the distributed property to the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada (being essentially the amount that would generally result in no gain or loss to the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of the taxpayer in respect of the disposition of the distributed property), and
  - where the disposing foreign affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada, the amount elected by the taxpayer (not exceeding the fair market value of the particular distributed property);
- any gain under subsection 40(3) of the Act of the shareholder from the disposition of a particular share of the disposing foreign affiliate that was redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the disposing foreign affiliate in the course of the liquidation and the dissolution would be deemed to be nil;
- the amounts required to be determined under paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would be determined in Canadian dollars where those amounts are relevant for determining the foreign accrual property income of the disposing foreign affiliate in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada; and
- the rules listed earlier in this letter numbered as 2 to 9 would apply with necessary changes to fit the context of the shareholders of the disposing foreign affiliate being specified purchasers in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada rather than the taxpayer.

Fourth, the recommended modifications to paragraph 95(2)(e.1) would clarify that paragraph 95(2)(e.1) applies (except to the extent that subsection 88(3) applies), to the disposing foreign affiliate and its shareholders that are specified purchasers in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada, in respect of the distribution of the distributed property for the purpose of computing

- the foreign accrual property income, the surplus and tax accounts (as defined in subsection 5907 of the Income Tax Regulations) and the foreign paid-up capital, of the disposing foreign affiliate or any foreign affiliate of the taxpayer resident in Canada or any taxpayer resident in Canada that does not deal at arm's length with that taxpayer resident in Canada that are shareholders of the disposing foreign affiliate, in respect of those taxpayers, and
- the income or capital gains of a taxpayer resident in Canada that, at the time of distribution, was a specified purchaser in respect of the taxpayer resident in Canada and a shareholder (or a member of a partnership that was the shareholder) of the disposing foreign affiliate.

We propose to recommend to the Minister of Finance that these modifications to proposed paragraph 95(2)(e.1) of the Act and the related provisions apply to a liquidation and dissolution of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada that begins after December 20, 2002, except if the taxpayer makes an election that applies in respect of all liquidations and dissolutions of its foreign affiliates. If the taxpayer makes that election, generally the proposals issued on February 27, 2004 would apply.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(i) if the amount is described in subparagraph (f)(i), this Act is to be

(A) read without reference to section 26 of the Income Tax Application Rules, and

(B) applied as if, in respect of any debt obligation owing by the foreign affiliate or a partnership of which the foreign affiliate is a member (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this clause as the "debtor"), each capital gain or loss of the debtor that is deemed to arise under subsection 39(2) or (3) in respect of the debt obligation were from a disposition of property that was held by the debtor throughout the period during which the debt obligation was owed by the debtor and, for greater certainty, at the time of the disposition,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(11), will amend subpara. 95(2)(f.11)(i) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraphs 95(2)(f.11) to (f.15) provide application rules for the purposes of the foreign affiliate income, gain and loss computation rules in paragraph 95(2)(f).

Paragraph 95(2)(f.11) contains reading rules and deeming rules for the purposes of paragraph 95(2)(f).

Subparagraph 95(2)(f.11)(i) applies in respect of capital gains and losses of a foreign affiliate, as required to be computed under subparagraph 95(2)(f)(i).

Subparagraph 95(2)(f.11)(i) is being amended to add special rules in the context of capital gains and losses of a foreign affiliate from foreign currency fluctuations, as contemplated by amended subsection 39(2), and from market fluctuations, as contemplated by subsection 39(3). New clause (B) deems any subsection 39(2) or (3) capital gains and losses that arise in respect of debt obligations owing by a relevant debtor to be dispositions of property held by the debtor during the time the debt obligation was owed.

The amendments to subparagraph 95(2)(f.11)(i) — together with the amendment of subsection 39(2) which, among other things, creates a separate capital gain or loss for each "gain made" or "loss sustained" by a foreign affiliate — are being made to ensure that the "carve-out" rule in paragraph 95(2)(f.1) applies in respect of capital gains and losses from debt obligations of a foreign affiliate. Thus, any such capital gains and losses that accrue prior to the foreign affiliate becoming a "specified person or partnership" (as defined in subsection 95(1)) in respect of the taxpayer are to be carved-out in determining the amount of a capital gain or loss under subparagraph 95(2)(f)(i). (For more information on the amendment to subsection 39(2), refer to the above commentary for that provision.)

Subparagraph 95(2)(f.11)(ii) applies in respect of income or loss from property and non-active businesses of a foreign affiliate, as required to be computed under subparagraph 95(2)(f)(ii).

Subparagraph 95(2)(f.11)(ii) is being amended to add a new clause (C) that will perform a similar function to new clause 95(2)(f.11)(i)(B), as discussed above, but in respect of gains and losses on income account that arise in the context of businesses other than active businesses and non-qualifying businesses carried on, and property held, by a foreign affiliate.

(ii) if the amount is described in subparagraph (f)(ii),

(A) this Act is to be read without reference to subsections 14(1.01) to (1.03), 17(1) and 18(4) and section 91, except that, where the foreign affiliate is a member of a partnership, section 91 is to be applied to determine the income or loss of the partnership and for that purpose subsection 96(1) is to be applied to determine the foreign affiliate's share of that income or loss of the partnership, and

(B) if the foreign affiliate has, in the taxation year, disposed of a foreign resource property in respect of a country, it is deemed to have designated, in respect of the disposition and in accordance with subparagraph 59(1)(b)(ii) for the taxation year, the amount, if any, by which

(I) the amount determined under paragraph 59(1)(a) in respect of the disposition

exceeds

(II) the amount determined under subparagraph 59(1)(b)(i) in respect of the disposition;

Proposed Addition — 95(2)(f.11)(ii)(C)

(C) this Act is to be applied as if, in respect of any debt obligation owing by the foreign affiliate or a partnership of which the foreign affiliate is a member (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this clause as the "debtor"), each amount of income or loss of the debtor — from a property, from a business other than an active business or from a non-qualifying business — in respect of the debt obligation were from such a property that was held, or such a business that was carried on, as the case may be, by the debtor throughout the period during which the debt obligation was owed by the debtor and at the time at which the debt obligation was settled or extinguished;

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(12), will add cl. 95(2)(f.11)(ii)(C), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: See under 95(2)(f.11)(i).

Related Provisions: 95(2)(e.1)(ii) — Windup — continuation of affiliate; 95(2)(f.12)–(f.15) — Currency to be used in calculations; 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest; 261 — Functional currency reporting.

(f.12) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall determine each of the following amounts using its calculating currency for a taxation year:

(i) subject to paragraph (f.13), each capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain and allowable capital loss of the foreign affiliate for the taxation year from the disposition, at any time, of a property that, at that time, was an excluded property of the foreign affiliate,

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(f.12)(i)

(i) subject to paragraph (f.13), each capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain and allowable capital loss of the foreign affiliate for the taxation year from the disposition, at any time, of a property that, at that time, would, if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (i), be excluded property of the foreign affiliate,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(13), will amend subpara. 95(2)(f.12)(i) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(f.12) sets out various computations that are required to be made in a foreign affiliate's "calculating currency" (as defined in subsection 95(1)). Subparagraph (i) of that paragraph deals with capital gains and losses from the disposition of "excluded property" (as defined in subsection 95(1)).

Subparagraph 95(2)(f.12)(i) is being amended to require the determination of "excluded property" status to be made without reference to paragraph 95(2)(i). The latter paragraph deems, among other things, certain gains and losses of a foreign affiliate from the disposition of certain debt obligations to be from dispositions of "excluded property". This amendment, along with the amendment to paragraph 95(2)(f.15) that is discussed below, is intended to clarify the application of paragraphs 95(2)(f) and (i) in the context of foreign currency gains and losses in respect of certain debt obligations of a foreign affiliate.

(ii) its income or loss for the taxation year from each active business carried on by it in the taxation year in a country, and

(iii) its income or loss that is included in computing its income or loss from an active business for the taxation year because of paragraph (a);

Related Provisions: 95(2)(f.13)-(f.15) — Rules; 261(5)(e), 261(5)(h)(i) — Functional currency reporting.

(f.13) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — where the calculating currency of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is a currency other than Canadian currency, the foreign affiliate shall determine the amount included in computing its foreign accrual property income, in respect of the taxpayer for a taxation year of the foreign affiliate, attributable to its capital gain or taxable capital gain, from the disposition of an excluded property in the taxation year, in Canadian currency by converting the amount of the capital gain, or taxable capital gain, otherwise determined under subparagraph (f.12)(i) using its calculating currency for the taxation year into Canadian currency using the rate of exchange quoted by the Bank of Canada at noon on the day on which the disposition was made;

Related Provisions: 261(5)(h) — Functional currency reporting.

(f.14) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall determine using Canadian currency each amount of its income, loss, capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss for a taxation year, other than an amount to which paragraph (f.12) or (f.13) applies;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(f.14)

(f.14) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer shall determine using Canadian currency each amount of its income, loss, capital gain, capital loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss for a taxation year, other than an amount to which paragraph (f.12), (f.13) or (f.15) applies;

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(14), will amend para. 95(2)(f.14) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(f.14) provides a catch-all rule that requires all income, gains and losses of a foreign affiliate to be computed in Canadian currency unless they are covered by paragraphs 95(2)(f.12) or (f.13).

Paragraph 95(2)(f.14) is being amended as a consequence of the amendments to paragraphs 95(2)(f.12) and (f.15) to add a reference to the latter paragraph.

Related Provisions: 261(5)(h)(i)(A) — Functional currency reporting — meaning of "Canadian currency".

(f.15) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — for the purpose of applying subparagraph (f.12)(i), the reference in subsection 39(2) to "the currency or currencies of one or more countries other than Canada relative to Canadian currency" is to be read as a reference to "one or more currencies other than the calculating currency relative to the calculating currency" and the references in that subsection to "of a country other than Canada" are to be read as references to "other than the calculating currency";

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(f.15)

(f.15) [currency to be used for foreign affiliate] — for the purposes of applying paragraph (f)(i) in respect of a debt obligation owing by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, or a partnership of which the foreign affiliate is a member, that is a debt referred to in subparagraph (i)(i) or (ii) and for the purposes of applying paragraph (f.12)(i)

(i) the references in subsection 39(2) to "Canadian currency" are to be read as "the taxpayer's calculating currency", and

(ii) the reference in the definition "foreign currency debt" in subsection 111(8), as that definition applies for the purposes of subsection 39(2), to "currency of a country other than Canada" is to be read as "currency other than the taxpayer's calculating currency";

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(14), will amend para. 95(2)(f.15) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(f.15) provides a "reading rule" for the application of subsection 39(2) where a foreign affiliate is required to determine the foreign exchange gains and losses contemplated by that subsection in its "calculating currency", as provided by current subparagraph 95(2)(f.12)(i).

Paragraph 95(2)(f.15) is being amended, along with paragraph 95(2)(f.12), as discussed above, in order to clarify the application of paragraphs 95(2)(f) and (i) in the context of foreign currency gains and losses in respect of debt obligations of a foreign affiliate. Amended paragraph 95(2)(f.15) makes direct reference to the types of amounts owing by a foreign affiliate, as set out in subparagraphs 95(2)(i)(i) and (ii), that are intended to be subject to the "calculating currency" rules for computing gains and losses. This is aimed at removing the circularity in the determination of the quantum or existence of a gain or loss from foreign currency fluctuations in respect of those types of amounts owing.

Paragraph 95(2)(f.15) is also being amended consequential to the amendments to subsection 39(2), which are discussed above. In particular, a reading rule is being added for the definition "foreign currency debt" in subsection 111(8), as that definition applies for the purposes of subsection 39(2).

As a result of these amendments, it should now be clear that the determination of such gains and losses is to be done in the following order:

- First, the taxpayer establishes that it has an amount owing that is covered by subparagraph 95(2)(i)(i) or (ii);
- Second, the reading rule in paragraph 95(2)(f.15) applies to replace references in subsection 39(2) to "Canadian currency" with references to "calculating currency";
- Third, the gain or loss under subparagraph 95(2)(f)(i) is determined using the special reading of subsection 39(2); and
- Fourth, the carve-out rule in paragraph 95(2)(f.1) is applied.

Related Provisions: 261(5)(e), (5)(h)(i) — Functional currency reporting.

Proposed Non-Addition — 95(2)(f.3)–(f.94)

Technical Notes, Aug. 19, 2011: Foreign Affiliate Amendments — Overview. . .

This legislative package represents the Department of Finance's final tranche of revisions to the 2004 Proposals. As such, it is notable that the following provisions that were introduced as part of the 2004 Proposals are being abandoned: . . .

- The suspension of gains from the disposition of excluded property (previously proposed in the paragraph (c.1) and (f.3) series of proposals in subsection 95(2));
- The deemed cost rules for non-resident corporations that become foreign affiliates (previously proposed in paragraphs (f.91) to (f.93) of subsection 95(2)); . . .

(g) [currency fluctuation] — income earned, a loss incurred or a capital gain or capital loss realized, as the case may be, in a taxation year by a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the taxation year or a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer throughout the taxation year, because of a fluctuation in the value of the currency of a country other than Canada relative to the value of Canadian currency, is deemed to be nil if it is earned, incurred or realized in reference to any of the following sources:

(i) a debt obligation that was owing to

(A) another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year (which other foreign affiliate is referred to in this paragraph as a "qualified foreign affiliate") by the particular affiliate, or

(B) the particular affiliate by a qualified foreign affiliate,

(ii) the redemption, cancellation or acquisition of a share of the capital stock of, or the reduction of the capital of, the particular affiliate or a qualified foreign affiliate (which particular affiliate or which qualified foreign affiliate is referred to in this subparagraph as the "issuing corporation") by the issuing corporation, or

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(g)(ii)

(ii) the redemption, acquisition or cancellation of a share of the capital stock of a qualified foreign affiliate by the qualified foreign affiliate, or

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(15), will amend subpara. 95(2)(g)(ii) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(g) deems certain foreign exchange gains and losses realized by a foreign affiliate to be nil. Among other things, this provision applies to foreign exchange gains and losses of a foreign affiliate that arise on the redemption of its shares, or the reduction of its capital, pursuant to subparagraph (ii).

Subparagraph 95(2)(g)(ii) is being amended to remove the reference to a redemption, cancellation or acquisition of shares by the issuing affiliate. This amendment is consequential to the amendment to subsection 39(2) that ensures that an issuing corporation can only realize foreign exchange gains and losses in respect of its debt obligations and not in respect of its shares.

Subparagraph 95(2)(g)(ii) is also being amended to remove the reference to a reduction of capital of a foreign affiliate. This amendment is consequential to the amendment to paragraph 53(2)(b), as discussed above, which eliminates the concept of a return of capital by a foreign affiliate.

(iii) the disposition to a qualified foreign affiliate of a share of the capital stock of another qualified foreign affiliate;

(g.01) any income, loss, capital gain or capital loss, derived by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer under or as a result of an agreement that provides for the purchase, sale or exchange of currency and that can reasonably be considered to have been made by the foreign affiliate to reduce its risk (with respect to any source, any particular income, gain or loss determined in reference to which is deemed by paragraph (g) to be nil) of fluctuations in the value of currency, is, to the extent of the absolute value of the particular income, gain or loss, deemed to be nil;

(g.02) in applying subsection 39(2) for the purpose of this subdivision (other than sections 94 and 94.1), the gains and losses of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of excluded property are to be computed in respect of the taxpayer separately from the gains and losses of the foreign affiliate in respect of property that is not excluded property;

Proposed Repeal — 95(2)(g.02)

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(16), will repeal para. 95(2)(g.02), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(g.02) provides that, in applying subsection 39(2) in the computation of gains and losses of a foreign affiliate, those gains and losses that are in respect of excluded property are to be computed separately from gains and losses in respect of non-excluded property.

Paragraph 95(2)(g.02) is being repealed as a consequence of the amendments to subsection 39(2) which, among other things, will require that each foreign exchange capital gain or loss of a foreign affiliate be determined separately.

(g.03) [application of 95(2)(g) to partners] — if at any time a particular foreign affiliate referred to in paragraph (g) is a member of a partnership or a qualified foreign affiliate referred to in that paragraph is a member of a partnership,

(i) in applying this paragraph, where a debt obligation is owing at that time by a debtor to the partnership of which the particular foreign affiliate is a member, the debt obligation is deemed to be owing at that time by the debtor to the particular foreign affiliate in the proportion that the particular foreign affiliate shared in any income earned, loss incurred or capital gain or capital loss realized by the partnership in respect of the debt obligation,

(ii) in applying this paragraph, where a debt obligation is owing at that time to a creditor by the partnership of which the particular foreign affiliate is a member, the debt obligation is deemed to be owing at that time to the creditor by the particular foreign affiliate in the proportion that the particular foreign affiliate shared in any income earned, loss incurred or capital gain or capital loss realized by the partnership in respect of the debt obligation,

(iii) in applying paragraph (g) and this paragraph, where a debt obligation is owing at that time by a debtor to the partnership of which the qualified foreign affiliate is a member, the debt obligation is deemed to be owing at that time by the debtor to the qualified foreign affiliate in the proportion that the qualified foreign affiliate shared in any income earned, loss incurred or capital gain or capital loss realized by the partnership in respect of the debt obligation,

(iv) in applying paragraph (g) and this paragraph, where a debt obligation is owing at that time to a creditor by the partnership of which the qualified foreign affiliate is a member, the debt obligation is deemed to be owing at that time to the creditor by the qualified foreign affiliate in the proportion that the qualified foreign affiliate shared in any income earned, loss incurred or capital gain or capital loss realized by the partnership in respect of the debt obligation, and

(v) in computing the particular foreign affiliate's income or loss from a partnership, any income earned, loss incurred or capital gain or capital loss realized, as the case may be, by the partnership — in respect of the portion of a debt obligation owing to or owing by the partnership that is deemed by any of subparagraphs (i) to (iv) to be a debt obligation owing to or owing by the particular foreign affiliate (referred to in this subparagraph as the "allocated debt obligation") — because of a fluctuation in the value of the currency of a country other than Canada relative to the value of Canadian currency, that is attributable to the allocated debt obligation is deemed to be nil to the extent that paragraph (g) would, if the rules in subparagraphs (i) to (iv) were applied, have applied to the particular foreign affiliate, to deem to be nil the income earned, loss incurred or capital gain or capital loss realized, as the case may be, by the particular foreign affiliate in respect of the allocated debt obligation, because of a fluctuation in the value of the currency of a country other than Canada relative to the value of Canadian currency;

(g.1) [debt forgiveness rules] — in computing the foreign accrual property income of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer the Act shall be read

(i) as if the expression "income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada, as the case may be" in the definition "commercial debt obligation" in subsection 80(1) were read as "foreign accrual property income (within the meaning assigned by subsection 95(1))", and

(ii) without reference to subsections 80(3) to (12) and (15) and 80.01(5) to (11) and sections 80.02 to 80.04;

(g.2) [foreign spin-off election] — for the purpose of computing the foreign accrual property income of a foreign affiliate of any taxpayer resident in Canada for a taxation year of the affiliate, an election made pursuant to paragraph 86.1(2)(f) in respect of a distribution received by the affiliate in a particular taxation year of the affiliate is deemed to have been filed under that paragraph by the affiliate if

(i) where there is only one taxpayer resident in Canada in respect of whom the affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate, the election is filed by the taxpayer with the taxpayer's return of income for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the particular year of the affiliate ends, and

(ii) where there is more than one taxpayer resident in Canada in respect of whom the affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate, all of those taxpayers jointly elect in writing and each of them files the joint election with the Minister with their return of income for their taxation year in which the particular year of the affiliate ends;

Proposed Non-Addition — 95(2)(h)-(h.5)

Technical Notes, Aug. 19, 2011: Foreign Affiliate Amendments — Overview. . .

This legislative package represents the Department of Finance's final tranche of revisions to the 2004 Proposals. As such, it is notable that the following provisions that were introduced as part of the 2004 Proposals are being abandoned: . . .

- The suspension of losses from the disposition of non-excluded property (previously proposed in the paragraph (h) series of proposals in subsection 95(2)); . . .

(i) [settlement of debt relating to excluded property] — any income, gain or loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer or of a partnership of which a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer is a member (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this paragraph as the "debtor"), for a taxation year or fiscal period of the debtor, as the case may be, is deemed to be income, a gain or a loss, as the case may be, from the disposition of an excluded property of the debtor, if the income, gain or loss is

(i) derived from the settlement or extinguishment of a debt of the debtor all or substantially all of the proceeds from which

(A) were used to acquire property, if at all times after the time at which the debt became debt of the debtor and before the time of that settlement or extinguishment, the property (or property substituted for the property) was property of the debtor and was, or would if the debtor were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer be, excluded property of the debtor,

(B) were used at all times to earn income from an active business carried on by the debtor, or

(C) were used by the debtor for a combination of the uses described in clause (A) or (B),

(ii) derived from the settlement or extinguishment of a debt of the debtor all or substantially all of the proceeds from which were used to settle or extinguish a debt referred to in subparagraph (i) or in this subparagraph, or

(iii) derived under or as a result of an agreement that provides for the purchase, sale or exchange of currency and that can reasonably be considered to have been made by the debtor to reduce its risk, with respect to a debt referred to in subparagraph (i) or (ii), of fluctuations in the value of the currency in which the debt was denominated;

(j) [ACB of partnership interest] — the adjusted cost base to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer of an interest in a partnership at any time shall be such amount as is prescribed by regulation;

Regulations: 5907(12) [to be repealed], 5908(10).

Proposed Addition — 95(2)(j.1), (j.2)

(j.1) [conditions for para. (j.2) to apply] — paragraph (j.2) applies if, in a particular taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer or in a particular fiscal period of a partnership (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (j.2) as the "operator" and which particular taxation year or particular fiscal period is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (j.2) as the "specified taxation year") a member of which is, at the end of the period, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer,

(i) the operator carries on a business,

(ii) the business includes the insuring of risks,

(iii) the business is not, at any time, a taxable Canadian business,

(iv) the business is

(A) an investment business,

(B) a non-qualifying business, or

(C) a business whose activities include activities deemed by paragraph (a.2) or (b) to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, and

(v) in respect of the investment business, non-qualifying business or separate business (each of these businesses being referred to in this subparagraph and paragraph (j.2) as a "foreign business"), as the case may be, the operator would, if it were a corporation carrying on the foreign business in Canada, be required by law to report to, and be subject to the supervision of, a regulatory authority that is the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or is a similar authority of a province;

Related Provisions: 95(2)(k.2) — Portion of business carried on in Canada deemed separate business; 95(2)(u) [until 2011] — Tiers of partnerships.

(j.2) [policy reserves in respect of insurance business] — if this paragraph applies, in computing the operator's income or loss from the foreign business for the specified taxation year and each subsequent taxation year or fiscal period in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator

(i) the operator is deemed to carry on the foreign business in Canada throughout that part of the specified taxation year, and of each of those subsequent taxation years or fiscal periods, in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator, and

(ii) for the purposes of Part XIV of the Income Tax Regulations,

(A) the operator is deemed to be required by law to report to, and to be subject to the supervision of, the regulatory authority referred to in subparagraph (j.1)(v), and

(B) if the operator is a life insurer and the foreign business is part of a life insurance business, the life insurance policies issued in the conduct of the foreign business are deemed to be life insurance policies in Canada;

Related Provisions: 95(2)(j.1) — Condition for para. (j.2) to apply, and meaning of "operator" and "specified taxation year"; 95(2)(u) [until 2011] — Tiers of partnerships.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(18), will add paras. 95(2)(j.1) and (j.2), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002; however,

(a) in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin before August 19, 2011,

(i) subpara. 95(2)(j.1)(iv) is to be read without reference to its cl. (B), and

(ii) subpara. 95(2)(j.1)(v) is to be read as follows:

(v) in respect of the investment business or separate business (each of these businesses being referred to in this subparagraph and paragraph (j.2) as a "foreign business"), as the case may be, the operator would, if it were a corporation carrying on the foreign business in Canada, be required by law to report to, and be subject to the supervision of, a regulatory authority that is the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province;

(b) if the taxpayer elects in writing under this paragraph in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to, this addition, with para. 95(2)(j.1) being read as required by subparas. (a)(i) and (ii) above, also applies in respect of taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1994 and before December 21, 2002.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: New paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) and (j.2) are being added to ensure that a foreign affiliate that carries on an insurance business, whether directly or through a partnership, is eligible to claim certain policy reserves in computing its foreign accrual property income. These rules have many similarities to the "fresh start" rules in paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1), as discussed below, but one important difference is that the (j.1) and (j.2) rules can apply regardless of whether the insurance business went through a transition from active to passive.

These new paragraphs apply to foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after December 20, 2002. However, taxpayers may elect to have these rules, as well as the "fresh start" rules in paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1), apply to foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after 1994.

(k) [change in business — fresh start rule] — where, in a particular taxation year, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer

(i) carries on an investment business outside Canada and, in the preceding taxation year, that business was not an investment business of the affiliate (or the definition "investment business" in subsection (1) did not apply in respect of the business in the preceding taxation year), or

(ii) is deemed by paragraph (a.1), (a.2), (a.3) or (a.4) to carry on a separate business, other than an active business, and, in the preceding taxation year, that paragraph did not apply to deem the affiliate to be carrying on that separate business, for the purpose of computing the income of the affiliate from the investment business or the separate business as the case may be (in this subsection referred to as the "foreign business") for the particular year and each subsequent taxation year in which the foreign business is carried on,

(iii) the affiliate shall be deemed

(A) to have begun to carry on the foreign business in Canada at the later of the time the particular year began or the time that it began to carry on the foreign business, and

(B) to have carried on the foreign business in Canada throughout that part of the particular year and each such subsequent taxation year in which the foreign business was carried on by it,

(iv) where the foreign business of the affiliate is a business in respect of which, if the foreign business were carried on in Canada, the affiliate would be required by law to report to a regulating authority in Canada such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province, the affiliate shall be deemed to have been required by law to report to and to have been subject to the supervision of such regulating authority, and

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(k)(iv) [temporary]

(iv) if the foreign business of the affiliate is a business in respect of which the affiliate would, if the foreign business were carried on in Canada, be required by law to report to a regulating authority in Canada such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province,

(A) the affiliate is deemed to be required by law to report to and to be subject to the supervision of such regulating authority, and

(B) if the affiliate is a life insurer and the foreign business of the affiliate is a life insurance business, the life insurance policies issued in the conduct of that business are deemed to be life insurance policies in Canada, and

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(17), will amend subpara. 95(2)(k)(iv) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1999.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: See under proposed 95(2)(k)-(k.2).

(v) paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (f) apply to the affiliate for the particular year in respect of the foreign business as if

(A) the affiliate were the insurer referred to in subsection 138(11.91),

(B) the particular year of the affiliate were the particular year of the insurer referred to in that subsection, and

(C) the foreign business of the affiliate were the business of the insurer referred to in that subsection;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(k)-(k.2)

(k) [conditions for para. (k.1) to apply] — paragraph (k.1) applies if

(i) in a particular taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer or in a particular fiscal period of a partnership (which foreign affiliate or partnership is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (k.1) as the "operator" and which particular taxation year or particular fiscal period is referred to in this paragraph and paragraph (k.1) as the "specified taxation year") a member of which is, at the end of the period, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer,

(A) the operator carries on a business,

(B) the business is not, at any time, a taxable Canadian business, and

(C) the business is

(I) an investment business,

(II) a non-qualifying business,

(III) a business whose activities include activities deemed by any of paragraphs (a.1) to (b) to be a separate business, other than an active business, carried on by the affiliate, or

(IV) a business the income from which is included by paragraph (l) in computing the affiliate's income from property for the specified taxation year, and

(ii) in the taxation year of the affiliate or the fiscal period of the partnership that includes the day that is immediately before the beginning of the specified taxation year,

(A) the affiliate or partnership carried on the business, or the activities so deemed to be a separate business, as the case may be,

(B) the business was not, or the activities were not, as the case may be, at any time, part of a taxable Canadian business, and

(C) the business was not described in any of subclauses (i)(C)(I), (II) and (IV), or the activities were not described in subclause (i)(C)(III), as the case may be;

(k.1) [change in business — fresh start rule] — if this paragraph applies, in computing the operator's income or loss from the investment business, non-qualifying business, separate business or business described in paragraph (l) (each of these businesses being referred to in this paragraph as a "foreign business"), as the case may be, and the operator's capital gain or capital loss from the disposition of property used or held in the course of carrying on the foreign business, for the specified taxation year and each subsequent taxation year or fiscal period in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator

(i) the operator is deemed

(A) to have begun to carry on the foreign business in Canada at the beginning of the specified taxation year, and

(B) to carry on the foreign business in Canada throughout that part of the specified taxation year, and of each of those subsequent taxation years or fiscal periods, in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator,

(ii) where, in respect of the foreign business, the operator would, if it were a corporation carrying on the foreign business in Canada, be required by law to report to, and be subject to the supervision of, a regulatory authority that is the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or is a similar authority of a province,

(A) the operator is deemed to be required by law to report to, and to be subject to the supervision of, the regulatory authority, and

(B) if the operator is a life insurer and the foreign business is part of a life insurance business, the life insurance policies issued in the conduct of the foreign business are deemed to be life insurance policies in Canada, and

(iii) paragraphs 138(11.91)(c) to (e) apply to the operator for the specified taxation year in respect of the foreign business as if

(A) the operator were the insurer referred to in subsection 138(11.91),

(B) the specified taxation year of the operator were the particular taxation year of the insurer referred to in that subsection,

(C) the foreign business of the operator were the business of the insurer referred to in that subsection, and

(D) the reference in paragraph 138(11.91)(e) to "property owned by it at that time that is designated insurance property in respect of the business" were read as "property owned or held by it at that time that is used or held by it in the particular taxation year in the course of carrying on the insurance business";

Related Provisions: 95(2)(k) — Conditions for para. (k.1) to apply, and meaning of "operator" and "specified taxation year"; 95(2)(k.2) — Portion of business carried on in Canada deemed separate business.

Regulations: 5907(2.9) (computation of earnings for preceding taxation year).

(k.2) [fresh start rule — portion of business in Canada deemed separate] — for the purposes of paragraphs (j.1) to (k.1) and the definition "taxable Canadian business" in subsection (1), any portion of a business carried on by a person or partnership that is carried on in Canada is deemed to be a business that is separate from any other portion of the business carried on by the person or partnership;

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(18), will amend para. 95(2)(k) to read as above and add paras. (k.1) and (k.2), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002; however,

(a) in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin before August 19, 2011,

(i) cl. 95(2)(k)(i)(C) is to be read without reference to its subcl. (II),

(ii) cl. 95(2)(k)(ii)(C) is to be read as follows:

(C) the business was not described in subclause (i)(C)(I) or (IV) or the activities were not described in subclause (i)(C)(III);

(iii) the opening words of para. 95(2)(k.1) are to be read as follows:

(k.1) if this paragraph applies, in computing the operator's income or loss from the investment business, separate business or business referred to in paragraph (l) (each of these businesses being referred to in this paragraph as a "foreign business"), as the case may be, and the operator's capital gain or capital loss from the disposition of property used or held in the course of carrying on the foreign business, for the specified taxation year and each subsequent taxation year or fiscal period in which the foreign business is carried on by the operator

(b) if the taxpayer elects in writing under this paragraph in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to,

(i) this amendment, with para. 95(2)(k) and (k.1) being read as required by subparas. (a)(i)-(iii) above, also applies in respect of taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1994 and before December 21, 2002, and

(ii) in applying subpara. 95(2)(k)(ii) in respect of taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1994 and before December 21, 2002, that subpara. is to be read as follows:

(ii) both

(A) in the taxation year of the affiliate or the fiscal period of the partnership that includes the day that is immediately before the beginning of the specified taxation year,

(I) the affiliate or partnership carried on the business, or the activities deemed to be a separate business, as the case may be,

(II) the business was not, or the activities were not, as the case may be, at any time, part of a taxable Canadian business, and

(III) the business was not described in subclause (i)(C)(IV), or the activities were not described in subclause (i)(C)(III), as the case may be, and

(B) in the case of the business, if any, either

(I) the business was not described in subclause (i)(C)(I) in that taxation year or fiscal period, or

(II) the definition "investment business" in subsection (1) did not apply in respect of that taxation year or fiscal period:

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(k) provides rules that apply to a foreign affiliate in respect of a business (the "foreign business") that is considered to be an investment business as defined in subsection 95(1) or a separate business other than an active business under paragraphs 95(2)(a.1), (a.2), (a.3) or (a.4). It provides rules for computing the income of the affiliate from the foreign business for the first and subsequent taxation years in which such business is considered to be carried on.

These so-called "fresh start" rules ensure that income or losses accruing in prior periods do not enter into the income calculations for the foreign business in the particular taxation year or in subsequent taxation years. This is done, in part, by deeming a disposition and reacquisition of property used or held in the foreign business immediately before the beginning of the particular taxation year. These deemed disposition rules also provide a starting point to transition the computation of the income from the foreign business to Canadian tax rules. There is also a specific rule that deems the foreign affiliate to be subject to the supervision of a regulating authority in order to permit the foreign affiliate to claim certain reserves in respect of insurance policies in connection with the foreign business.

A number of amendments are being made to these fresh start rules. In particular, paragraph 95(2)(k) is being divided into two paragraphs, 95(2)(k) and (k.1). Amended paragraph (k) defines the circumstances in which the fresh start rules apply, and new paragraph (k.1) contains the substantive provisions of the fresh start rules. The substantive amendments to the fresh start rules can be summarized as follows:

- First, the amendments ensure that the fresh start rules apply not only if the particular business is carried on by a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, but also if the particular business is carried on by a partnership of which a foreign affiliate is a member. These amendments ensure, in the case of partnerships, that the fresh start rules will work on the basis of fiscal periods of the partnership and will therefore be relevant in the computation of the foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income for the foreign affiliate's taxation year that includes a fiscal period to which the fresh start rules apply. In these paragraphs, the expression "operator" refers to the foreign affiliate (if the foreign affiliate directly carries on the particular business) or to the partnership (if the foreign affiliate carries on the particular business through the partnership).
- Second, the amendments ensure that the fresh start rules are no longer triggered if the operator begins to carry on the particular business in the specified taxation year, i.e. where it did not carry on the particular business in the preceding taxation year. In other words, there has to be a transition, whether by way of the business changing its nature or by the non-resident corporation becoming a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, in order for the fresh start rules to apply. However, it is possible that, in situations where there is no transition, new paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) and (j.2) may apply. For further detail, see the commentary to those new paragraphs.
- Third, the amendments expand the types of businesses to which these rules apply to include a non-qualifying business (as defined in subsection 95(1)) and businesses to which either paragraph 95(2)(b) or (l) applies.
- Fourth, new paragraph 95(2)(k) introduces an exception for a "taxable Canadian business". This exception is being introduced because there is no need for a "fresh start" transition of such a business to Canadian tax rules — it is already subject to Canadian tax rules. For more details, see the above commentary for the new definition "taxable Canadian business" in subsection 95(1).
- Fifth, new paragraph 95(2)(k.1) provides (in clause (ii)(B)) a new deeming rule for life insurance businesses. The deeming rule allows certain policy reserves to be claimed by deeming life insurance policies issued in the conduct of the business to be life insurance policies in Canada.
- Sixth, new paragraph 95(2)(k.1) clarifies (in clause (iii)(D)) the intended link to paragraph 138(11.91)(e).
- Finally, as a consequence of the repeal of paragraph 138(11.91)(f), the reference in current subparagraph 95(2)(k)(v) to paragraph 138(11.91)(f) is removed from new subparagraph 95(2)(k.1)(iii).

New paragraphs 95(2)(k) and (k.1) apply to foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after December 20, 2002. However, taxpayers can elect to have them, as well as new paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) and (j.2) and the new definition "taxable Canadian business" in subsection 95(1), apply to all of their foreign affiliates for foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after 1994. There are also a number of transitional rules.

Note also that subclause 16(17) of these legislative proposals ensures that the "life insurance policies in Canada" deeming rule applies for foreign affiliate taxation years ending after 1999 regardless of whether the taxpayer makes the retroactive election to have all of the paragraph 95(2)(j.1) to (k.1) rules apply from 1995 forward. Where the latter election is not made, this rule will be contained in clause 95(2)(k)(iv)(B), as enacted by subclause 16(17), and applicable for foreign affiliate taxation years ending after 1999; where it is made, subclause 16(17) will be overridden by subclause 16(18) which will enact the same rule in clause 95(2)(k.1)(ii)(B), applicable to foreign affiliate taxation years beginning after 1994. In either case, clause 95(2)(k.1)(ii)(B), as enacted by subclause 16(18), will apply to foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after December 20, 2002.

New paragraph 95(2)(k.2) is an interpretive rule for the purposes of paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) to (k.1) and the definition "taxable Canadian business" in subsection 95(1). It applies in situations where it may otherwise be considered that operations carried on partly in Canada and partly outside Canada form a single business of a foreign affiliate. In order to make the rules in paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) to (k.1) apply properly, any part of such a business that is carried on in Canada is, under paragraph 95(2)(k.2), deemed to be a separate business.

New paragraph 95(2)(k.2) applies on the same basis as the amendments to paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) to (k.1), as discussed above.

Technical Notes, Aug. 19, 2011: Foreign Affiliate Amendments — Overview. . .

This legislative package represents the Department of Finance's final tranche of revisions to the 2004 Proposals. As such, it is notable that the following provisions that were introduced as part of the 2004 Proposals are being abandoned: . . .

- The so-called "reverse fresh start" rules (previously proposed in paragraphs (k.2) and (k.3) of subsection 95(2)).

Related Provisions: 95(2)(k.2) — Portion of business carried on in Canada deemed separate business; 95(2)(u) [until 2011] — Tiers of partnerships; 253 — Whether business carried on in Canada.

Regulations: 5907(2.9) (computation of earnings for preceding taxation year).

(l) [trading or dealing in debt] — in computing the income from property for a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer there shall be included the income of the affiliate for the year from a business (other than an investment business of the affiliate) the principal purpose of which is to derive income from trading or dealing in indebtedness (which for the purpose of this paragraph includes the earning of interest on indebtedness) other than

(i) indebtedness owing by persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length who are resident in the country in which the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on, or

(ii) trade accounts receivable owing by persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length,

(iii) the business is carried on by the affiliate as a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities, the activities of which are regulated under the laws

(A) of each country in which the business is carried on through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in that country and of the country under whose laws the affiliate is governed and any of exists, was (unless the affiliate was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued,

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(l)(iii)(A)

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 33(4), will amend cl. 95(2)(l)(iii)(A) to substitute "establishment in that country" for "establishment (as defined by regulation) in that country", applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to and would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): See under 95(1)"investment business"(a)(i)(A).

(B) of the country in which the business is principally carried on, or

(C) if the affiliate is related to a non-resident corporation, of the country under whose laws that non-resident corporation is governed and any of exists, was (unless that non-resident corporation was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued, if those regulating laws are recognized under the laws of the country in which the business is principally carried on and all of those countries are members of the European Union, and

(iv) the taxpayer is

(A) a bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities resident in Canada, the business activities of which are subject by law to the supervision of a regulating authority such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province,

(C) a corporation of which a corporation described in clause (A) is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation;

Related Provisions: 253 — Whether business carried on in Canada.

Regulations: 5906(2)(b) (permanent establishment, for 95(2)(l)(iii)(A)).

(m) ["qualifying interest"] — a taxpayer has a qualifying interest in respect of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer at any time if, at that time, the taxpayer owned

(i) not less than 10% of the issued and outstanding shares (having full voting rights under all circumstances) of the affiliate, and

(ii) shares of the affiliate having a fair market value of not less than 10% of the fair market value of all the issued and outstanding shares of the affiliate and for the purpose of this paragraph

(iii) where, at any time, shares of a corporation are owned or are deemed for the purposes of this paragraph to be owned by another corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "holding corporation"), those shares shall be deemed to be owned at that time by each shareholder of the holding corporation in a proportion equal to the proportion of all such shares that

(A) the fair market value of the shares of the holding corporation owned at that time by the shareholder

is of

(B) the fair market value of all the issued shares of the holding corporation outstanding at that time,

(iv) where, at any time, shares of a corporation are property of a partnership or are deemed for the purposes of this paragraph to be property of a partnership, those shares shall be deemed to be owned at that time by each member of the partnership in a proportion equal to the proportion of all such shares that

(A) the member's share of the income or loss of the partnership for its fiscal period that includes that time

is of

(B) the income or loss of the partnership for its fiscal period that includes that time and for the purpose of this subparagraph, where the income and loss of the partnership for its fiscal period that includes that time are nil, that proportion shall be computed as if the partnership had income for the period in the amount of $1,000,000, and

(v) where, at any time, a person is a holder of convertible property issued by the affiliate before June 23, 1994 the terms of which confer on the holder the right to exchange the convertible property for shares of the affiliate and the taxpayer elects in its return of income for its first taxation year that ends after 1994 to have the provisions of this subparagraph apply to the taxpayer in respect of all the convertible property issued by the affiliate and outstanding at that time, each holder shall, in respect of the convertible property held by it at that time, be deemed to have, immediately before that time,

(A) exchanged the convertible property for shares of the affiliate, and

(i) the non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate of another corporation that is resident in Canada and that is related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) to the particular corporation, and

(ii) that other corporation has a qualifying interest in respect of the non-resident corporation;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(n)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 26, 2011:

I am writing in response to your letter dated January 20, 2011 and your various communications with Mr. Dave Beaulne of this Division. In your letter, you describe difficulties in the application of certain exclusions from the foreign accrual property income (FAPI) rules of the Income Tax Act (the Act) in the context of foreign affiliates that are held by partnerships.

Your specific concern is with respect to a limited partnership (LP) that owns 9% of the shares of a non-resident corporation (Forco) through a wholly-owned foreign affiliate (FA4) of LP in the following structure:

- FA1 is the general partner of LP and has 100% of the voting rights in respect of LP but only a nominal (less than 1%) interest in the profits of LP;
- FA2 and FA3 are limited partners of LP and have a combined interest in LP's profits of 98.2%;
- FA1, FA2 and FA3 are all non-resident wholly-owned indirect subsidiaries of a Canadian publicly traded company ("Canco");
- Arm's length parties own the remaining limited partner interests in LP; and
- FA5, another non-resident wholly-owned indirect subsidiary of Canco, directly owns 11% of the shares of Forco.

Because the relevant Canadian taxpayer for FAPI purposes with respect to the 9% interest in Forco held by FA4 is LP, and there are no rules in the Act to make LP related to any corporate group members (other than FA4), Forco cannot be considered a foreign affiliate of LP for the purposes of the inter-affiliate dividend exclusion from FAPI with respect to Forco's dividends paid to FA4 even though the Canco group as a whole owns a 20% interest in Forco. Similar issues would arise if FA4 were to dispose of its 9% interest in Forco as Forco would need to be a foreign affiliate of LP in order for its shares to qualify as "excluded property" (as defined in subsection 95(1)) of FA4. You also highlight the importance of having the recharacterization rules in paragraph 95(2)(a) apply for the excluded property determination and, as such, the need for LP to have a "qualifying interest" (as defined in paragraph 95(2)(m)) in respect of Forco and its subsidiaries.

You submit that, in these circumstances, FA4 should be eligible for the inter-affiliate dividend exclusion from FAPI in respect of the dividends it receives from Forco and should have access to the excluded property exception from FAPI in respect of a potential disposition of its shares of Forco.

We agree and are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended to provide, in general terms, that, in the context of the structure described above:

- Forco be considered to be a foreign affiliate of LP for purposes of the inter-affiliate dividend exclusion from FAPI with respect to Forco's dividends paid to FA4, and
- LP be considered to have a qualifying interest in respect of Forco and its subsidiaries, and Forco and its subsidiaries be considered to be foreign affiliates of LP, for the purposes of determining the excluded property status of the shares of Forco in the context of a disposition of the Forco shares by FA4.

We would be recommending that these amendments be applicable for taxation years of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer that end after the announcement date of draft legislation incorporating these amendments. However, if a taxpayer so elects in respect of all its foreign affiliates, the taxpayer would be permitted to have the amendments apply for foreign affiliate taxation years that end after 2010.

While we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with our recommendations in respect of this matter, we hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful.

Yours very truly,

Gerard Lalonde, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(i) throughout the period, in the fiscal period of the partnership that includes the particular time, during which the member was a member of the partnership, the particular person is, on a regular, continuous and substantial basis

(A) actively engaged in those activities, of the principal business of the partnership carried on in that fiscal period by the partnership, that are other than activities connected with the provision of or the acquisition of funds required for the operation of that principal business, or

(B) actively engaged in those activities, of a particular business carried on in that fiscal period by the particular person (otherwise than as a member of a partnership) that is similar to the principal business carried on in that fiscal period by the partnership, that are other than activities connected with the provision of or the acquisition of funds required for the operation of the particular business, or

(i) a particular foreign affiliate — of another corporation that is resident in Canada and that is related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) to the particular corporation — is a member of the partnership,

(ii) that other corporation has a qualifying interest in respect of the particular foreign affiliate, and

(iii) the particular foreign affiliate is a qualifying member of the partnership;

(s) ["designated corporation"] — in applying the definition "investment business" in subsection (1), a particular corporation is, at any time, a designated corporation in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, if at that time

(i) a qualifying shareholder of the foreign affiliate or a person related to such a qualifying shareholder is a qualifying shareholder of the particular corporation,

(ii) the particular corporation

(A) is controlled by a qualifying shareholder of the foreign affiliate, or

(B) would be controlled by a particular qualifying shareholder of the foreign affiliate if the particular qualifying shareholder of the foreign affiliate owned each share of the capital stock of the particular corporation that is owned by a qualifying shareholder of the foreign affiliate or by a person related to a qualifying shareholder of the foreign affiliate, and

(iii) the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of a share of the capital stock of the particular corporation owned by a qualifying shareholder of the foreign affiliate or by a person related to a qualifying shareholder of the foreign affiliate is greater than 50% of the total fair market value of all the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the particular corporation;

(D) paragraphs (b) and (c) of the definition "investment business" in subsection (1), and

(ii) in applying paragraph (g.03), the entity is deemed to have, directly, rights to the income or capital of the other partnership, to the extent of the entity's direct and indirect rights to that income or capital;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2)(u) [temporary]

(u) if any entity is (or is deemed by this paragraph to be) a member of a particular partnership that is a member of another partnership,

(i) the entity is deemed to be a member of the other partnership for the purposes of

(B) applying the reference, in paragraph (a), to "a member" of a partnership,

(C) paragraphs (a.1) to (b), (g.03), (j.1) to (k.1) and (o),

(E) the definition "taxable Canadian business" in subsection (1), and

(ii) in applying paragraph (g.03) and the definition "taxable Canadian business" in subsection (1), the entity is deemed to have, directly, rights to the income or capital of the other partnership to the extent of the entity's direct and indirect rights to that income or capital;

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(19), will amend para. 95(2)(u) to read as above, applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after December 20, 2002; however, if the taxpayer has elected in writing under para. 16(29)(b) of the draft legislation in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to, the amendment also applies in respect of taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that begin after 1994 and before December 21, 2002 except that, if the taxpayer has not elected under subsec. 26(40) of the Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007, para. 95(2)(u) is, in respect of taxation years of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that end before 2000, to be read as follows:

(u) if any entity is (or is deemed by this paragraph to be) a member of a particular partnership that is a member of another partnership,

(i) the entity is deemed to be a member of the other partnership for the purposes of

(A) paragraphs (j.1) to (k.1), and

(B) the definition "taxable Canadian business" in subsection (1), and

(ii) in applying the definition "taxable Canadian business" in subsection (1), the entity is deemed to have, directly, rights to the income or capital of the other partnership to the extent of the entity's direct and indirect rights to that income or capital;

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 95(2)(u) contains two "look-through" rules to deal with cases where one partnership (i.e. an upper-tier partnership) is a member of another partnership (i.e. a lower-tier partnership). The look-through rules apply for the purposes of certain specified provisions in subsection 95(1). The rule in subparagraph 95(2)(u)(i) deems a member of an upper-tier partnership to be a member of the lower-tier partnership. The rule in subparagraph 95(2)(u)(ii) deems a member of the upper-tier partnership to have certain rights to the income and capital of the lower-tier partnership.

Paragraph 95(2)(u) is first being amended, retroactively, in order to incorporate appropriate references to the insurance business and fresh start rules that are discussed above (paragraphs 95(2)(j.1) to (k.2)), and then it is being repealed, for foreign affiliate taxation years that end after August 19, 2011, as its functions are being taken over by new subsection 93.1(3).

Amended paragraph 95(2)(u) applies to foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after December 20, 2002. This amended paragraph can also apply even farther back in time (i.e. for foreign affiliate taxation years that begin after 1994) where an election is made in the context of the fresh start rules in amended paragraphs 95(2)(k) to (k.2), as discussed above.

Proposed Repeal — 95(2)(u)

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(20), will repeal para. 95(2)(u), applicable in respect of taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: See under 95(2)(u) [temporary] above.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5908(9) — Parallel rule in regulations.

(v) [shares held through holding corporation] — in applying paragraph (p),

(i) where shares of the capital stock of any corporation (referred to in this paragraph as the "issuing corporation") are, at any time, owned by a corporation (referred to in this paragraph as the "holding corporation") or are deemed under this paragraph to be, at any time, owned by a corporation (referred to in this paragraph as the "holding corporation"), those shares are deemed to be owned at that time by each shareholder of the holding corporation in a proportion equal to the proportion of those shares that

(A) the fair market value, at that time, of the shares of the capital stock of the issuing corporation that are owned by the shareholder

is of

(B) the fair market value, at that time, of all the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the issuing corporation, and

(ii) a person who is deemed by subparagraph (i) to own, at any time, shares of the capital stock of a corporation is deemed to be, at that time, a shareholder of the corporation;

(w) [where FA active in more than one country] — where a foreign affiliate of a corporation resident in Canada carries on an active business in more than one country,

(i) where the business is carried on in a country other than Canada, it is deemed to carry on that business in that country only to the extent that the profit or loss from that business can reasonably be attributed to a permanent establishment situated in that country, and

(ii) where the business is carried on in Canada, it is deemed to carry on that business in Canada only to the extent that the income from the active business is subject to tax under this Part;

(x) [losses of FA] — the loss from an active business, from a non-qualifying business or from property (as the case may be) of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada for a taxation year is the amount of that loss, if any, that is computed by applying the provisions in this subdivision with respect to the computation of income from the active business, from the non-qualifying business or from property (as the case may be) of the foreign affiliate for the taxation year with any modifications that the circumstances require;

(y) [look-through rule for partnerships] — in determining — for the purpose of paragraph (a) and for the purpose of applying subsections (2.2) and (2.21) for the purpose of applying that paragraph — whether a non-resident corporation is, at any time, a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest, where interests in any partnership or shares of the capital stock of any corporation (which interests or shares are referred to in this paragraph as "equity interests") are, at that time, property of a particular partnership or are deemed under this paragraph to be, at any time, property of the particular partnership, the equity interests are deemed to be owned at that time by each member of the particular partnership in a proportion equal to the proportion of the equity interests that

(i) the fair market value, at that time, of the member's partnership interest in the particular partnership

(ii) the fair market value, at that time, of all members' partnership interests in the particular partnership; and

(z) [where FA is a partner] — where a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer — in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest or that is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer — is a member of a partnership, the particular foreign affiliate's foreign accrual property income or loss in respect of the taxpayer for a taxation year shall not include any income or loss of the partnership to the extent that the income or loss

(i) is attributable to the foreign accrual property income or loss of a foreign affiliate of the partnership that is also a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (referred to in this paragraph as the "second foreign affiliate") in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest or that is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, and

(ii) is, because of paragraph (a) as applied in respect of the taxpayer, included in computing the income or loss from an active business of the second foreign affiliate for a taxation year.

History: Para. 95(2)(f) amended by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 25(2), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after October 2, 2007. However,

(a) for taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin before 2009, subpara. 95(2)(f)(ii) shall be read as follows:

(ii) income or loss from a property or from a business other than an active business; . . .

(c) if the taxpayer elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's "election day", the amendment also applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin before October 2, 2007 and after the date chosen by the taxpayer under paragraph (d) below, except that subpara. 95(2)(f)(ii) shall be read in its application to those taxation years in the manner described in paragraph (a) above; and

(d) to be valid, an election must include the identification by the taxpayer of its choice of one of the following dates:

(i) December 31, 1994,

(ii) December 20, 2002, or

(iii) February 27, 2004.

Para. 95(2)(f) formerly read:

(f) [capital gains and losses of foreign affiliate] — except as otherwise provided in this subsection, each taxable capital gain and each allowable capital loss of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer from the disposition of property shall be computed in accordance with Part I, read without reference to section 26 of the Income Tax Application Rules, as though the affiliate were resident in Canada

(i) where that gain or loss is the gain or loss of a controlled foreign affiliate from the disposition of property to which paragraph (c), (d) or (e) or 88(3)(a) applies or from any other disposition of property (other than excluded property), in Canadian currency, and

(ii) in any other case, on the assumption that the currency of the country in which the affiliate is resident or such other currency as is reasonable in the circumstances (in this subparagraph referred to as the "calculating currency") were the currency of Canada and, where subsection 39(2) is applicable, on the further assumptions that

(A) the reference in that subsection to "the currency or currencies of one or more countries other than Canada relative to Canadian currency" were read as a reference to "one or more currencies other than the calculating currency relative to the calculating currency", and

(B) the references therein to "of a country other than Canada" were read as references to "of a country other than the country of the calculating currency", except that in computing any such gain or loss from the disposition of property owned by the affiliate at the time it last became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer there shall not be included such portion of the gain or loss, as the case may be, as may reasonably be considered to have accrued during the period that the affiliate was not a foreign affiliate of

(iii) the taxpayer,

(iv) any person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length,

(v) any person with whom the taxpayer would not have been dealing at arm's length if the person had been in existence after the taxpayer came into existence,

(vi) any predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) of the taxpayer or of a person described in subparagraph (iv) or (v), or

(vii) any predecessor corporation (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 87(2)(l.2)) of the taxpayer or of a person described in subparagraph (iv) or (v);

Paras. 95(2)(f.1) to (f.15) added by the said c. 2, subsec. 25(2), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after October 2, 2007. However,

[2009, c. 2, s. 25(6)(c)] if the taxpayer elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's "election day" [see application of amendment to para. 95(2)(f) above], the amendment also applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin before October 2, 2007 and after the date chosen by the taxpayer under paragraph (d) below; and

(d) to be valid, an election must include the identification by the taxpayer of its choice of one of the following dates:

(i) December 31, 1994,

(ii) December 20, 2002, or

(iii) February 27, 2004.

(a) in computing the income from an active business for a taxation year of a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year there shall be included any income of the affiliate for that year from sources in a country other than Canada that would otherwise be income from property of the affiliate for the year to the extent that

(i) the income

(A) is derived by the particular affiliate from activities that can reasonably be considered to be directly related to the active business activities carried on in a country other than Canada by

(I) any other non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year, or

(II) the taxpayer, where the taxpayer is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada throughout the year, and

(B) would be included in computing the amount prescribed to be the earnings or loss from an active business carried on in a country other than Canada of

(I) the non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year, or

(II) the taxpayer, where the taxpayer is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada throughout the year

if it were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the income were earned by it,

(ii) the income is derived from amounts that were paid or payable, directly or indirectly, to the particular affiliate or a partnership of which the particular affiliate was a member

(A) by

(I) a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year, or

(II) a partnership of which a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year is a member and of which that non-resident corporation is not a specified member at any time in a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable are for expenditures that would, if the non-resident corporation or the partnership were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, be deductible by it in the year or a subsequent year in computing the amounts prescribed to be its earnings or loss from an active business, other than an active business carried on in Canada,

(B) by

(II) a partnership of which another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year is a member and of which that other affiliate is not a specified member at any time in a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable are for expenditures that were or would be, if the partnership were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year by the other affiliate or the partnership in computing the amounts prescribed to be its earnings or loss from an active business, other than an active business carried on in Canada,

(C) by a partnership of which the particular affiliate is a member and of which the particular affiliate is not a specified member at any time in a fiscal period of the partnership that ends in the year to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable were for expenditures that would be, if the partnership were a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, deductible in the year or a subsequent year in computing the amounts prescribed to be its earnings or loss from an active business carried on by it outside Canada,

(D) by another foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (in this clause referred to as the "second affiliate") to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year to the extent that the amounts are paid or payable by the second affiliate

(III) the property is excluded property of the second affiliate that is shares of a foreign affiliate (other than the particular affiliate) of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year (in this clause referred to as the "third affiliate"),

(IV) the second and third affiliates are resident in and subject to income taxation in the same country, and

(V) the amounts paid or payable are relevant in computing the liability for income taxes in that country of the members of a group of corporations composed of the second affiliate and one or more other foreign affiliates of the taxpayer (the shares of which are excluded property) that are resident and subject to income taxation in that country and in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the year, or

(E) by the taxpayer, where the taxpayer is a life insurance corporation resident in Canada (in this clause referred to as the "insurer"), to the extent that those amounts that were paid or payable were for expenditures that are deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year by the insurer in computing its income or loss from carrying on its life insurance business outside Canada and are not deductible in the year or a subsequent taxation year in computing its income or loss from carrying on its life insurance business in Canada,

(iii) the income is derived by the particular affiliate from the factoring of trade accounts receivable acquired by the particular affiliate or a partnership of which the particular affiliate was a member from a non-resident corporation to which the particular affiliate and the taxpayer are related throughout the year to the extent that the accounts receivable arose in the course of an active business carried on in a country other than Canada by the non-resident corporation, or

(2) — For the purpose of subsection (2), other than paragraph (2)(f), a non-resident corporation that is not a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout a particular taxation year is deemed to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout that particular taxation year if

Notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take into account this amendment.

Subsec. 95(2.2) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(19), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95. The subsec. formerly read:

For the purpose of subsection (2),

(a) a non-resident corporation that was not a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout a particular taxation year shall be deemed to be a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout that year where

(i) a person has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of that non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, that non-resident corporation became or ceased to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest, and

(ii) at the beginning of that year or at the end of that year, the non-resident corporation was a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest; and

(ii) at the beginning of that year or at the end of that year, the non-resident corporation was related to the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer and the taxpayer.

The opening words of subsec. 95(2.2) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 73(9) to replace "paragraph (2)(a)" with "subsection (2)", applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after November 1999 except that, where the taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue before the day of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001, the amendment applies to taxation years, of all of its foreign affiliates, that began after 1994 and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any of those taxation years shall be made that is necessary to take into account the application of the amendment.

Subsec. 95(2.2) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

(2.201) Controlled foreign affiliate throughout year — For the purposes of paragraphs (2)(a) and (g), a non-resident corporation is deemed to be a controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer throughout a taxation year of the non-resident corporation if

(a) in the taxation year, a person or partnership acquires or disposes of shares of the capital stock of a corporation and, because of the acquisition or disposition, the non-resident corporation becomes or ceases to be a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer; and

(b) at either or both of the beginning and end of the taxation year, the non-resident corporation is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

History: Subsec. 95(2.201) added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 25(4), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that end after 1999. However,

(a) subject to para. (b) below, for taxation years of a foreign affiliate that begin before December 21, 2002, the reference to "for the purposes of paragraphs (2)(a) and (g)" shall be read as a reference to "for the purpose of paragraph (2)(a)"; and

(b) if the taxpayer has made a valid election under subsec. 26(46) of S.C. 2007, c. 35 (Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007), the amendment applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin after 1994.

Notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take into account this amendment.

(2.21) Rule re subsec. (2.2) — Subsection (2.2) does not apply for the purpose of paragraph (2)(a) in respect of any income or loss referred to in that paragraph, of a particular foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, to the extent that that income or loss can reasonably be considered to have been realized or to have accrued before the earlier of

(a) the time at which the particular affiliate became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest, and

(b) the time at which the particular affiliate became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), a foreign affiliate of another person resident in Canada in respect of which the other person resident in Canada had a qualifying interest, where

(i) the taxpayer is a corporation,

(ii) the taxpayer did not exist at the beginning of the taxation year,

(iii) the particular affiliate became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in the taxation year because of a disposition, in the taxation year, of shares of the capital stock of the particular affiliate to the taxpayer by the other person resident in Canada, and

(iv) the other person resident in Canada was, immediately before that disposition, related to the taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 95(2)(n) — Deemed FA and deemed qualifying interest; 95(2)(y) — Look-through rule for partnerships.

History: Subsec. 95(2.21) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(19), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95.

(ii) the affiliate is a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities and the activities of the business are regulated

(A) under the laws of the country under whose laws the affiliate is governed and any of exists, was (unless the affiliate was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued, and under the laws of each country in which the business is carried on through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in that country,

Proposed Amendment — 95(2.3)(b)(ii)(A)

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 33(5), will amend cl. 95(2.3)(b)(ii)(A) to substitute "establishment in that country" for "establishment (as defined by regulation) in that country", applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to and would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this section apply in respect of that provision, and

(c) the terms and conditions of the sale or exchange of such property are substantially the same as the terms and conditions of similar sales or exchanges of such property by persons dealing at arm's length.

History: Para. 95(2.3)(b) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(20), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95. The para. formerly read:

(b) the sale or exchange was made in the course of a business carried on by the affiliate principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on by it; and

Subsec. 95(2.3) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

Regulations: 5906(2)(b) (permanent establishment, for 95(2.3)(b)(ii)(A)).

(2.4) Application of para. (2)(a.3) — Paragraph (2)(a.3) does not apply to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of its income derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness to the extent that

(a) the income is derived by the affiliate in the course of a business conducted principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length carried on by it as a foreign bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities, the activities of which are regulated under the laws

(i) of the country under whose laws the affiliate is governed and any of exists, was (unless the affiliate was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued and of each country in which the business is carried on through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in that country,

Proposed Amendment — 95(2.4)(a)(i)

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 33(6), will amend subpara. 95(2.4)(a)(i) to substitute "establishment in that country" for "establishment (as defined by regulation) in that country", applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after 1999.

S. 53 of the draft legislation provides that any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before the day on which the draft legislation is assented to and would, in the absence of this section, be precluded because of subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Act shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account this amendment, if the taxpayer

(b) the income is derived by the affiliate from trading or dealing in the indebtedness (which, for this purpose, consists of income from the actual trading or dealing in the indebtedness and interest earned by the affiliate during a short term holding period on indebtedness acquired by it for the purpose of the trading or dealing) with persons (in this subsection referred to as "regular customers") with whom it deals at arm's length who were resident in a country other than Canada in which it and any competitor (which is resident in the country in which the affiliate is resident and regulated in the same manner the affiliate is regulated in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which its business is principally carried on) compete and have a substantial market presence, and, for the purpose of this subsection, an acquisition of indebtedness from the taxpayer shall be deemed to be part of the trading or dealing in indebtedness described in paragraph (b) where the indebtedness is acquired by the affiliate and sold to regular customers and the terms and conditions of the acquisition and the sale are substantially the same as the terms and conditions of similar acquisitions and sales made by the affiliate in transactions with persons with whom it deals at arm's length.

History: Para. 95(2.4)(a) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(21), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95. The para. formerly read:

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

Regulations: 5906(2)(b) (permanent establishment, for 95(2.4)(a)(i)).

(2.41) Application of para. (2)(a.3) — Paragraph (2)(a.3) does not apply to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada in respect of the foreign affiliate's income for a taxation year derived, directly or indirectly, from indebtedness of persons resident in Canada or from indebtedness in respect of businesses carried on in Canada (referred to in this subsection as the "Canadian indebtedness") if

(a) the taxpayer is, at the end of the foreign affiliate's taxation year

(ii) a corporation resident in Canada that is a subsidiary controlled corporation of a corporation described in subparagraph (i);

(b) the Canadian indebtedness is used or held by the foreign affiliate, throughout the period in the taxation year that that Canadian indebtedness was used or held by the foreign affiliate, in the course of carrying on a business (referred to in this subsection as the "foreign life insurance business") that is a life insurance business carried on outside Canada (other than a business deemed by paragraph (2)(a.2) to be a separate business other than an active business), the activities of which are regulated

(i) under the laws of the country under whose laws the foreign affiliate is governed and any of exists, was (unless the foreign affiliate was continued in any jurisdiction) formed or organized, or was last continued, and

(ii) under the laws of the country, if any, in which the business is principally carried on;

(c) more than 90% of the gross premium revenue of the foreign affiliate for the taxation year in respect of the foreign life insurance business was derived from the insurance or reinsurance of risks (net of reinsurance ceded) in respect of persons

(i) that were non-resident at the time at which the policies in respect of those risks were issued or effected, and

(ii) that were at that time dealing at arm's length with the foreign affiliate, the taxpayer and all persons that were related at that time to the foreign affiliate or the taxpayer; and

(d) it is reasonable to conclude that the foreign affiliate used or held the Canadian indebtedness

(i) to fund a liability or reserve of the foreign life insurance business, or

(ii) as capital that can reasonably be considered to have been required for the foreign life insurance business.

particular lease obligation of the life insurance corporation is, for the purposes of that paragraph, deemed, at that time, not to be an indebtedness or a lease obligation of a person resident in Canada, to the extent of the portion of the particular indebtedness or lease obligation that can reasonably be considered to have been issued by the life insurance corporation to the foreign affiliate

(a) in respect of the life insurance corporation's life insurance business carried on outside Canada; and

(b) not in respect of

(i) the life insurance corporation's life insurance business carried on in Canada, or

(2.5) Definitions for para. (2)(a.3) — For the purpose of paragraph (2)(a.3),

"excluded income" and "excluded revenue" for a taxation year in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer mean, respectively, income or revenue, that is

(a) derived directly or indirectly from a specified deposit with a prescribed financial institution,

(b) derived directly or indirectly from a lease obligation of a person (other than the taxpayer or a person that does not deal at arm's length with the taxpayer) relating to the use of property outside Canada, or

(c) included in computing the affiliate's income for the year from carrying on a business through a permanent establishment in Canada;

Proposed Amendment — 95(2.5)"excluded income" and "excluded revenue"

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 17, 2006:

Mr. Angelo Nikolakakis, Couzin Taylor LLP, Montréal, QC

Dear Mr. Nikolakakis:

I am writing in response to correspondence to Mr. Wallace Conway in which you express your concern with respect to the wording of paragraph (b) of the definitions "excluded income" and "excluded revenue" for the purpose of paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Income Tax Act, which are set out in subsection 95(2.5) of the Act.

Paragraph 95(2)(a.3) includes, in computing the income from a business other than an active business of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada, the foreign affiliate's income (other than excluded income) derived directly or indirectly from most forms of indebtedness or lease obligations of persons resident in Canada or in respect of businesses carried on in Canada. That paragraph goes on to provide for a de minimis test so that such income from indebtedness or lease obligations is not included in computing the foreign affiliate's income from a business other than an active business if more than 90% of the foreign affiliate's gross revenue (other than excluded revenue) derived directly or indirectly from indebtedness or lease obligations was from non-resident persons with whom the foreign affiliate deals at arm's length.

Paragraph (b) of the definitions "excluded income" and "excluded revenue" in subsection 95(2.5) provides that the foreign affiliate's income or revenue, respectively, is excluded income or excluded revenue where it is derived directly or indirectly from a lease obligation of a person (other than the taxpayer or a person that does not deal at arm's length with the taxpayer) relating to the use of property outside Canada.

In the example provided in your correspondence, a controlled foreign affiliate (Forco) of a corporation resident in Canada (Canco) carries on an active business of leasing property throughout the world. As well, 95 percent of Forco's gross revenue ("good revenue") derived from indebtedness or lease obligations is derived from lease obligations of non-resident corporations, with which Forco deals at arm's length, relating to the use of property outside Canada and 5 percent ("bad revenue") is derived from lease obligations of persons resident in Canada relating to the use of property in Canada, For the purposes of this letter, we presume that all of those lease obligations of those non-resident corporations relate to the use of the leased property outside Canada in the course of a business carried on by those non-residents through a permanent establishment outside Canada.

You argue that, in the circumstances of that example, Canco should be entitled to rely on the de minimis rule in paragraph 95(2)(a.3), since more than 90% of Forco's gross revenue from indebtedness or lease obligations is derived from lease obligations of non-resident persons with whom Forco deals at arm's length relating to the use (in the course of carrying on a business outside Canada) of property outside Canada. You note that, based on the wording of paragraph (b) of the "excluded revenue" definition, it would appear that the de minimis rule would not apply, as all of Forco's "good revenue" would be "excluded revenue".

From a tax policy perspective, we agree with you that Forco should, in the circumstances of that example, be entitled to rely on the de minimis rule in paragraph 95(2)(a.3) of the Act. Accordingly, we are prepared to recommend that paragraph (b) of the definitions "excluded income" and "excluded revenue" in subsection 95(2.5) be amended so that income or revenue, respectively, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada is described by paragraph (b) of those definitions only if it is income or revenue of the foreign affiliate that is derived directly or indirectly from a particular person resident in Canada (other than the taxpayer or a person that does not deal at arm's length with the taxpayer) relating to the use of property outside Canada in the course of a business carried on by the particular person through a permanent establishment outside Canada.

We will recommend that such an amendment to the Act be effective for taxation years of foreign affiliates of a taxpayer that begin after the announcement date of draft legislation incorporating that amendment. However, if a taxpayer so elects in respect of all its foreign affiliates, the taxpayer would be permitted to have that amendment apply with the same coming-into-force as provided for the excluded income and excluded revenue definitions in subsection 95(2.5) as enacted by statutory amendment in 2001.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

"specified deposit" means a deposit of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer resident in Canada with a prescribed financial institution resident in Canada where

(a) the income from the deposit is income of the affiliate for the year that would, but for paragraph (2)(a.3), be income from an active business carried on by it in a country other than Canada (other than a business the principal purpose of which is to derive income from property including interest, dividends, rents, royalties or similar returns or substitutes therefor or profits from the disposition of investment property), or

(b) the income from the deposit is income of the affiliate for the year that would, but for paragraph (2)(a.3), be income from an active business carried on by the affiliate principally with persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length in the country under whose laws the affiliate was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on by it and the deposit was held by the affiliate in the course of carrying on that part of the business conducted with non-resident persons with whom the affiliate deals at arm's length or that part of the business conducted with a person with whom the affiliate was related where it can be demonstrated that the related person used or held the funds deposited in the course of a business carried on by the related person with non-resident persons with whom the related person and the affiliate deal at arm's length.

History: The definition "indebtedness" in subsec. 95(2.5) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(23), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95. The definition formerly read:

(b) the person is a bank, a trust company, a credit union, an insurance corporation or a trader or dealer in securities or commodities resident in Canada, the business activities of which are subject by law to the supervision of a regulating authority in Canada such as the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or a similar authority of a province,

(c) the agreements are entered into by the non-resident corporation in the course of a business carried on by it principally with persons with which it deals at arm's length in the country under whose laws the non-resident corporation was formed or continued and exists and is governed and in which the business is principally carried on by it, and

(d) the terms and conditions of such agreements are substantially the same as the terms and conditions of similar agreements made by persons dealing at arm's length;

The definitions "excluded income" and "excluded revenue" added to subsec. 95(2.5) by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 73(10), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after 1999 except that, where a taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001, subsec. 95(2.5) applies to taxation years, of all of the taxpayer's foreign affiliates, that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a particular foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the enacted provisions apply to taxation years of the particular foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) the particular foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that it would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation year of the particular foreign affiliate, and, notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any of those taxation years shall be made that is necessary to take into account the application of this amendment.

Subsec. 95(2.5) added by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(6), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the new subsection applies to taxation years of such foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that end after 1994, unless

(a) such foreign affiliate had requested that change in the taxation year in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which it was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the first taxation year of such foreign affiliate that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time that that taxation year would have begun if there had not been that change in the taxation of such foreign affiliate.

(2.6) Rule for the definition "specified person or partnership" — For the purposes of paragraphs (a) to (d) of the definition "specified person or partnership" in subsection (1), if a person or partnership (referred to in this subsection as the "taxpayer") is not dealing at arm's length with another person or partnership (referred to in this subsection as the "particular person") at a particular time, the taxpayer is deemed to have existed and not to have dealt at arm's length with the particular person, nor with each specified predecessor corporation of the particular person, throughout the period that began when the particular person or the specified predecessor corporation, as the case may be, came into existence and that ends at the particular time.

History: Subsec. 95(2.6) added by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 25(5), applicable to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that begin after October 2, 2007. However,

[2009, c. 2, s. 25(6)(b)] if the taxpayer elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day (in this subsection referred to as the taxpayer's "election day") that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which the amending legislation is assented to and the day that is one year after that day, subsec. 95(2.6) shall, in its application to a taxation year of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begins after October 2, 2007 and before July 14, 2008, be read as follows:

(2.6) For the purposes of paragraphs (a) to (d) of the definition "specified person or partnership" in subsection (1), in determining whether, at a particular time, a person was not, at a time (referred to in this subsection as the "prior time") that is before the particular time and at which that person did not exist, dealing at arm's length with another person, where the person exists at the particular time but did not exist at the prior time

(a) the person is deemed to exist at the prior time; and

(b) where the person is related to another person at the particular time, the person is deemed to have been related to that other person at the prior time.

(c) if the taxpayer elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's election day, the amendment also applies to taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that begin before October 2, 2007 and after the date chosen by the taxpayer under paragraph (d) below; and [15] Sic. Should be "carried on" — ed.

(d) to be valid, an election must include the identification by the taxpayer of its choice of one of the following dates:

(i) December 31, 1994,

(ii) December 20, 2002, or

(iii) February 27, 2004.

Notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take into account this amendment.

(3) Definition of "services" — For the purposes of paragraph (2)(b), "services" includes the insurance of Canadian risks but does not include

(d) the manufacturing or processing outside Canada, in accordance with the taxpayer's specifications and under a contract between the taxpayer and the affiliate, of tangible property, or for civil law corporeal property, that is owned by the taxpayer if the property resulting from the manufacturing or processing is used or held by the taxpayer in the ordinary course of the taxpayer's business carried on in Canada.

History: Paras. 95(3)(c) and (d) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(24), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95.

(3.1) Designated property — subpara. (2)(a.1)(i) — Designated property referred to in subparagraph (2)(a.1)(i) is property that is described in the portion of paragraph (2)(a.1) that is before subparagraph (i) that is

(a) property that was sold to non-resident persons other than the affiliate, or sold to the affiliate for sale to non-resident persons, and

(i) that

(A) was — in the course of carrying on a business in Canada — manufactured, produced, grown, extracted or processed in Canada by the taxpayer, or by a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, or

(B) was — in the course of a business carried on by a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer outside Canada — manufactured or processed from tangible property, or for civil law corporeal property, that, at the time of the manufacturing or processing, was owned by the taxpayer or by a person related to the taxpayer and used or held by the owner in the course of carrying on a business in Canada, if the manufacturing or processing was in accordance with the specifications of the owner of that tangible or corporeal property and under a contract between that owner and that foreign affiliate,

(ii) that was acquired, in the course of carrying on a business in Canada, by a purchaser from a vendor, if

(I) with whom the taxpayer deals at arm's length,

(II) who is not a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, and

(B) the vendor is a foreign affiliate of

(I) the taxpayer, or

(II) a person resident in Canada with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length, and

History: Subsec. 95(3.1) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 26(25), applicable as described in the History at the end of s. 95.

(4) Definitions — In this section,

"direct equity percentage" at any time of any person in a corporation is the percentage determined by the following rules:

(a) for each class of the issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation, determine the proportion of 100 that the number of shares of that class owned by that person at that time is of the total number of issued shares of that class at that time, and

(b) select the proportion determined under paragraph (a) for that person in respect of the corporation that is not less than any other proportion so determined for that person in respect of the corporation at that time, and the proportion selected under paragraph (b), when expressed as a percentage, is that person's direct equity percentage in the corporation at that time;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-392: Meaning of term "share".

Proposed Addition — 95(4)"eligible controlled foreign affiliate"

"eligible controlled foreign affiliate", of a taxpayer, at any time, means a foreign affiliate at that time of the taxpayer in respect of which the following conditions are met:

(a) the affiliate is a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer at that time and at the end of the affiliate's taxation year that includes that time, and

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the participating percentage (determined at the end of the taxation year) of a share owned by the taxpayer of the capital stock of a corporation, in respect of the affiliate, is not less than 90%;

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(22), will add the definition "eligible controlled foreign affiliate" to subsec. 95(4), applicable in respect of determinations made after February 27, 2004 in respect of property of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer; however,

(a) if the taxpayer has elected in writing under subsec. 16(28) or 16(31) of the draft legislation in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to, the definition also applies to such determinations made after December 20, 2002 and before February 28, 2004 but only in respect of,

(i) where an election is made under subsec. 16(28) of the draft legislation but no election is made under subsec. 16(31), property that is subject to the application of para. 95(2)(e), as amended,

(ii) where no election is made under subsec. 16(28) of the draft legislation but an election is made under subsec. 16(31), property that is subject to the application of para. 95(2)(d.1), as amended, and

(iii) where elections are made under subsecs. 16(28) and 16(31) of the draft legislation, property that is subject to the application of para. 95(2)(d.1) or (e), as amended;

(b) in respect of any such determinations made for the purposes of para. 88(3)(a), as amended, where the determination is made on or before August 19, 2011 and is in respect of property received in the course of a qualifying liquidation and dissolution of the disposing affiliate, the definition "eligible controlled foreign affiliate" is to be read as follows:

"eligible controlled foreign affiliate", of a taxpayer at any time, means a controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer at that time.

(c) if the taxpayer has elected under subsec. 16(31) of the draft legislation, in respect of any such determinations made on or before August 19, 2011 for the purposes of para. 95(2)(d.1), as amended, the definition "eligible controlled foreign affiliate" in subsec. 95(4) is to be read in the manner specified in para. (b) above; and

(d) if the taxpayer has elected under subsec. 16(28) of the draft legislation, in respect of any such determinations made on or before August 19, 2011 for the purposes of para. 95(2)(e), as amended, the definition "eligible controlled foreign affiliate" in subsec. 95(4) is to be read in the manner specified in para. (b) above.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: The definition "eligible controlled foreign affiliate" is added to subsection 95(4). See the comments under "relevant cost base" for details.

This new definition applies on the same basis as the amendments to "relevant cost base".

"equity percentage" at any time of a person, in any particular corporation, is the total of

(a) the person's direct equity percentage at that time in the particular corporation, and

(b) all percentages each of which is the product obtained when the person's equity percentage at that time in any corporation is multiplied by that corporation's direct equity percentage at that time in the particular corporation except that for the purposes of the definition "participating percentage" in subsection (1), paragraph (b) shall be read as if the reference to "any corporation" were a reference to "any corporation other than a corporation resident in Canada";

Related Provisions: 94(1)(d) [to be repealed] — Deemed ownership in trust deemed to be corporation for FAPI purposes; 149.1(1)"equity percentage" — Meaning of term for private foundation corporate-holding rules.

"relevant cost base" to a foreign affiliate of property at any time means the adjusted cost base to the affiliate of the property at that time or such greater amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the fair market value of the property at that time.

Proposed Amendment — 95(4)"relevant cost base"

"relevant cost base", of a property at any time to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, in respect of the taxpayer, means the greater of

(a) the amount determined — or, if the taxpayer is not a corporation, the amount that would be determined if the taxpayer were a corporation resident in Canada — by the formula

where

A is the amount for which the property could be disposed of at that time that would not, in the absence of paragraph (2)(f.1), result in any amount being added to, or deducted from, any of the affiliate's

(i) exempt earnings, exempt loss, taxable earnings and taxable loss (all within the meaning of subsection 5907(1) of the Income Tax Regulations), in respect of the taxpayer, for the taxation year of the affiliate that includes that time, and

(ii) hybrid surplus and hybrid deficit, in respect of the taxpayer, at that time,

B is the amount, if any, by which any income or gain from a disposition of the property would, if the property were disposed of at that time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at that time be reduced under paragraph (2)(f.1), and

C is the amount, if any, by which any loss from a disposition of the property would, if the property were disposed of at that time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at that time be reduced under paragraph (2)(f.1); and

(b) either

(i) if the affiliate is an eligible controlled foreign affiliate of the taxpayer at that time, the amount that the taxpayer elects, in accordance with prescribed rules, in respect of the property not exceeding the fair market value at that time of the property, or

(ii) in any other case, nil.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(21), will amend the definition "relevant cost base" in subsec. 95(4) to read as above, applicable in respect of determinations made after February 27, 2004 in respect of property of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer; however,

(a) if the taxpayer has elected in writing under subsec. 16(28) or 16(31) of the draft legislation in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to, the amendment also applies to such determinations made after December 20, 2002 and before February 28, 2004 but only in respect of,

(i) where an election is made under subsec. 16(28) of the draft legislation but no election is made under subsec. 16(31), property that is subject to the application of para. 95(2)(e), as amended,

(ii) where no election is made under subsec. 16(28) of the draft legislation but an election is made under subsec. 16(31), property that is subject to the application of para. 95(2)(d.1), as amended, and

(iii) where elections are made under subsecs. 16(28) and 16(31) of the draft legislation, property that is subject to the application of para. 95(2)(d.1) or (e), as amended;

(b) in respect of any such determinations made for the purposes of para. 88(3)(a), as amended, where the determination is made on or before August 19, 2011 and is in respect of property that is a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that is excluded property (within the meaning assigned by subsec. 95(1)) of the disposing affiliate, the definition "relevant cost base" in subsec. 95(4) is to be read as follows:

"relevant cost base", of a property at any time to a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, means the adjusted cost base to the affiliate of the property at that time or such greater amount as the taxpayer elects, in accordance with prescribed rules, in respect of the property not exceeding the fair market value at that time of the property.

(c) in respect of any such determinations made on or before August 19, 2011 for the purposes of para. 95(2)(c), (d) or, if the taxpayer has not elected under subsec. 16(28) of the draft legislation, para. 95(2)(e), the definition "relevant cost base" in subsec. 95(4) is to be read in the manner specified in para. (b) above.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Currently, "relevant cost base" or "RCB" to a foreign affiliate of a property is defined to mean the adjusted cost base of the property or such greater amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the fair market value of the property. RCB is used in the current versions of paragraphs 95(2)(c), (d) and (e).

As noted above, this definition will now also be used in paragraphs 88(3)(a) and 95(2)(d.1).

RCB is being amended to reflect the expansion of various foreign affiliate rollover rules, as noted above, to non-capital property. Thus, the previous reference to "adjusted cost base" is being replaced with a more flexible concept that refers to the cost of the property that is relevant to the foreign affiliate rules in the Act, i.e. the amount for which a property could be disposed of that would not result in any gain or loss. For some properties this cost will be based on Canadian tax rules, for others it will be based on foreign tax law. For those properties for which the so-called "carve-out" rule in paragraph 95(2)(f.1) is relevant, the RCB of the property will also take that rule into account. This could either increase or decrease the cost otherwise determined.

RCB is also being amended so that the ability to elect a higher amount is limited to property owned by an eligible controlled foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, which essentially is a controlled foreign affiliate in which the taxpayer has a participating percentage of at least 90%.

These amendments to RCB apply as of February 27, 2004. However, they can apply earlier, for limited purposes, where certain retroactive elections are made in respect of the new rollover provisions discussed above. There are also transitional rules to give effect to previously announced legislative proposals in this regard.

(4.1) Application of subsec. 87(8.1) — In this section, the expressions "foreign merger", "predecessor foreign corporation",

"new foreign corporation" and "foreign parent corporation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 87(8.1).

Origin of subsec. 95(4.1): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the opening words of subsec. 87(8.1)).

History: Subsec. 95(4.1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 25(2), applicable to a taxpayer in respect of a merger or combination of foreign corporations

(a) that occurs after February 24, 1998, or

(b) that occurred

(i) before February 25, 1998 and in a taxation year of the taxpayer for which the taxpayer's normal reassessment period, as defined in subsec. 152(3.1), has not ended before 1999, or

(ii) after 1994 and before February 25, 1998 and in a taxation year of the taxpayer in which the taxpayer was exempt from tax under s. 149, unless the taxpayer elects by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing, before January 1, 2000, that the amendment not apply to the taxpayer in respect of the merger or combination.

The subsec. formerly read:

(4.1) In this section, the expressions "foreign merger", "predecessor foreign corporation" and "new foreign corporation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 87(8.1).

Proposed Addition — 95(4.2)

(4.2) Absorptive mergers — For the purposes of the definition "foreign merger" in subsection 87(8.1) (as that definition applies for the purposes of this section), paragraph (n) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) (as that definition applies for the purposes of this section) and Part LIX of the Income Tax Regulations, if there is a merger or combination, otherwise than as a result of the distribution of property to one corporation on the winding-up of another corporation, of two or more non-resident corporations (each of which is referred to in this subsection as a "predecessor foreign corporation"), as a result of which one or more predecessor foreign corporations ceases to exist and, immediately after the merger or combination, another predecessor foreign corporation (referred to in this subsection as the "survivor corporation") owns properties (except amounts receivable from, or shares of the capital stock of, any predecessor foreign corporation) representing 90% or more of the fair market value of all such properties owned by each predecessor foreign corporation immediately before the merger or combination,

(a) the merger or combination is deemed to be a merger or combination of the predecessor foreign corporations to form one non-resident corporation;

(b) the survivor corporation is deemed to be the non-resident corporation so formed;

(c) all properties of the survivor corporation immediately before the merger or combination that are properties of the survivor corporation immediately after the merger or combination are deemed to become properties of the survivor corporation as a consequence of the merger or combination;

(d) all liabilities of the survivor corporation immediately before the merger or combination that are liabilities of the survivor corporation immediately after the merger or combination are deemed to become liabilities of the survivor corporation as a consequence of the merger or combination; and

(e) all shares of the capital stock of the survivor corporation immediately before the merger or combination that are shares of the capital stock of the survivor corporation immediately after the merger or combination are deemed to be exchanged by shareholders of the survivor corporation for shares of the capital stock of the survivor corporation as a consequence of the merger or combination.

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 16(23), will add subsec. 95(4.2), applicable in respect of mergers or combinations in respect of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer that occur after 1994; however, subsec. (4.2) does not apply in respect of mergers or combinations in respect of all of the foreign affiliates of the taxpayer that occur on or before August 19, 2011 if the taxpayer elects in writing under this subsection in respect of all of its foreign affiliates and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the day that is the later of the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to and the day that is one year after the day on which this draft legislation is assented to.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: New subsection 95(4.2) clarifies the circumstances in which certain foreign "absorptive mergers" will qualify as "foreign mergers" for the purposes of section 95 and Part LIX of the Regulations. This rule is mainly designed to ensure that certain common forms of U.S. mergers qualify for the rollover provisions that are provided for in the foreign affiliate rules.

This new subsection applies in respect of mergers or combinations that occur after 1994. However, taxpayers may elect to have it apply only in respect of mergers or combinations that occur after August 19, 2011.

(5) Income bonds or debentures issued by foreign affiliates — For the purposes of this subdivision, an income bond or income debenture issued by a corporation (other than a corporation resident in Canada) shall be deemed to be a share of the capital stock of the corporation unless any interest or other similar periodic amount paid by the corporation on or in respect of the bond or debenture was, under the laws of the country in which the corporation was resident, deductible in computing the amount for the year on which the corporation was liable to pay income or profits tax imposed by the government of that country.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-388: Income bonds issued by foreign corporations (archived).

(i) it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for the existence of the right is to cause 2 or more corporations to be related for the purpose of paragraph (2)(a), those corporations shall be deemed not to be related for that purpose, or

(ii) it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for the existence of the right is to permit any person to avoid, reduce or defer the payment of tax or any other amount that would otherwise be payable under this Act, those shares or partnership interests, as the case may be, are deemed to be owned by that person or partnership; and

(b) where a person or partnership acquires or disposes of shares of the capital stock of a corporation or interests in a partnership, either directly or indirectly, and it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for the acquisition or disposition is to permit a person to avoid, reduce or defer the payment of tax or any other amount that would otherwise be payable under this Act, that acquisition or disposition is deemed not to have taken place, and where the shares or partnership interests were unissued by the corporation or partnership immediately before the acquisition, those shares or partnership interests, as the case may be, are deemed not to have been issued.

the shares were unissued by the corporation immediately prior to the acquisition, those shares shall be deemed not to have been issued.

Subsec. 95(6) amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 46(7), applicable (as amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 305(1), deemed to have come into force on June 22, 1995) to rights acquired and shares acquired or disposed of in taxation years of foreign affiliates of taxpayers that begin after 1994 except that, where there has been a change in the taxation year of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in 1994 and after February 22, 1994, the amendment applies to rights acquired and shares acquired or disposed of in taxation years of the foreign affiliate that end after 1994, unless

(a) the foreign affiliate had requested the change in writing before February 22, 1994 from the income taxation authority of the country in which the foreign affiliate was resident and subject to income taxation; or

(b) the foreign affiliate's first taxation year that began after 1994 began at a time in 1995 that is earlier than the time at which that taxation year would have begun if the change had not occurred.

(b) where any foreign affiliate of a taxpayer or any non-resident corporation controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by the taxpayer or by a related group of which the taxpayer was a member has issued shares of a class of its capital stock and one of the main reasons for the existence or issuance of one or more of the shares of that class may reasonably be considered to be the reduction or postponement of the amount of taxes that would otherwise be payable under this Act, those shares shall be deemed not to have been issued.

However, if a taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this Act is assented to, paragraph 95(2)(u) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (16), applies in respect of taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994.

Proposed Amendment — 18-month extension to election deadline

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 39(5), will amend subsec. 26(40) of the Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007 (Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35) to change the above election deadline to "the day that is 18 months after the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes December 14, 2007".

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Second, the deadlines are being extended by 18 months in respect of the 7 different elections to effect further retroactive application of certain of the foreign affiliate provisions in Bill C-28. These deadline extensions are provided for in the amendments to paragraphs 26(35)(b) and (42)(b), and subsections 26(38), (40), (44), (45) and (46) [amending respectively the in-force rules for 95(2)(a)(ii), 95(2)(n), 95(2)(u), 95(2.2) [with 95(2.21)], 95(3), 95(3.1) [with 95(2)(a.1)] and the Global Section 95 Election — ed.]

(41) Subsection (17) applies to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after February 27, 2004.

(42) Subsection 95(2.2) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (19), applies to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that end after 1999. However,

(a) subsection 95(2.2) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (19), shall be read as follows for taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that end after 1999 and begin before 2009:

(2.2) For the purpose of subsection (2), other than paragraph (2)(f),

(a) a non-resident corporation that was not a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout a particular taxation year shall be deemed to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout that year where

(i) a person or partnership has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of the capital stock of that non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, that non-resident corporation became or ceased to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest, and

(ii) at the beginning of that year or at the end of that year, the non-resident corporation was a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest; and

(b) a non-resident corporation that was not related to a taxpayer or to a taxpayer and a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, as the case may be, throughout a particular taxation year is deemed to be related to the taxpayer or to the taxpayer and the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer throughout that year if

(i) a person or partnership has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of the capital stock of the non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, the non-resident corporation became (or would have become, if paragraph 251(5)(b) did not apply to rights contained in the agreement under which the person acquired the shares), or ceased to be, a non-resident corporation that was related to the taxpayer or to the taxpayer and the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, and

(ii) at the beginning, or at the end, of that year, the non-resident corporation was related to the taxpayer or to the taxpayer and the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

(b) if a taxpayer elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this Act is assented to, subsection 95(2.2) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (19), also applies to taxation years, of all its foreign affiliates, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000, as though subsection 95(2.2) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (19), read as follows:

Proposed Amendment — 18-month extension to election deadline

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 39(6), will amend para. 26(42)(b) of the Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007 (Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35) to change the above election deadline to "the day that is 18 months after the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes December 14, 2007".

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): See under Proposed Amendment to subsec. 26(40) above.

Dept. of Finance news release 2008-048, June 27, 2008: See "Proposed Amendment — Extended deadline for elections" at subsec. 26(46) below.

(2.2) For the purpose of subsection (2), other than paragraph (2)(f),

(a) a non-resident corporation that was not a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout a particular taxation year shall be deemed to be a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest throughout that year where

(i) a person has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of the capital stock of that non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, that non-resident corporation became or ceased to be a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest, and

(ii) at the beginning of that year or at the end of that year, the non-resident corporation was a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest; and

(b) a non-resident corporation that was not related to a taxpayer or to a taxpayer and a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, as the case may be, throughout a particular taxation year is deemed to be related to the taxpayer or to the taxpayer and the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer throughout that year if

(i) a person has, in that year, acquired or disposed of shares of the capital stock of the non-resident corporation or any other corporation and, because of that acquisition or disposition, the non-resident corporation became (or would have become, if paragraph 251(5)(b) did not apply to rights contained in the agreement under which the person acquired the shares), or ceased to be, a non-resident corporation that was related to the taxpayer or to the taxpayer and the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, and

(ii) at the beginning, or at the end, of that year, the non-resident corporation was related to the taxpayer or to the taxpayer and the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer.

(43) Subsection 95(2.21) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (19), applies to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that end after 1999. However,

(a) for taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that end after 1999 and begin before 2009, subsection 95(2.21) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (19), is to be read as follows:

(2.21) Subsection (2.2) does not apply for the purpose of paragraph (2)(a) in respect of any income or loss referred to in that paragraph, of a particular foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer has a qualifying interest throughout the taxation year of the particular affiliate or to which the taxpayer is related throughout the taxation year, to the extent that that income or loss can reasonably be considered to have been realized or to have accrued

(a) before the earlier of

(i) the time at which the particular affiliate became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest or to which the taxpayer is related, and

(ii) the time at which the particular affiliate became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), a foreign affiliate of another person resident in Canada in respect of which the other person resident in Canada had a qualifying interest or to which the other person resident in Canada is related, where

(A) the taxpayer is a corporation,

(B) the taxpayer did not exist at the beginning of the taxation year,

(C) the particular affiliate became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in the taxation year because of a disposition, in the taxation year, of shares of the capital stock of the particular affiliate to the taxpayer by the other person resident in Canada, and

(D) the other person resident in Canada was, immediately before that disposition, related to the taxpayer; or

(b) before the earlier of

(i) the time at which a non-resident corporation (other than the particular affiliate), or a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (other than the particular affiliate), referred to in paragraph

(2.2)(a) became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2),

(A) a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in respect of which the taxpayer had a qualifying interest, or

(B) related to the taxpayer and to the particular affiliate, and

(ii) the time at which a non-resident corporation (other than the particular affiliate), or a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer (other than the particular affiliate), referred to in paragraph (2.2)(a) became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), a foreign affiliate, of another person resident in Canada, in respect of which the other person resident in Canada had a qualifying interest (or became, as determined without reference to subsection (2.2), related to the other person resident in Canada and to the particular affiliate), where

(A) the taxpayer is a corporation,

(B) the taxpayer did not exist at the beginning of the taxation year,

(C) the particular affiliate became a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer in the taxation year because of a disposition, in the taxation year, of shares of the capital stock of the particular affiliate to the taxpayer by the other person resident in Canada, and

(D) the other person resident in Canada was, immediately before that disposition, related to the taxpayer.

(b) if a taxpayer makes a valid election under paragraph (42)(b) in respect of all its foreign affiliates, subsection 95(2.21) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (19), being read in the manner described in paragraph (a), also applies to taxation years, of all its foreign affiliates, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000.

(44) Subject to subsection (46), subsection (24) applies to the 2001 and subsequent taxation years of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer. However, if a taxpayer elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this Act is assented to, that subsection applies to taxation years, of all its foreign affiliates, that begin after 1994.

Proposed Amendment — 18-month extension to election deadline

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 39(7), will amend subsec. 26(44) of the Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007 (Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35) to change the above election deadline to "the day that is 18 months after the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes December 14, 2007".

(45) Subsection (25) applies to taxation years, of a foreign affiliate of a taxpayer, that begin after December 20, 2002. However, if a taxpayer elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which this Act is assented to, subsections (11) and (25) apply to taxation years, of all its foreign affiliates, that begin after 1994.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 39(8), will amend the opening words of subsec. 26(46) of the Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007 (Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35) to read:

Dept. of Finance news release 2008-048, June 27, 2008: Government of Canada Eases Tax Compliance Burden for Internationally-Engaged Canadian Businesses

The Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, today proposed changes to the Income Tax Act for Canadian businesses with foreign affiliates and those that report earnings in a foreign currency.

"Our government is committed to creating a corporate tax system that is both fair and internationally competitive," said Minister Flaherty. "The proposals I am announcing today will improve the tax system and will assist Canadian businesses in complying with the tax law."

Foreign Affiliates

Bill C-28, the second Budget 2007 implementation bill, provided substantial tax relief for Canadian businesses, including the historic corporate income tax rate reductions announced in the 2007 Economic Statement. In addition, the bill, which received Royal Assent on December 14, 2007, implemented a number of amendments to the Income Tax Act relating to foreign affiliates.

Included in the bill were provisions which allow taxpayers to elect retroactive application of some of these foreign affiliate amendments. However, in response to concerns that the deadline for filing these elections is too tight — for example, a taxpayer with a December 31, 2007 year-end must file these elections by June 30, 2008 — the Government is proposing to extend the filing deadline for these elections by 18 months. These proposals are set out in more detail in the attached annex.

Annex

Foreign Affiliates

Bill C-28, which received Royal Assent on December 14, 2007, included a number of amendments to the Income Tax Act that implement various foreign affiliate proposals announced in Budget 2007 as well as related foreign affiliate proposals announced on February 27, 2004.

In this context, Bill C-28 contains a one-time election (commonly referred to as the "Global Election") which allows taxpayers to elect retroactive application of a block of foreign affiliate amendments. In addition to the Global Election, there are various other foreign affiliate amendments in Bill C-28 that allow for separate one-time elections. In the case of both of the Global Election and the separate elections, the elections apply to all foreign affiliates of the particular taxpayer.

As enacted, Bill C-28 requires that a taxpayer wishing to make the Global Election or a separate election must do so by filing the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which the bill received Royal Assent. Since corporate filing-due dates are generally six months after year-end, this means that a taxpayer with a December 31, 2007 year-end must file these elections by June 30, 2008.

The Government has received comments from stakeholders, in respect of both the Global Election and the separate elections, expressing concern with the current election deadline. To address these concerns, it is proposed that the filing deadline for both the Global Election and the separate elections be extended by 18 months.

(a) paragraphs (a), (c) and (c.1) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 95(1) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (2), subsection (8), paragraphs 95(2)(g.01) and (g.02) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (13), paragraph 95(2)(i) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (14), paragraphs 95(2)(o) to (t) and (z) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (16), subsections (18) and (22) and paragraph 95(3)(d) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (24), apply to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994;

(b) subparagraph 95(2)(a)(i) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (10), read in the manner described in paragraph (35)(a) but read without reference to sub-subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(A)(I)2 of the Act, subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(B)(II) of the Act and the word "or" at the end of subclause 95(2)(a)(i)(B)(I) of the Act, also applies to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000;

(c) clauses 95(2)(a)(ii)(A) to (C) and (E) of the Act and subparagraphs 95(2)(a)(v) and (vi) of the Act, all as enacted by subsection (10), read in the manner described in paragraph (35)(a), also apply to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and end before 2000, except that the references to "income or loss" in that subparagraph 95(2)(a)(v) and that portion of subparagraph 95(2)(a)(vi) before clause (A) of that subparagraph 95(2)(a)(vi), as those subparagraphs apply to those taxation years of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, shall be replaced by a reference to "income";

(d) paragraph 95(2)(g) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (13), being read in the manner described in subsection (37), also applies to taxation years, of all foreign affiliates of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and before December 21, 2002; and

(e) paragraph 95(2)(i) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (14), as required by subsection (28) to be read, in respect of settlements and extinguishments of debt held by a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that occur before October 2, 2007 in taxation years, of the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, that begin after December 20, 2002, also applies in respect of settlements and extinguishments of debt held by a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer that occur in taxation years, of the foreign affiliate of the taxpayer, that begin after 1994 and before December 21, 2002.

(47) If a taxpayer has made what would, but for this subsection, be a valid election under subsection (46) and the taxpayer has, on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day that is the third anniversary of the day on which this Act is assented to, filed with the Minister of National Revenue a notice in writing to revoke the election, the election is deemed, otherwise than for the purpose of this subsection, never to have been made.

Proposed Amendment — Revocation of election permitted

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 39(9), will amend subsec. 26(47) of the Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007 (Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35) to read:

(47) If a taxpayer has made what would, but for this subsection, be a valid election under any of paragraph (35)(b), subsections (38) and (40), paragraph (42)(b) and subsections (44) to (46) and the taxpayer has, on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes December 14, 2010, filed with the Minister of National Revenue a notice in writing to revoke the election, the election is deemed, otherwise than for the purpose of this subsection, never to have been made.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Third, the scope of the revocation option is being broadened. Currently the so-called "global election" can be revoked by the filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes December 14, 2010. Although the latter date is not being changed, this revocation option is being made applicable to the 6 other foreign affiliate elections as well, by virtue of an amendment to subsection 26(47). revocation option is being made applicable to the 6 other foreign affiliate elections as well [95(2)(a)(ii), 95(2)(n), 95(2)(u), 95(2.2) [with 95(2.21)], 95(3), 95(3.1) [with 95(2)(a.1)] — ed.], by virtue of an amendment to subsection 26(47) [of Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35 — ed.].

(48) Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5) of the Act, any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take an election referred to in any of subsections (35), (38), (40), (42) and (44) to (46), or a revocation referred to in subsection (47), into account.

Proposed Amendment — Late reassessment at taxpayer's option

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — foreign affiliates), subsec. 39(10), will amend subsec. 26(48) of the Budget and Economic Statement Implementation Act, 2007 (Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35) to read:

(48) Any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for any taxation year that ends before Dec. 14, 2007 and would otherwise be precluded because of 152(4)–(5) shall be made to the extent necessary to take into account any of the following:

(a) an election made by the taxpayer under any of subsections (35), (38), (40), (42) and (44) to (46) [re ITA 95(2)(a)(ii), 95(2)(n), 95(2)(u), 95(2.2) [with 95(2.21)], 95(3), 95(3.1) [with 95(2)(a.1)] and the Global Section 95 Election — ed.] or a revocation referred to in subsection (47) [see Proposed Amendment above — ed.] or any provision of this section in respect of which an election is made under any of those subsections by the taxpayer; or

(b) subsection 10(3) [amending 17(15)"controlled foreign affiliate" — ed.] or any provision of this section [all other amendments to s. 95 — ed.] (other than any provision referred to in paragraph (a) in respect of which the taxpayer has made an election referred to in paragraph (a)), if the taxpayer

(i) elects in writing in respect of all of its foreign affiliates that this subsection apply in respect of that provision, and

(ii) files that election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before June 30, 2011.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Fourth, subsection 26(48) of Bill C-28 [S.C. 2007, c. 35 — ed.] is being amended. Subsection 26(48) currently provides for an override of the normal statute-barring provisions of subsections 152(4) to (5) of the Income Tax Act in order to take into account the 7 elections referred to above. However, some foreign affiliate provisions of Bill C-28 have automatic, i.e. non-elective, application to periods that may be statute-barred. Thus, subsection 26(48) is being amended to also provide for the override of the normal statute-barring provisions of the Income Tax Act for any non-elective provision of section 26 of Bill C-28, as well as its subsection 10(3), at the option of the taxpayer. To avail itself of this option, the taxpayer must file an election on or before June 30, 2011.

Proposed Addition — 96(1.01)

(1.01) Income allocation to former member — If, at any time in a fiscal period of a partnership, a taxpayer ceases to be a member of the partnership

(a) for the purposes of subsection (1) and sections 34.1, 34.2, 101, 103 and 249.1, and notwithstanding paragraph 98.1(1)(d), the taxpayer is deemed to be a member of the partnership at the end of the fiscal period; and

(b) for the purposes of the application of paragraph (2.1)(b) and subparagraphs 53(1)(e)(i) and (viii) and (2)(c)(i) to the taxpayer, the fiscal period of the partnership is deemed to end

(i) immediately before the time at which the taxpayer is deemed by subsection 70(5) to have disposed of the interest in the partnership, where the taxpayer ceased to be a member of the partnership because of the taxpayer's death, and

(ii) immediately before the time that is immediately before the time that the taxpayer ceased to be a member of the partnership, in any other case.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 49(1), will add subsec. 96(1.01), applicable in respect of a taxpayer, in the case where the taxpayer ceases to be a member of a partnership because of the taxpayer's death, to 2003 et seq.; and in any other case, to 1995 et seq.

Technical Notes (July 2010): New subsection 96(1.01) generally applies to the 1995 and subsequent taxation years. Paragraph 96(1.01)(a) deems a taxpayer who is a former member of a partnership to be a member at the end of the fiscal period in which the taxpayer ceased to be a member, for the purpose of allocating partnership income or loss for that period. This new provision clarifies that, although a taxpayer may have ceased to be a member of a partnership before the end of the partnership's fiscal period, an amount of the income or loss of the partnership is allocable to the taxpayer under subsection 96(1). The amount so allocated is relevant to certain calculations relating to partnership income or loss, including the calculation of the adjusted cost base of the former member of the partnership immediately before the taxpayer ceased to be member.

New subsection 96(1.01) applies notwithstanding the rule in paragraph 98.1(1)(d) that would otherwise deem a former partnership member with a residual interest not to be a member of the partnership for the purposes of certain provisions of the Act.

New paragraph 96(1.01)(a) does not require that partnership income or loss be calculated immediately after a member leaves the partnership. The income or loss allocation, including that of the former member, continues to be calculated after the end of the partnership's fiscal period. In some circumstances the fiscal period of a partnership may end in a taxation year of the former member that is after the taxation year in which the partnership interest was disposed of. It is, therefore, possible that a member will not be required to report a partnership income allocation until the taxation year following that in which a capital gain or loss on the disposition of the partnership interest is required to be reported.

New paragraph 96(1.01)(b) clarifies that an income or loss allocation for the "stub period" during which a taxpayer was a member is included in the calculation of the adjusted cost base of the partnership interest at the time the former member disposes of the interest or a residual interest. The income or loss allocation will affect the calculation of a capital loss under paragraph 98.1(1)(c) or subsection 100(2). Subsection 96(1.01) may ameliorate certain situations where, under the existing provisions of the Act, a former member may have been required to report a capital gain in the year that the person left the partnership, only to be offset by a capital loss in a subsequent year.

Example

Ms. Brown was a partner in XYZ Partnership until June 30. The fiscal period of the partnership ends December 31. The adjusted cost base of her partnership interest on January 1 was Nil. From January to June 30 she withdrew $16,000 in capital.

Just before the end of the partnership's fiscal period, all the partners agree that Ms. Brown's share of income for the period was $20,000. On December 30 she was paid $4,000 in satisfaction of her residual interest.

A summary of Ms. Brown's adjusted cost base is as follows:

	Adjusted Cost Base
January 1, Year 1:		Nil
January 31, Drawings	$ <16,000>	<16,000>
Retirement of Ms. Brown, June 30
December 30
— Share of income for 6 months	20,000	4,000
— Payout of rights to equity	4,000	Nil
December 31 — Fiscal period ends

In the result, Ms. Brown is allocated $20,000 income under subsection 96(1.01). The adjusted cost base of her interest immediately before she retired on June 30 was $4,000 (i.e., $20,000 less $16,000). She is deemed by paragraph 98.1(1)(b) to have disposed of her residual interest on December 31 for proceeds of disposition of $4,000, such that she has no capital gain or loss on the disposition.

Subparagraph 53(1)(e)(v) requires that "rights or things" (referred to in subsection 70(2)) in respect of the partnership interest of a deceased partner be included in the adjusted cost base of the partnership interest of the deceased. This provision is no longer relevant to income of the partnership to which a partner is entitled at the time of death, since new subsection 96(1.01) applies to the allocation of partnership income for the fiscal period in which the taxpayer dies. However, subparagraph 53(1)(e)(v) continues to apply in respect of other rights or things, if any, to which the deceased taxpayer is entitled through the partnership that are required to be included in the income of the deceased taxpayer under subsection 70(2).

Related Provisions: 96(3) — Election by members of partnership.

(1.1) Allocation of share of income to retiring partner — For the purposes of subsection (1) and sections 34.1, 34.2, 101, 103 and 249.1,

(i) the partnership, or

(ii) a partnership that at any time has ceased to exist or would, but for subsection 98(1), have ceased to exist, and either

(A) the members of that partnership, or

(B) the members of another partnership in which, immediately after that time, any of the members referred to in clause (A) became members have agreed to make such an allocation or to the taxpayer's spouse, common-law partner, estate or heirs or to any person referred to in subsection (1.3), the taxpayer, spouse, common-law partner, estate, heirs or person, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be a member of the partnership; and

(b) all amounts each of which is an amount equal to the share of the income or loss referred to in this subsection allocated to a taxpayer from a partnership in respect of a particular fiscal period of the partnership shall, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year in which that fiscal period of the partnership ends.

Proposed Amendment — Election that 96(1.7) not apply for 2000

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 49(7), will enact the transitional rule below for subsec. 96(1.7):

49. (7) If a taxpayer, who is a member of a partnership at the end of a particular fiscal period, of the partnership, that ends in the taxpayer's 2000 taxation year, so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year in which this Act is assented to,

(a) subsection 96(1.7) of the Act does not apply to the taxpayer's 2000 taxation year;

(b) the taxpayer is deemed to have a capital gain, a capital loss or a business investment loss in respect of the partnership for the particular fiscal period equal to the amount of the taxable capital gain, the allowable capital loss or the allowable business investment loss in respect of the partnership for the particular fiscal period, as the case may be, multiplied by the reciprocal of the fraction in paragraph 38(a) of the Act that applies to the partnership for the particular fiscal period;

(c) the amount of a capital gain, a capital loss or a business investment loss determined under paragraph (b) is deemed to be a capital gain, a capital loss or a business investment loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from a disposition of a capital property on the day that the particular fiscal period ends; and

(d) except as provided by this subsection, no amount shall be included in computing the taxpayer's taxable capital gains, allowable capital losses and allowable business investment losses in respect of the taxable capital gains, allowable capital losses and allowable business investment losses of the partnership for the particular fiscal period.

Technical Notes (July 2010): The calculation of the capital gains inclusion rate of a taxpayer for the 2000 taxation year takes into account the net capital gains or losses of the taxpayer for the year 2000 other than those allocated by a partnership. It is the inclusion rate of the taxpayer, determined without reference to the allocated partnership gains, that is applied to the taxpayer's share of the partnership gains in determining the taxable capital gains of the taxpayer derived from the partnership capital gains. As a result, taxpayers with different inclusion rates report different amounts of taxable capital gains in respect of capital gains allocated to the taxpayer by a partnership.

[Subclause 49(7)] introduces a special transitional rule under which members of a partnership may elect to treat capital gains and losses allocated to them by a partnership as their own capital gains and losses for the purpose of calculating the taxpayer's capital gains inclusion rate for the year 2000. The gains and losses will be considered to have been realized by the taxpayer on the day on which the fiscal period of the partnership ends.

If a taxpayer so elects, subsection 96(1.7) will not apply. The taxpayer will be deemed to have realized (on the day on which the fiscal period of the partnership ends in the taxpayer's 2000 taxation year) a capital gain, a capital loss or a business investment loss in respect of the partnership equal to the amount of the taxable capital gain, the allowable capital loss or the allowable business investment loss, as the case may be, of the partnership allocated to the taxpayer, multiplied by the reciprocal of the fraction in paragraph 38(a) that applied to the partnership for the particular fiscal period. Where the inclusion rate for the partnership cannot be determined, the rules in subsection 96(1.7) apply to determine the inclusion rate of the partnership. This capital gain, capital loss or business investment loss is deemed to be a capital gain, capital loss or business investment loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from a disposition of a capital property on the day that the particular fiscal period ends.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 96.

(1.71) Application — Where the fraction referred to in the description of C in subsection (1.7) cannot be determined by a taxpayer in respect of a fiscal period of a partnership that ended before February 28, 2000, or includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, for the purposes of subsection (1.7), the fraction is deemed to be

(a) where the fiscal period ended before or began before February 28, 2000, 3/4;

(b) where the fiscal period began after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, 2/3; and

(c) in any other case, 1/2.

History: Subsec. 96(1.71) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 74(4), applicable to fiscal periods that begin after 2000.

Proposed Amendment — 96(2.4)(a)

(a) by operation of any law governing the partnership arrangement, the liability of the member as a member of the partnership is limited (except by operation of a provision of a statute of Canada or a province that limits the member's liability only for debts, obligations and liabilities of the partnership, or any member of, the partnership, arising from negligent acts or omissions, from misconduct or from fault of another member of the partnership or an employee, an agent or a representative of the partnership in the course of the partnership business while the partnership is a limited liability partnership);

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 49(2), will amend para. 96(2.4)(a) to read as above, applicable after June 20, 2001.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 96(2.4) provides an extended definition of "limited partner" for the purpose of applying the limited partnership at-risk rules in subsection 96(2.2).

Paragraph 96(2.4)(a) provides that a member of a partnership is a "limited partner" if, by operation of law governing the partnership agreement, the liability of the member as a member is limited. However, paragraph 96(2.4)(a) does not apply in cases where a member's liability is limited by operation of a statutory provision of Canada or of a province that limits the member's liability only for the debts, obligations and liabilities of a limited liability partnership (or of any member of the partnership) arising from negligent acts or omissions of another member of the partnership (or of an employee, agent or representative of the partnership) in the course of the partnership business and while the partnership is a limited liability partnership.

The Province of Quebec has amended its legislation concerning partnerships to allow partners to carry on their activities within a limited liability partnership. That legislation refers to the civil law concept of "fault/fautes". The English version of paragraph 96(2.4)(a) does not refer to the civil law concept of "fault" and is amended to do so, effective after June 20, 2001.

Proposed Amendment — 96(2.4)(a) — ACB adjustment

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 11, 2003: See under 40(3.11).

(b) the member or a person not dealing at arm's length with the member is entitled, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to receive an amount or to obtain a benefit that would be described in paragraph (2.2)(d) if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraphs (ii) and (vi);

(c) one of the reasons for the existence of the member who owns the interest

(i) can reasonably be considered to be to limit the liability of any person with respect to that interest, and

(ii) cannot reasonably be considered to be to permit any person who has an interest in the member to carry on that person's business (other than an investment business) in the most effective manner; or

(d) there is an agreement or other arrangement for the disposition of an interest in the partnership and one of the main reasons for the agreement or arrangement can reasonably be considered to be to attempt to avoid the application of this subsection to the member.

(b) the taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length is entitled to receive an amount or obtain a benefit that would be described in paragraph (2.2)(d) if it were read without reference to subparagraphs (2.2)(d)(ii) and (vi);

(d) there is an agreement or other arrangement for the disposition of an interest in the partnership and one of the main reasons for the agreement or arrangement may reasonably be considered to be to attempt to avoid the application of this subsection to the taxpayer.

(a) the amount was used by the partnership to make an expenditure required to be made pursuant to the terms of a written agreement entered into by it before February 26, 1986, or to repay a loan, debt or contribution of capital that had been received or incurred in respect of any such expenditure,

(b) the amount was raised pursuant to the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus or registration statement filed before February 26, 1986 with a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province, and, where required by law, accepted for filing by that public authority, or

(i) it was made or executed on behalf of the taxpayer and each other person who was a member of the partnership during the fiscal period, and

(9) Idem — For the purpose of applying subsection (8), where it can reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons that there is a member of the partnership who is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of that subsection, the member shall be deemed not to be resident in Canada.

Proposed Amendment — 96(9)

(9) Application of foreign partnership rule — For the purposes of applying subsection (8) and this subsection,

(a) where it can reasonably be considered that one of the main reasons that a member of a partnership is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of subsection (8), the member is deemed not to be resident in Canada; and

(b) where at any time a particular partnership is a member of another partnership,

(i) each person or partnership that is, at that time, a member of the particular partnership is deemed to be a member of the other partnership at that time,

(ii) each person or partnership that becomes a member of the particular partnership at that time is deemed to become a member of the other partnership at that time, and

(iii) each person or partnership that ceases to be a member of the particular partnership at that time is deemed to cease to be a member of the other partnership at that time.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part I — technical), subsec. 49(4), will amend subsec. 96(9) to read as above, applicable to fiscal periods that begin after June 22, 2000.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 96(8) provides rules that apply where, at a particular time, a Canadian resident becomes a member of a partnership, or a person who is a member of such a partnership becomes a resident of Canada. Where, immediately before the particular time no member of the partnership was resident in Canada, these rules apply in computing the income of the partnership for fiscal periods ending after the particular time. In general terms, the rules in subsection 96(8) are designed to prevent losses accrued while a partnership had no Canadian resident partners from being used to reduce Canadian income tax liabilities.

Subsection 96(9) provides that, where one of the main reasons that there is a member of the partnership who is resident in Canada is to avoid the application of subsection 96(8), that member will, for the purpose of applying subsection 96(8), be considered not to be resident in Canada.

Subsection 96(9) is amended to provide an explicit look-through rule for the purposes of subsection 96(8) so that members of partnerships may be identified through one or more tiers of partnerships that are members of other partnerships.

History: Subsec. 96(9) added by 1994, c. 21, s. 44, applicable to a particular partnership where a person or partnership becomes a member of the particular partnership after December 21, 1992, or where a member of the particular partnership becomes resident in Canada after August 30, 1993.

(1.1) Exception — non-resident person — Subsection (1) does not apply to a taxpayer's disposition of an interest in a partnership to a non-resident person if the partnership, immediately before and immediately after the acquisition of the interest by the non-resident person, uses all the property of the partnership in carrying on business through a permanent establishment in Canada.

(2) Gain from disposition of interest in partnership — In computing a taxpayer's gain for a taxation year from the disposition of an interest in a partnership, there shall be included, in addition to the amount thereof determined under subsection 40(1), the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts required by subsection 53(2) to be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer, immediately before the disposition, of the interest in the partnership,

exceeds

(b) the total of

(i) the cost to the taxpayer of the interest in the partnership determined for the purpose of computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time, and

(ii) all amounts required by subsection 53(1) to be added to the cost to the taxpayer of that interest in computing the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest at that time.

(a) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired a right to receive partnership property and not to have acquired an interest in a partnership;

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the right referred to in paragraph (a) at a cost equal to the amount determined to be the proceeds of disposition of the interest in the partnership to the deceased individual by virtue of paragraph 70(5)(a) or (6)(d), as the case may be; and

(c) section 43 is not applicable to the right.

History: Subsec. 100(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 126, applicable to dispositions that occur after April 26, 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(4) Notwithstanding paragraph 39(1)(b), the capital loss of a corporation from the disposition at any time of an interest in a partnership shall be deemed to be the amount of the loss otherwise determined minus the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the corporation's share of the partnership's loss, in respect of a share of the capital stock of a corporation that was property of the partnership at that time, would have been reduced pursuant to subsection 112(3.1) or (4.2) had the fiscal period of the partnership ended immediately before that time and had the partnership disposed of the share immediately before the end of that fiscal period for its fair market value at that time.

Proposed Addition — 100(5)

(5) Replacement of partnership capital — A taxpayer who pays an amount at any time in a taxation year is deemed to have a capital loss from a disposition of property for the year if

(a) the taxpayer disposed of an interest in a partnership before that time or, because of subsection (3), acquired before that time a right to receive property of a partnership;

(b) that time is after the disposition or acquisition, as the case may be;

(c) the amount would have been described in subparagraph 53(1)(e)(iv) had the taxpayer been a member of the partnership at that time; and

(d) the amount is paid pursuant to a legal obligation of the taxpayer to pay the amount.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), s. 51, will add subsec. 100(5), applicable to 1995 et seq.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Section 100 contains rules relevant to the calculation of capital gains and losses in respect of an interest in a partnership. There may be circumstances under which a former member of a partnership or an heir of a deceased member is required to pay an amount to the partnership to cover a deficit in the former member's equity account. Such a situation could arise, for instance, where the partnership has a net loss for the partnership's fiscal period in which the taxpayer ceased to be a member. The former member may have been deemed to have realized a capital gain under subsection 100(2) upon disposition of the partnership interest, if the former member had at that time a "negative" adjusted cost base under section 54 (if such a negative balance were allowed under that section).

New subsection 100(5), which generally applies to the 1995 and subsequent taxation years, deems a taxpayer to have a capital loss from the payment by the taxpayer of an amount after the time of disposition of the partnership interest, if that amount would have been a capital contribution to the partnership if the taxpayer had still been a member at the time of the payment. The loss is available to the former member or to an heir who has been deemed by subsection 100(3) to have acquired a right to acquire partnership property.

Example

Mr. Green was a partner in XYZ Partnership until June 30. The fiscal period end of the partnership was December 31. The adjusted cost base of his partnership interest on January 1 was Nil. From January to June 30 he withdrew $16,000 in capital.

Shortly after the fiscal period end, all the partners agree that Mr. Green's share of the partnership loss for the period was $20,000. During the following year he paid $36,000 owing by him to the partnership in satisfaction of his obligation.

A summary of Mr. Green's adjusted cost base is as follows:

		Adjusted Cost Base
January 1, Year 1:		Nil
January 31, Drawings	$ <16,000>	<16,000>
Retirement of Mr. Green, June 30
December 31, Year 1,
Share of loss for 6 months	<20,000>	<36,000>
March 31 — Repayment of partnership capital	36,000	Nil

Mr. Green is entitled to claim a partnership loss of $20,000 for the taxation year in which he retired ("Year 1"). He had a $36,000 "negative" adjusted cost base for his partnership interest as at the time that he left the partnership, giving rise to a deemed capital gain under subsection 100(2) for Year 1. However, he will be allowed a $36,000 capital loss under subsection 100(5) for the taxation year in which he repaid the deficit.

(a) was, by virtue of section 31, not deductible in computing the taxpayer's income for the year;

(b) was not deducted for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the partnership's taxation year in which the land was disposed of ended, or for any preceding taxation year of the taxpayer;

is deducted from

(ii) twice the amount of the taxpayer's taxable capital gain from the disposition of the land.

(4) Deemed disposition by trust [every 21 years] — Every trust is, at the end of each of the following days, deemed to have disposed of each property of the trust (other than exempt property) that was capital property (other than excluded property or depreciable property) or land included in the inventory of a business of the trust for proceeds equal to its fair market value (determined with reference to subsection 70(5.3)) at the end of that day and to have reacquired the property immediately after that day for an amount equal to that fair market value, and for the purposes of this Act those days are

> (i.1) is a trust that was created by the will of a taxpayer who died after 1971 to which property was transferred in circumstances to which paragraph 70(5.2)(c) (or, in the case of a transfer that occurred in a taxation year before 2007, (b) or (d), as those paragraphs read in their application to that taxation year) or (6)(d) applied, and that, immediately after any such property vested indefeasibly in the trust as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer, was a trust,

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 52(2), will amend subpara. 104(4)(a)(i.1) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2006.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 104(4) sets out what is generally referred to as the "21-year deemed realization rule" for trusts. The purpose of subsection 104(4) is to prevent the use of trusts to defer indefinitely the recognition for tax purposes of gains accruing on capital property. Subsection 104(4) generally treats capital property of a trust (other than certain trusts for the benefit of a spouse or common-law partner) as having been disposed of and reacquired by the trust every 21 years at the property's fair market value.

Subparagraph 104(4)(a)(i.1) is amended to apply to a trust to which property is transferred in circumstances to which paragraph 70(5.2)(c) applied. It is also amended to ensure that it continues to apply to a trust to which property was transferred in circumstances to which paragraph 70(5.2)(b) or (d) applied as those paragraphs read in their application to taxation years that began before 2007. This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2006.

> (ii) is a trust that was created after June 17, 1971 by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime that, at any time after 1971, was a trust, or

(ii.1) is a trust (other than a trust the terms of which are described in clause (iv)(A) that elects in its return of income under this Part for its first taxation year that this subparagraph not apply) that was created after 1999 by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime and that, at any time after 1999, was a trust under which

(iii) the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the spouse's or common-law partner's death and no person except the spouse or common-law partner could, before the spouse's or common-law partner's death, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust, or

(iv) in the case of a trust described in subparagraph (ii.1) created by a taxpayer who had attained 65 years of age at the time the trust was created,

(A) the taxpayer was entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the taxpayer's death and no person except the taxpayer could, before the taxpayer's death, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust,

(B) the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse was, in combination with the spouse or the taxpayer, as the case may be, entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the later of the death of the taxpayer and the death of the spouse and no other person could, before the later of those deaths, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust, or

(C) the taxpayer or the taxpayer's common-law partner was, in combination with the common-law partner or the taxpayer, as the case may be, entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arose before the later of the death of the taxpayer and the death of the common-law partner and no other person could, before the later of those deaths, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust, the day on which the death or the later death, as the case may be, occurs;

(a.1) where the trust is a pre-1972 spousal trust on January 1, 1993 and the spouse or common-law partner referred to in the definition "pre-1972 spousal trust" in subsection 108(1) in respect of the trust was

(i) in the case of a trust created by the will of a taxpayer, alive on January 1, 1976, and

(ii) in the case of a trust created by a taxpayer during the taxpayer's lifetime, alive on May 26, 1976, the day that is the later of

(iii) the day on which that spouse or common-law partner dies, and

(iv) January 1, 1993;

(a.2) where the trust makes a distribution to a beneficiary in respect of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust, it is reasonable to conclude that the distribution was financed by a liability of the trust and one of the purposes of incurring the liability was to avoid taxes otherwise payable under this Part as a consequence of the death of any individual, the day on which the distribution is made (determined as if a day ends for the trust immediately after the time at which each distribution is made by the trust to a beneficiary in respect of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust);

(a.3) where property (other than property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) has been transferred by a taxpayer after December 17, 1999 to the trust in circumstances to which subsection 73(1) applied, it is reasonable to conclude that the property was so transferred in anticipation that the taxpayer would subsequently cease to reside in Canada and the taxpayer subsequently ceases to reside in Canada, the first day after that transfer during which the taxpayer ceases to reside in Canada (determined as if a day ends for the trust immediately after each time at which the taxpayer ceases to be resident in Canada);

(a.4) where the trust is a trust to which property was transferred by a taxpayer who is an individual (other than a trust) in circumstances in which section 73 or subsection 107.4(3) applied, the transfer did not result in a change in beneficial ownership of that property and no person (other than the taxpayer) or partnership has any absolute or contingent right as a beneficiary under the trust (determined with reference to subsection (1.1)), the day on which the death of the taxpayer occurs;

(b) the day that is 21 years after the latest of

(i) January 1, 1972,

(ii) the day on which the trust was created, and

(iii) where applicable, the day determined under paragraph (a), (a.1) or (a.4) as those paragraphs applied from time to time after 1971; and

(c) the day that is 21 years after any day (other than a day determined under any of paragraphs (a) to (a.4)) that is, because of this subsection, a day on which the trust is deemed to have disposed of each such property.

Proposed Repeal — 104(5.3)

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 17(1), will repeal subsec. 104(5.3), applicable to taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011.

Proposed Amendment — 104(6) opening words

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — non-resident trusts), subsec. 9(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 104(6) to add "Subject to subsections (7) to (7.1)," to the beginning, applicable to taxation years that end after 2006, and to each earlier taxation year of a trust to which subsec. 94(3), as amended, applies and each taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust in which one of those earlier taxation years of the trust ends.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 104(6) generally permits a trust to deduct, in computing its income for a taxation year, an amount not exceeding the portion of its income otherwise determined for the year that becomes payable in the year to a beneficiary under the trust. Subsection 104(6) is amended so that it is expressly subject to subsections 104(7) to 104(7.1).

This amendment applies to taxation years that end after 2006. It also applies to each earlier taxation year of a trust to which subsection 94(3) applies (because of a valid election by the trust under the coming-into-force provision for new section 94) and each taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust in which one of those earlier taxation years of the trust ends.

(a) in the case of an employee trust, the amount by which the amount that would, but for this subsection, be its income for the year exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is its income for the year from a business

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is its loss for the year from a business;

(a.1) in the case of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan, such part of the amount that would, but for this subsection, be its income for the year as was paid in the year to a beneficiary;

(a.2) where the taxable income of the trust for the year is subject to tax under this Part because of paragraph 146(4)(c) or subsection 146.3(3.1), the part of the amount that, but for this subsection, would be the income of the trust for the year that was paid in the year to a beneficiary;

(a.3) in the case of an inter vivos trust deemed by subsection 143(1) to exist in respect of a congregation that is a constituent part of a religious organization, such part of its income for the year as became payable in the year to a beneficiary;

(a.4) in the case of an employee life and health trust, an amount that became payable by the trust in the year as a designated employee benefit (as defined in subsection 144.1(1)); and

(b) in any other case, such amount as the trust claims not exceeding the amount, if any, by which

(i) such part (in this section referred to as the trust's "adjusted distributions amount" for the taxation year) of the amount that, but for

(A) this subsection,

(B) subsections (5.1), (12), and 107(4),

(C) the application of subsections (4), (5) and (5.2) in respect of a day determined under paragraph (4)(a), and

(D) subsection 12(10.2), except to the extent that that subsection applies to amounts paid to a trust described in paragraph 70(6.1)(b) and before the death of the spouse or common-law partner referred to in that paragraph, would be its income for the year as became payable in the year to a beneficiary or was included under subsection 105(2) in computing the income of a beneficiary

exceeds

(ii) where the trust

(A) is a post-1971 spousal or common-law partner trust that was created after December 20, 1991, or

(B) would be a post-1971 spousal or common-law partner trust if the reference in paragraph (4)(a) to "at the time it was created" were read as "on December 20, 1991", and the spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph (4)(a) in respect of the trust is alive throughout the year, such part of the amount that, but for

(C) this subsection,

(D) subsections (12) and 107(4), and

(E) subsection 12(10.2), except to the extent that that subsection applies to an amount paid to a trust described in paragraph 70(6.1)(b) and before the death of the spouse or common-law partner referred to in that paragraph, would be its income for the year as became payable in the year to a beneficiary (other than the spouse or common-law partner) or was included under subsection 105(2) in computing the income of a beneficiary (other than the spouse or common-law partner),

(ii.1) where the trust is an alter ego trust or a joint spousal or common-law partner trust and the death or later death, as the case may be, referred to in subparagraph (4)(a)(iv) has not occurred before the end of the year, such part of the amount that, but for this subsection and subsections (12), 12(10.2)

and 107(4), would be its income as became payable in the year to a beneficiary (other than a taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in clause (4)(a)(iv)(A), (B) or (C)) or was included under subsection 105(2) in computing the income of a beneficiary (other than such a taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner),

(iii) where the trust is an alter ego trust, a joint spousal or common-law partner trust, a trust to which paragraph (4)(a.4) applies or a post-1971 spousal or common-law partner trust and the death or the later death, as the case may be, referred to in paragraph (4)(a) in respect of the trust occurred on a day in the year, the amount, if any, by which

(A) the maximum amount that would be deductible under this subsection in computing the trust's income for the year if this subsection were read without reference to this subparagraph

exceeds the total of

(B) the amount that, but for this subsection and subsections (12), 12(10.2) and 107(4), would be its income that became payable in the year to the taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in subparagraph (4)(a)(iii), clause (4)(a)(iv)(A), (B) or (C) or paragraph (4)(a.4), as the case may be, and

Proposed Addition — 104(7.01)

(7.01) Trusts deemed to be resident in Canada [— limitation on deduction] — If a trust is deemed by subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for a taxation year for the purpose of computing the trust's income for the year, the maximum amount deductible under subsection (6) in computing its income for the year is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the maximum amount that, if this Act were read without reference to this subsection, would be deductible under subsection (6) in computing its income for the year,

exceeds

(b) the total of

(i) the portion of the trust's designated income for the year (within the meaning assigned by section 210) that became payable in the year to a non-resident beneficiary under the trust in respect of an interest of the non-resident as a beneficiary under the trust, and

(ii) all amounts each of which is determined by the formula

where

A is an amount (other than an amount described in subparagraph (i)) that

(A) is paid or credited (having the meaning assigned by Part XIII) in the year to the trust,

(B) would, if this Act were read without reference to subparagraph 94(3)(a)(viii), paragraph 212(2)(b) and sections 216 and 217, be an amount as a consequence of the payment or crediting of which the trust would have been liable to tax under Part XIII, and

(C) becomes payable in the year by the trust to a non-resident beneficiary under the trust in respect of an interest of the non-resident as a beneficiary under the trust, and

B is

(A) 0.35, if the trust can establish to the satisfaction of the Minister that the non-resident beneficiary to whom the amount described in the description of A is payable is resident in a country with which Canada has a tax treaty under which the income tax that Canada may impose on the beneficiary in respect of the amount is limited, and

(B) 0.6, in any other case.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — non-resident trusts), subsec. 9(2), will add subsec. 104(7.01), applicable to taxation years that end after 2006, and to each earlier taxation year of a trust to which subsec. 94(3), as amended, applies and each taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust in which one of those earlier taxation years of the trust ends.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 104(6) generally permits a trust to deduct, in computing income for a taxation year, an amount not exceeding the portion of its income for the year that becomes payable in the year to a beneficiary under the trust. Because of subsection 104(24), trust income is deemed not to have become payable in the year to a beneficiary unless it is paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of the amount.

New subsection 104(7.01) restricts the amount that a trust, that is deemed by subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada (referred to in this commentary as a "subsection 94(3) trust"), can deduct under subsection 104(6) in computing its income in the event that the trust has Canadian-source income and makes distributions to beneficiaries not resident in Canada.

In effect, subsection 104(7.01) acts as a proxy for taxes under Parts XII.2 and XIII of the Act in connection with Canadian-source income earned by a subsection 94(3) trust that has become payable by the trust to its non-resident beneficiaries.

New subsection 94(3) deems a trust to which it applies to be resident in Canada for certain purposes, not including Part XII.2. Accordingly, a trust that is resident in Canada solely because of the deeming provision in subsection 94(3) would generally be non-resident for purposes of Part XII.2. Because of an existing exemption for non-resident trusts in Part XII.2, the tax under that Part does not apply to such a trust. (A subsection 94(3) trust remains a non-resident also for purposes of determining whether any other trust is liable to tax under Part XII.2 in respect of distributions to the subsection 94(3) trust.)

A subsection 94(3) trust is also exempt from Part XIII withholding obligations on Canadian-source income earned by it that becomes payable by it in the year to non-resident persons.

However, to ensure that subsection 94(3) trusts are not inappropriately used to distribute Canadian-source income free of tax to non-resident beneficiaries, subsection 104(7.01) limits the amount of any trust deduction under subsection 104(6) for such distributions, thereby ensuring the income is subject to Part I tax in the trust.

It should also be noted that persons that pay or credit an amount to a subsection 94(3) trust are still subject to a withholding obligation under section 215 notwithstanding that the trust itself is exempt from Part XIII tax. This is because new paragraph 94(4)(c) provides that the deemed Canadian residence under subsection 94(3) does not apply for the purposes of determining withholding obligations under section 215. The CRA will hold the withholding taxes paid and, as required by paragraph 94(3)(g), apply them on account of the trust's Part I tax liability, but only to the extent the amount on which Part XIII tax is paid is an amount included in the trust's income. The existing provisions of the Act do not expressly give a Part XIII exemption in this regard to trusts that are subject to existing subsection 94(1). Instead, existing subparagraph 94(1)(c)(ii) allows a tax credit to be claimed by those trusts under section 126 in connection with Part XIII tax on payments made to those trusts.

As mentioned above, subsection 104(7.01) reduces the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6). More specifically, the amount by which the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) for a taxation year is reduced under subsection 104(7.01) is equal to the total of:

- the portion of the trust's "designated income" for the year (as defined in Part XII.2) that became payable in the year to a non-resident beneficiary (including another subsection 94(3) trust) under the trust in respect of an interest of the non-resident as a beneficiary under the trust, and
- all amounts each of which is the product obtained by multiplying a specified factor by each particular amount that is paid or credited in the year to the trust that would, disregarding express provisions to the contrary in the Act, be subject to Part XIII tax and that is payable in the year to a non-resident beneficiary (including another subsection 94(3) trust) under the trust in respect of an interest of the non-resident as a beneficiary under the trust.

The specified factor in respect of each particular amount described in the second paragraph above is 0.35, if the trust can establish to the satisfaction of the Minister of National Revenue that the non-resident beneficiary to whom the particular amount is payable is resident in a country with which Canada has a tax treaty under which the income tax that Canada may impose on the beneficiary in respect of the amount is limited. In any other case, the specified factor is 0.6.

This amendment applies to taxation years that end after 2006. It also applies to each earlier taxation year of a trust to which subsection 94(3) applies (because of a valid election by the trust under the coming-into-force provision for new section 94) and each taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust in which one of those earlier taxation years of the trust ends.

The example below illustrates the operation of new subsection 104(7.01).

Example

Trust X is an offshore trust established by Stefan, a long-term resident of Canada. The primary beneficiaries under the trust are Linda (a resident of Canada), Tim (a resident of non-Treatyland) and Bart (a resident of the United States).

Trust X receives $1,600 of income in its 2007 taxation year. This income consists of $400 of taxable dividends received from a taxable Canadian corporation. The remaining $1,200 of income is from other sources, none of which is "designated income" (as defined in Part XII.2) of the trust.

$1,050 of Trust X's income for 2007 is made payable in the year to Bart. Of this amount, $100 represents the taxable dividends. Trust X makes payable $200 of its income to Tim. Of this amount, $200 represents the taxable dividends. The remaining $350 of the trust's income is made payable in the year to Linda. Of this amount, $100 represents the taxable dividends.

Trust X is assumed to have designated the $400 of taxable dividends under subsection 104(19). (Where a designation under subsection 104(19) is available and the designation is made, the designated portion of the dividend income of the trust will, for the purposes of the Act (other than Part XIII), maintain its character, as dividend income, in the hands of the beneficiary.)

Results

1. Because Trust X has a resident contributor at the end of its 2007 taxation year, the trust is deemed by new subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for the purposes of computing its income.

2. Before taking into account any deduction under subsection 104(6), Trust X's income is $1,600. Note that the $400 in dividends is included in computing the trust's income.

3. Before taking into account new subsection 104(7.01), the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) is also $1,600.

4. Because of subsection 104(7.01), the maximum deduction under subsection 104(6) is reduced to $1,445 (i.e., $1,600 minus the total of: nil + ((.60 × $200) and (0.35 × $100))).

5. Assuming that the trust claims a deduction of $1,445 under subsection 104(6), the trust would consequently have income of $155. If a tax rate of 42.92% were assumed (i.e., combined federal rates of 29% (because of subsections 122(1) and 117(2)) and 13.92% (because of subsection 120(1))), the trust would be liable for Canadian income tax of approximately $67. Note that the trust is exempt from having to collect a Part XIII tax in respect of the amounts made payable to Bart and Tim that are referred to in paragraph 104(7.01)(b) in respect of the trust for the particular taxation year, because these are exempt amounts for the purposes of subparagraph 94(3)(a)(ix). In the absence of this exemption, the Part XIII tax that would have had to have been collected by the trust in respect of the amounts made payable to Bart and Tim would have been $65 (i.e., 25% of $200 and 15% of $100), which is approximately equal to the tax that the trust must pay as a result of the application of subsection 104(7.01).

(a) a taxpayer has acquired a right to or to acquire an interest in a trust, or a right to or to acquire a property of a trust, and

(b) it is reasonable to consider that one of the main purposes of the acquisition was to avoid the application of subsection (7.1) in respect of the trust, on a disposition of the right (other than pursuant to the exercise thereof), the interest or the property, there shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year in which the disposition occurs the amount, if any, by which

(c) the proceeds of disposition of the right, interest or property, as the case may be,

exceed

(d) the cost amount to the taxpayer of the right, interest or property, as the case may be.

(8) [Repealed under former Act]

(9) [Repealed under former Act]

(10) Where property owned for non-residents [income from NRO] — Where all the property of a trust is owned by the trustee for the benefit of non-resident persons or their unborn issue, in addition to the amount that may be deducted under subsection (6), there may be deducted in computing the income of the trust for a taxation year for the purposes of this Part, such part of the dividends and interest received by the trust in a year from a non-resident-owned investment corporation as are not deductible under that subsection in computing the income of the trust for the year.

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 17(2), will repeal subsec. 104(10), applicable to 2005 et seq.

Technical Notes: Prior to the end of the non-resident owned investment corporation (NRO) system, a trust that received a dividend from an NRO and that did not in turn distribute the amount of the dividend to its non-resident beneficiaries was entitled to deduct that amount from its income under subsection 104(10). Subsection 104(11) then deemed the amount deducted under subsection 104(10) to have been paid to a non-resident beneficiary, with the result that Part XIII withholding tax would typically be payable. As a consequence of the phasing out of section 133, subsection 104(10) and (11) are repealed.

(11) Dividend received from non-resident-owned investment corporation — Where any part of the dividends received in a taxation year by a trust described in subsection (10) from a non-resident-owned investment corporation are deductible under that subsection in computing the income of the trust for the year, for the purposes of Part XIII the trust shall be deemed to have paid to a non-resident person on the last day of the year an amount equal to that part, as income of the non-resident person from the trust.

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 17(2), will repeal subsec. 104(11), applicable to 2005 et seq.

(12) Deduction of amounts included in preferred beneficiaries' incomes — There may be deducted in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts designated under subsection (14) by the trust in respect of the year, and

(b) the accumulating income of the trust for the year.

History: Subsec. 104(12) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 18(7), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 1995. The subsec. formerly read:

(12) Deduction of part of accumulating income included in preferred beneficiary's income — For the purposes of this Part, there may be deducted in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year such part of its accumulating income for the year as was required by subsection (14) to be included in computing the income of a preferred beneficiary.

(a) in the case of a trust (other than a trust referred to in paragraph (a) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1)), such part of the amount that, but for subsections (6) and (12), would be the trust's income for the trust's taxation year that ended in the particular year as became payable in the trust's year to the beneficiary; and

(b) in the case of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan to which the beneficiary has contributed as an employer, such part of the amount that, but for subsections (6) and (12), would be the trust's income for the trust's taxation year that ended in the particular year as was paid in the trust's year to the beneficiary.

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 17(3), will amend para. 104(13.2)(a) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(13.2) applies in instances where a trust has a non-capital loss carry forward from a prior taxation year and current taxable capital gains. In such circumstances, the trust may choose not to deduct the full amount to which it is entitled under subsection 104(6), in order create sufficient taxable income attributable to taxable capital gains against which the non-capital losses carried forward may be deducted. This is accomplished through a designation under subsection 104(13.2).

(a) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by reason of subsection (13) or (14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust, and is, if so designated by the trust in respect of the beneficiary in its return of income for the year, deemed, for the purposes of paragraphs 82(1)(b) and 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, not to have been received by the trust, and for the purposes of this Act (other than Part XIII), to be a taxable dividend on the share received by the beneficiary in the particular year from the corporation.

(b) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary under the trust

Proposed Amendment — 104(19)

(19) Designation in respect of taxable dividends — A portion of a taxable dividend received by a trust, in a particular taxation year of the trust, on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation is, for the purposes of this Act other than Part XIII, deemed to be a taxable dividend on the share received by a taxpayer, in the taxpayer's taxation year in which the particular taxation year ends, and is, for the purposes of paragraphs 82(1)(b) and 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, deemed not to have been received by the trust, if

(a) an amount equal to that portion

(i) is designated by the trust, in respect of the taxpayer, in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year, and

(ii) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph (13)(a) or subsection (14) or section 105, was included in computing the income for that taxation year of the taxpayer;

(b) the taxpayer is in the particular taxation year a beneficiary under the trust;

(c) the trust is, throughout the particular taxation year, resident in Canada; and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated, under this subsection, by the trust in respect of a beneficiary under the trust in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year is not greater than the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a taxable dividend, received by the trust in the particular taxation year, on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 52(5), will amend subsec. 104(19) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2004, except that, for taxation years that end before July 19, 2005, the reference to "paragraph (13)(a)" in subpara. 104(19)(a)(ii) is to be read as "subsection (13)".

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 104(19) permits a trust to designate a taxable dividend received by it in a taxation year on the share of a taxable Canadian corporation. Where the designation is made in respect of a beneficiary under the trust, the dividend is treated, for the purposes of the Act (other than Part XIII), as a taxable dividend received by the beneficiary from the corporation, and is treated, for the purposes of the dividend gross-up in paragraph 82(1)(b) and stop-loss rules in paragraphs 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, as not having been received by the trust.

Subsection 104(19) is amended to clarify that where a designation, in respect of a taxpayer, is made by a trust in respect of a taxable dividend received by the trust in a particular taxation year of the trust, on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation, the portion of the dividend in respect of which the designation is made is

- for the purposes of paragraphs 82(1)(b) and 107(1)(c) and (d) and section 112, deemed not to have been received by the trust, and
- for the purposes of the Act other than Part XIII, deemed to be a taxable dividend on the share received by the taxpayer in the taxpayer's taxation year in which the particular taxation year of the trust ends.

These deeming rules do not apply, however, unless a number of conditions are met. One of these conditions — that a designated amount not be made in respect of more than one beneficiary under the trust — is replaced with a new requirement that the total of all amounts designated by the trust under subsection 104(19) for the particular taxation year of the trust not exceed the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a taxable dividend received by the trust in the particular taxation year on a share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation.

The deeming rules under subsection 104(19) apply, in respect of a beneficiary under the trust, only to the portion of the amount, designated under that subsection, that may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by reason of subsection 104(13) or (14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust. This condition is also amended and now provides that the portion of a taxable dividend designated by a trust is deemed to be a taxable dividend of a taxpayer who is a beneficiary of the trust (and not to be a dividend received by the trust) only if an amount equal to the amount of the designated portion may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph 104(13)(a) or subsection 104(14) or section 105, was included in computing the income of that taxpayer (i.e., the taxpayer in respect of whom the amount is designated).

The amended reference in the above rule to paragraph 104(13)(a), instead of subsection 104(13), applies to taxation years that end after July 18, 2005. This change clarifies that the deeming rules do not apply to taxable dividends received by a trust governed by an employee benefit plan and paid to an employer under the plan. This is intended to ensure the appropriate characterization of such amounts for purposes of the rules relating to employee benefit plans. For taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 and on or before July 18, 2005, the referenced provision is subsection 104(13).

History: The closing words of subsec. 104(19) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 78(21), applicable to taxation years that end after 2000. The closing words formerly read:

shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, other than Part XIII, not to have been received by the trust and to be a taxable dividend on the share received by the beneficiary in the particular year from the corporation.

(c) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary thereunder, shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of section 82 and this subsection, to be a taxable dividend received by the particular beneficiary in the year from a taxable Canadian corporation, and not to be a taxable dividend received by the trust in the year from a taxable Canadian corporation.

(21) Taxable capital gains — Such portion of the net taxable capital gains of a trust for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada as

(a) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by virtue of subsection (13) or (14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income for the taxation year of

(i) a particular beneficiary under the trust, if the trust is a mutual fund trust, or

(ii) a particular beneficiary under the trust who is resident in Canada, if the trust is not a mutual fund trust, and

(b) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary under the trust,

shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in the return of its income for the year under this Part, be deemed, for the purposes of sections 3 and 111, except as they apply for the purpose of section 110.6, and subject to paragraph 132(5.1)(b), to be a taxable capital gain for the year of the particular beneficiary from the disposition by that beneficiary of capital property.

Proposed Amendment — 104(21)

(21) Designation in respect of taxable capital gains — For the purposes of sections 3 and 111, except as they apply for the purposes of section 110.6, and subject to paragraph 132(5.1)(b), an amount in respect of a trust's net taxable capital gains for a particular taxation year of the trust is deemed to be a taxable capital gain, for the taxation year of a taxpayer in which the particular taxation year ends, from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property if

(a) the amount

(i) is designated by the trust, in respect of the taxpayer, in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year, and

(ii) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph (13)(a) or subsection (14) or section 105, was included in computing the income for that taxation year of the taxpayer;

(b) the taxpayer is

(i) in the particular taxation year, a beneficiary under the trust, and

(ii) resident in Canada, unless the trust is, throughout the particular taxation year, a mutual fund trust;

(c) the trust is, throughout the particular taxation year, resident in Canada; and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated, under this subsection, by the trust in respect of a beneficiary under the trust in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year is not greater than the trust's net taxable capital gains for the particular taxation year.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 52(6), will amend subsec. 104(21) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 except that, for taxation years that end before July 19, 2005, the reference to "paragraph (13)(a)" in subpara. 104(21)(a)(ii) is to be read as "subsection (13)".

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 104(21) permits a trust to designate, in respect of a beneficiary under the trust, a portion of its net taxable capital gains. Where the designation is made, the amount designated is deemed, for the purposes of sections 3 and 111 (except as they apply for the purposes of determining whether a beneficiary is entitled to claim a capital gains exemption under section 110.6 and subject to paragraph 132(5.1)(b)), to be a taxable capital gain for the year of the beneficiary from the disposition of capital property.

Subsection 104(21) is amended to clarify that where a designation, in respect of a taxpayer, is made by a trust in respect of its net taxable capital gains for a particular taxation year of the trust, the designated amount is deemed to be a taxable capital gain, for the taxation year of the taxpayer in which the particular taxation year ends, from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property.

The deeming rule does not apply, however, unless a number of conditions are met. One of these conditions — that a designated amount not be made in respect of more than one beneficiary under the trust — is replaced with a new requirement that the total amounts designated under subsection 104(21) by the trust for a particular taxation year of the trust not exceed the trust's net taxable capital gains for the particular taxation year.

The deeming rule under subsection 104(21) applies, in respect of a beneficiary under a trust, only to the portion of the net taxable gains of the trust that may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by reason of subsection 104(13) or 104(14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust. This condition is also amended and now provides that an amount, in respect of the trust's net taxable capital gains, is deemed to be a taxable capital gain from the disposition by a taxpayer of capital property only if the amount may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph 104(13)(a) or subsection 104(14) or section 105, was included in computing the income of that taxpayer (i.e., the taxpayer in respect of whom the amount is designated).

The amended reference in the above rule to paragraph 104(13)(a), instead of subsection 104(13), applies to taxation years that end after July 18, 2005. This change clarifies that the deeming rule does not apply to employee benefit plan trusts and ensures consistency with amended subsection 104(19). For taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 and on or before July 18, 2005, the referenced provision is subsection 104(13).

Subsection 104(21) is also amended to clarify that the deeming rule does not apply to a designation made by a trust, for a particular taxation year of the trust, in respect of a non-resident beneficiary, unless the trust is a mutual fund trust throughout the particular taxation year.

(21.24) Trusts to designate amounts — A trust shall determine and designate, in its return of income under this part for a designation year of the trust, the following amounts in respect of a beneficiary:

(a) the amount that is, under subsection (21.21), determined to be the beneficiary's taxable capital gain from the disposition, on or after March 19, 2007, of qualified farm property of the beneficiary,

(b) the amount that is, under subsection (21.22), determined to be the beneficiary's taxable capital gain from the disposition, on or after March 19, 2007, of qualified small business corporation share of the beneficiary, and

(21.3) Net taxable capital gains of trust determined — For the purposes of this section, the net taxable capital gains of a trust for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which the total of the taxable capital gains of the trust for the year exceeds the total of

(a) its allowable capital losses for the year, and

Proposed Amendment — 104(21.3)(a)

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an allowable capital loss (other than an allowable business investment loss) of the trust for the year from the disposition of a capital property, and

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 52(7), will amend para. 104(21.3)(a) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2000.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 104(21.3) defines the expression "net taxable capital gains". The expression is used in subsections 104(21) and (21.2), which permit a trust to flow through its taxable capital gains realized in a year to a beneficiary to whom an amount of the trust's income for the year has been made payable. The trust can flow through its taxable capital gains to beneficiaries only to the extent of its net taxable capital gains for the year.

Under subsection 104(21.3), the amount of a trust's net taxable capital gains for a taxation year equals the amount, if any, by which its total taxable capital gains for the year exceeds the total of two amounts:

- its total allowable capital losses for the year, and
- the amount deducted by it under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing its taxable income for the year (i.e., carried-over net capital losses for preceding years and for the three following years).

Subsection 104(21.3) is amended so that allowable business investment losses (ABILs) are disregarded for the purpose of the first of the two amounts. Accordingly, ABILs will not result in a reduction of taxable capital gains that may be flowed through to beneficiaries under trusts and against which allowable capital losses can be claimed.

(b) the amount, if any, deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing its taxable income for the year.

Proposed Amendment — 104(21.3)

(21.3) Net taxable capital gains of trust determined — For the purposes of this section, the net taxable capital gains of a trust for a taxation year is the amount, if any, determined by the formula

$$A + B - C - D$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is a taxable capital gain of the trust for the year from the disposition of a capital property that was held by the trust immediately before the disposition,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection (21) to be a taxable capital gain of the trust for the year,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an allowable capital loss (other than an allowable business investment loss) of the trust for the year from the disposition of a capital property, and

D is the amount, if any, deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) in computing the trust's taxable income for the year.

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 17(5), will amend subsec. 104(21.3) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subsection 104(21.3) defines the term "net taxable capital gains". The term is used in subsections 104(21) and (21.2), which permit a trust, for certain purposes, to characterize, as taxable capital gains, income of the trust that flows through to a beneficiary under the trust. The trust can designate amounts for such treatment only to the extent of its net taxable capital gains for the year.

Subsection 104(21.3) is amended to confirm the result when such a flow through of income designated as taxable capital gains is made to a particular trust from another trust. In these circumstances, the particular trust will be permitted to in turn designate under subsection 104(21) those taxable capital gains in favour of its own beneficiaries, to the extent that the remaining legislative conditions for validly making such a designation are satisfied.

This result is achieved by amending subsection 104(21.3) to recast the computation under that subsection as a formula, and including as element B of the formula the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection 104(21) to be a taxable capital gain of the trust for the year. Element A of the formula is the total of all amounts each of which is a taxable capital gain of the trust for the year from the disposition of a capital property that was held by the trust immediately before the disposition. The words "held by the trust" in element A are not strictly necessary, but are included to clarify that there is intended to be no overlap (i.e., double counting is unintended) in terms of including the same taxable capital gain in both elements A and B of the formula. Paragraphs (a) and (b) of former subsection 104(21.3) are elements C and D of the formula.

This amendment is intended to replace the Canada Revenue Agency's Technical Interpretation 9813685 on a prospective basis.

(21.4) Deemed gains [transitional for 2000] — Where an amount is designated in respect of a beneficiary by a trust for a particular taxation year of the trust that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000 and that amount is, because of subsection (21), deemed to be a taxable capital gain of the beneficiary from the disposition of capital property for the taxation year of the beneficiary in which the particular taxation year of the trust ends (in this subsection referred to as the "allocated gain"),

(a) the beneficiary is deemed to have realized capital gains (in this subsection referred to as the "deemed gains") from the disposition of capital property in the beneficiary's taxation year in which the particular taxation year ends equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount determined when the amount of the allocated gain is divided by the fraction in paragraph 38(a) that applies to the trust for the particular taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the amount claimed by the beneficiary not exceeding the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance for the year in respect of the trust;

(b) notwithstanding subsection (21) and except as a consequence of the application of paragraph (a), the amount of the allocated gain shall not be included in computing the beneficiary's income for the beneficiary's taxation year in which the particular taxation year ends;

(c) the trust shall disclose to the beneficiary in prescribed form the portion of the deemed gains that are in respect of capital gains realized on dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000, after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000, and after October 17, 2000 and, if it does not do so, the deemed gains are deemed to be in respect of capital gains realized on dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000; and

(d) where a trust so elects under this paragraph in its return of income for the year,

(i) the portion of the deemed gains that are in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred before

February 28, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the deemed gains that the number of days that are in the particular year and before February 28, 2000 is of the number of days that are in the particular year,

(ii) the portion of the deemed gains that are in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that began at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ended at the end of October 17, 2000, is deemed to be that proportion of the deemed gains that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the particular year, and

(iii) the portion of the deemed gains that are in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that begins at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ends at the end of the particular year, is deemed to be that proportion of the deemed gains that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the particular year; and

(e) no amount may be claimed by the beneficiary under subsection 39.1(3) in respect of the allocated gain.

Proposed Repeal — 104(21.4)

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 17(5), will repeal subsec. 104(21.4), applicable to taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 52(8), will add para. 104(21.6)(f.1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 104(21.6) provides rules for the determination of the inclusion rate to be used by a taxpayer for capital gains realized by a trust in 2000. This subsection applies to a taxpayer who has a taxation year that begins after October 17, 2000 and who is deemed by subsection 104(21.4) to have capital gains from the disposition of capital property in the year in respect of dispositions of property by a trust of which the taxpayer is a beneficiary.

This subsection ensures that the inclusion rate for capital gains realized on property disposed of by a trust prior to February 27, 2000 is ¼, and is ⅔ in respect of property disposed of by a trust after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000.

Subsection 104(21.6) is amended by adding new paragraph (f.1) to ensure that where the deemed gains are in respect of capital gains from dispositions of property by the trust that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 17, 2000 in circumstances where the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended after October 17, 2000, the gains are deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year and in the period that began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000.

(g) if the deemed gains are in respect of capital gains of the trust from dispositions of property after February 27, 2000 and before October 17, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the deemed gains are deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year; and

Proposed Amendment — 104(21.6)(g)

(g) if the deemed gains are in respect of capital gains of the trust from dispositions of property after February 27, 2000 and before October 17, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000, the deemed gains are deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year; and

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 52(8), will amend para. 104(21.6)(g) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that end after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Paragraph 104(21.6)(g) is amended to correct a technical deficiency in a reference to a date. The reference to "October 17, 2000" is changed to "October 18, 2000" which reflects the date on which the reduction of the capital gain inclusion rate from ⅔ to ½ was announced.

(h) in any other case, the deemed gains are deemed to be a capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition of capital property by the taxpayer in the taxpayer's taxation year and after October 17, 2000.

Proposed Repeal — 104(21.6)

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 17(5), will repeal subsec. 104(21.6), applicable to taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011.

(21.7) Deemed gains [transitional for 2000] — [where] subsec. (21.4) does not apply — Where an amount is designated under subsection (21) in respect of a beneficiary by a trust for a particular taxation year of the trust that ends in a taxation year of the beneficiary that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000 and subsection (21.4) does not apply in respect of the designated amount,

(a) notwithstanding subsection (21) and except as a consequence of the application of paragraph (b), the designated amount shall not be included in computing the beneficiary's income;

(b) the beneficiary is deemed to have a capital gain from the disposition by the beneficiary of capital property on the day on which the particular taxation year ends equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount determined by dividing the designated amount by the fraction in paragraph 38(a) that applies to the trust for the particular taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the amount claimed by the beneficiary, which amount may not be greater than the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance for the year in respect of the trust; and

(c) no amount may be claimed under subsection 39.1(3) by the beneficiary in respect of the designated amount.

Proposed Repeal — 104(21.7)

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 17(5), will repeal subsec. 104(21.7), applicable to taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: See under 104(21.4).

History: Subsec. 104(21.7) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 78(23), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(22) Designation of foreign source income by trust — For the purposes of this subsection, subsection (22.1) and section 126, such portion of a trust's income for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as "that year") throughout which it is resident in Canada from a source in a country other than Canada as

(a) can reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the income that, because of subsection (13) or (14), was included in computing the income for a particular taxation year of a particular beneficiary under the trust, and

(b) is not designated by the trust in respect of any other beneficiary thereunder shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular beneficiary in its return of income under this Part for that year, be deemed to be the particular beneficiary's income for the particular year from that source.

Proposed Amendment — 104(22)

(22) Designation in respect of foreign source income — For the purposes of this subsection, subsection (22.1) and section 126, an amount in respect of a trust's income for a particular taxation year of the trust from a source in a country other than Canada is deemed to be income of a taxpayer, for the taxation year of the taxpayer in which the particular taxation year ends, from that source if

(a) the amount

(i) is designated by the trust, in respect of the taxpayer, in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year, and

(ii) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph (13)(a) or subsection (14), was included in computing the income for that taxation year of the taxpayer;

(b) the taxpayer is in the particular taxation year a beneficiary under the trust;

(c) the trust is, throughout the particular taxation year, resident in Canada; and

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated, under this subsection in respect of that source, by the trust in respect of a beneficiary under the trust in the trust's return of income under this Part for the particular taxation year is not greater than the trust's income for the particular taxation year from that source.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 52(9), will amend subsec. 104(22) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 except that, for taxation years that end before July 19, 2005, the reference to "paragraph (13)(a)" in subpara. 104(22)(a)(ii) is to be read as "subsection (13)".

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 104(22) permits a trust to designate, in respect of a beneficiary under the trust, an amount of its foreign income. Such a designation is made by the trust on a source-by-source basis. Where the designation is made, the amount designated is deemed, for the purpose of subsections 104(22) and (22.1) and section 126, to be the beneficiary's income for the year from that source.

Subsection 104(22) is amended to clarify that where an amount is designated, in respect of a taxpayer, by a trust in respect of the trust's income for a particular taxation year of the trust from a source in a country other than Canada, the designated amount is deemed to be income of the taxpayer, for the taxation year of the taxpayer in which the particular taxation year of the trust ends, from that source.

The deeming rule does not apply, however, unless a number of conditions are met. One of these conditions — that a designated amount not be made in respect of more than one beneficiary under the trust — is replaced with a new requirement that the total amounts designated, in respect of the trust's income from a particular foreign source, under subsection 104(22) by the trust for a particular taxation year of the trust not exceed the trust's income for the particular taxation year from that source.

The deeming rule under subsection 104(22) applies, in respect of a beneficiary under a trust, only to the portion of the trust's income, from a source in a country other than Canada, that may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement) to be part of the amount that, by reason of subsection 104(13) or 104(14) or section 105, as the case may be, was included in computing the income of a beneficiary under the trust. This condition is also amended and now provides that an amount, in respect of the trust's income from a source in a country other than Canada, is deemed to be income, from that source, only if the amount may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the trust) to be part of the amount that, because of paragraph 104(13)(a) or subsection 104(14) or section 105, was included in computing the income of that taxpayer (i.e., the taxpayer in respect of whom the amount is designated).

The amended reference in the above rule to paragraph 104(13)(a), instead of subsection 104(13), applies to taxation years that end after July 18, 2005. This change clarifies that the deeming rule does not apply to employee benefit plan trusts and ensures consistency with amended subsection 104(19). For taxation years that end after February 27, 2004 and on or before July 18, 2005, the referenced provision is subsection 104(13).

(23) Testamentary trusts — In the case of a testamentary trust, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the following rules apply:

(a) the taxation year of the trust is the period for which the accounts of the trust are made up for purposes of assessment under this Act, but no such period may exceed 12 months and no change in the time when such a period ends may be made for the purposes of this Act without the concurrence of the Minister;

(b) when a taxation year is referred to by reference to a calendar year, the reference is to the taxation year or years coinciding with, or ending in, that year;

Proposed Repeal — 104(23)(a), (b)

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 52(10), will repeal paras. 104(23)(a) and (b), applicable after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 104(23) provides special rules that apply to testamentary trusts. Paragraph 104(23)(a) defines the taxation year of a testamentary trust to be the period for which the accounts of the trust are made up for purposes of assessment under the Act. For this purpose, that paragraph also provides that no such period may exceed 12 months and no change in the time when such a period ends may be made for the purposes of the Act without the concurrence of the Minister of National Revenue. Paragraph 104(23)(b) provides that, in the case of a testamentary trust when a taxation year is referred to by reference to a calendar year, the reference is to the taxation year or years coinciding with, or ending in, that year.

Paragraphs 104(23)(a) and (b) are repealed.

This amendment applies after December 20, 2002. For a related set of amendments, see the commentary on section 249 and the definition "testamentary trust" in subsection 108(1).

(c) the income of a person for a taxation year from the trust shall be deemed to be the person's benefits from or under the trust for the taxation year or years of the trust that ended in the year determined as provided by this section and section 105;

(d) where an individual having income from the trust died after the end of a taxation year of the trust but before the end of the calendar year in which the taxation year ended, the individual's income from the trust for the period commencing immediately after the end of the taxation year and ending at the time of death shall be included in computing the individual's income for the individual's taxation year in which the individual died unless the individual's legal representative has elected otherwise, in which case the legal representative shall file a separate return of income for the period under this Part and pay the tax for the period under this Part as if

(i) the individual were another person,

(ii) the period were a taxation year,

(iii) that other person's only income for the period were the individual's income from the trust for that period, and

(iv) subject to sections 114.2 and 118.93, that other person were entitled to the deductions to which the individual was entitled under sections 110, 118 to 118.7 and 118.9 for the period in computing the individual's taxable income or tax payable under this Part, as the case may be, for the period; and

(e) in lieu of making the payments required by sections 155, 156 and 156.1, the trust shall pay to the Receiver General within 90 days after the end of each taxation year, the tax payable under this Part by it for the year.

History: Para. 104(23)(a) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 18(11), applicable after 1994. The para. formerly read:

(a) the taxation year of the trust is the period for which the accounts of the trust have been ordinarily made up and accepted for purposes of assessment under this Act and, in the absence of an established practice, the period adopted by the trust for that purpose (but no such period may exceed 12 months and a change in a usual and accepted period may not be made for the purpose of this Act without the concurrence of the Minister);

Para. 104(23)(e) amended by 1994, c. 8, s. 12, applicable to 1994 et seq. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) in lieu of making the payments required by section 156, the trust shall pay to the Receiver General within 90 days from the end of each taxation year, the tax for the year as estimated under section 151.

(24) Amount payable — For the purposes of subsections (6), (7), (13), (16) and (20) and subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1), an amount is deemed not to have become payable to a beneficiary in a taxation year unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of it.

(24) Amount payable — For the purposes of subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1), subsection 94(8), and subsections (6), (7), (7.01), (13), (16) and (20), an amount is deemed not to have become payable to a beneficiary in a taxation year unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of it.

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — non-resident trusts), subsec. 9(3), will amend subsec. 104(24) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after 2006, and to each earlier taxation year of a trust to which subsec. 94(3), as amended, applies and each taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust in which one of those earlier taxation years of the trust ends, except that subsec. 104(24) is to be read as follows in its application before October 31, 2006:

(24) Amount payable — For the purposes of subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1), subsection 94(8), and subsections (6), (7), (7.01), (13) and (20), an amount is deemed not to have become payable to a beneficiary in a taxation year unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of it.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): The determination of when an amount becomes payable in a taxation year to a beneficiary under a trust is relevant for a number of purposes, including the determination of the amount deductible under subsection 104(6). Under subsection 104(24), an amount is deemed not to have become payable in the year to a beneficiary unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of the amount.

Subsection 104(24) is amended so that it also applies for the purposes of subsection 94(8) and subsection 104(7.01). For more information, see the commentary on those provisions.

This amendment applies to taxation years that end after 2006. It also applies to each earlier taxation year of a trust to which subsection 94(3) applies (because of a valid election by the trust under the coming-into-force provision for new section 94) and each taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust in which one of those earlier taxation years of the trust ends.

Related Provisions: 94(3)(a)(iii) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 94(4) [to be repealed] — FAPI does not include "amount payable" to beneficiary; 104(18) — Trust for person under age 21.

History: Subsec. 104(24) amended by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 8(4), deemed to have come into force on October 31, 2006. It formerly read:

(24) For the purposes of subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1) and subsections (6), (7), (13) and (20), an amount shall be deemed not to have become payable to a beneficiary in a taxation year unless it was paid in the year to the beneficiary or the beneficiary was entitled in the year to enforce payment of the amount.

D is the trust-purpose income of the trust for the year; and

(b) the designated proportions are reasonable having regard to the portions of the trust-purpose income of the trust for the year that are included in computing the beneficiaries' incomes for the year.

Subsec. 104(29) amended by 2003, c. 28, subsec. 11(1), applicable to trust taxation years that end after December 20, 2002. The subsec. formerly read:

(29) Where a trust, in its return of income under this Part for a taxation year throughout which it was resident in Canada, designates an amount not exceeding the proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that would, but for paragraph 18(1)(l.1) or (m), be deductible in computing the income of the trust for the year or that is required to be included in computing its income for the year by reason of paragraph 12(1)(o) or subsection 69(6) or (7)

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that is deductible (otherwise than because of the membership of the trust in a partnership) under paragraph 20(1)(v.1) in computing the income of the trust for the year or that would, but for section 80.2, be included in computing its income for the year,

that

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is a part of the income of the trust for the year computed without reference to the provisions of this Act (in this subsection referred to as the "trust-purpose income" for the year) that was payable in the year to a beneficiary of the trust or was included in computing the income of a beneficiary of the trust for the year by virtue of subsection 105(2)

(d) the trust-purpose income of the trust for the year, that designated amount shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to have become payable by the trust to particular beneficiaries of the trust in the year in such proportions as are designated by the trust in that return of income, provided that those proportions are reasonable having regard to the shares of the trust-purpose income of the trust for the year included in computing their incomes for the year.

Para. 104(29)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 42(10), applicable to taxation years ending after December 20, 1991. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible in computing the income of the trust for the year under paragraph 20(1)(v.1) or that would, but for section 80.2, be included in computing its income for the year,

(30) Tax under Part XII.2 — For the purposes of this Part, there shall be deducted in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year the tax paid by the trust for the year under Part XII.2.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax under Part XII.2 is deductible.

(31) Idem — The amount in respect of a taxation year of a trust that is deemed under subsection 210.2(3) to have been paid by a beneficiary under the trust on account of the beneficiary's tax under this Part shall, for the purposes of subsection (13), be deemed to be an amount in respect of the income of the trust for the year that has become payable by the trust to the beneficiary at the end of the year.

107. (1) Disposition by taxpayer of capital interest — Where a taxpayer has disposed of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in a trust,

(a) where the trust is a personal trust or a prescribed trust, for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's capital gain, if any, from the disposition, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest or the part of the interest, as the case may be, immediately before the disposition is, unless any part of the interest has ever been acquired for consideration and, at the time of the disposition, the trust is non-resident, deemed to be the greater of

(i) its adjusted cost base, otherwise determined, to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) its cost amount to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts deducted under paragraph 53(2)(g.1) in computing its adjusted cost base to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition;

(b) [Repealed]

(c) where the taxpayer is not a mutual fund trust, the taxpayer's loss from the disposition is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the amount of that loss otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which was received or would, but for subsection 104(19), have been received by the trust on a share of the capital stock of a corporation before the disposition (and, where the trust is a unit trust, after 1987) and

(A) where the taxpayer is a corporation,

(I) was a taxable dividend designated under subsection 104(19) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer, to the extent of the amount of the dividend that was deductible under section 112 or subsection 115(1) or 138(6) in computing the taxpayer's taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year, or

(II) was an amount designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer,

(B) where the taxpayer is another trust, was an amount designated under subsection 104(19) or (20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer, and

(C) where the taxpayer is not a corporation, trust or partnership, was an amount designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer

exceeds

(ii) the portion of the total determined under subparagraph (i) that can reasonably be considered to have resulted in a reduction, under this paragraph, of the taxpayer's loss otherwise determined from a previous disposition of an interest in the trust, and

(d) where the taxpayer is a partnership, the share of a person (other than another partnership or a mutual fund trust) of any loss of the partnership from the disposition is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which that loss otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is a dividend that was received or would, but for subsection 104(19), have been received by the trust on a share of the capital stock of a corporation before the disposition (and, where the trust is a unit trust, after 1987) and

(A) where the person is a corporation,

(I) was a taxable dividend that was designated under subsection 104(19) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer, to the extent of the amount of the dividend that was deductible under section 112 or subsection 115(1) or 138(6) in computing the person's taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year, or

(II) was a dividend designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer and was an amount received by the person,

(B) where the person is an individual other than a trust, was a dividend designated under subsection 104(20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer and was an amount received by the person, and

(C) where the person is another trust, was a dividend designated under subsection 104(19) or (20) by the trust in respect of the taxpayer and was an amount received by the person (or that would have been received by the person if this Act were read without reference to subsection 104(19)),

exceeds

(ii) the portion of the total determined under subparagraph (i) that can reasonably be considered to have resulted in a reduction, under this paragraph, of the person's loss otherwise determined from a previous disposition of an interest in the trust.

Proposed Addition — 107(1)(e)

(e) if the capital interest is not a capital property of the taxpayer, notwithstanding the definition "cost amount" in subsection 108(1), its cost amount is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph and the definition "cost amount" in subsection 108(1), be its cost amount

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount in respect of the capital interest that has become payable to the taxpayer before the disposition and that would be described in subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1) if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I).

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 54(1), will add para. 107(1)(e), applicable to dispositions that occur, and valuations made,

(a) after 2001 in respect of qualified trust units, as defined in subsec. 260(1), as amended, in respect of which an amount described in para. 260(5.1)(b), as amended, or that would have been so described had no election been made under subsec. 155(12) of the draft legislation, is paid after 2001 and before February 28, 2004, except that subpara. 107(1)(e)(ii) is, with respect to amounts described in subcl. 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(I) that were payable on or before 2002, to be read without reference to the words "if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I)"; and

(b) in any other case, after February 27, 2004, except that, subject to para. (a),

(i) the amendment does not apply to a disposition by a taxpayer after February 27, 2004 and before 2005 pursuant to an agreement in writing made by the taxpayer on or before February 27, 2004, and

(ii) subpara. 107(1)(e)(ii) is, with respect to amounts described in subcl. 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(I) that were payable on or before February 27, 2004, to be read without reference to the words "if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I)".

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 107(1) contains special rules applicable to the disposition of an interest in a trust. A trust can distribute non-taxable amounts, such as returns of capital and the non-taxable portion of a capital gain, to the holders of interests in the trust. Currently, the Act requires a return of capital to be accounted for by reducing the recipient's adjusted cost base of the interest in the trust. While the effect of this general rule is clear where the interest is held as capital property, it is not as clear where the property is held as inventory.

New paragraph 107(1)(e) applies when a taxpayer disposes of an interest in a trust that is not held as capital property. The paragraph deems the taxpayer's cost amount of that interest to be the cost amount used for inventory valuation purposes less the total of all returns of capital and non-taxable capital gains payable to the taxpayer, in respect of the interest, prior to the disposition. This is to recognize that all receipts for a property held on income account should be treated as either income or a reduction in the cost of the property to the holder.

The new paragraph applies to dispositions after 2001 if the trust interest is a qualified security, as defined in subsection 260(1), and an SLA compensation payment or a dealer compensation payment, as defined in subsection 260(1) has been paid in respect of the trust unit after 2001 and before February 27, 2004. Otherwise, the new rule applies to dispositions after February 27, 2004, except that it will not apply to a disposition that took place after February 27, 2004 and before 2005, if the taxpayer had on or before February 27, 2004 entered into an agreement in writing for the disposition of the interest.

There is a further exception to the application of the new paragraph. Distributions of the non-taxable portion of capital gains will reduce the cost amount of an interest in a trust only if those distributions took place after the new paragraph came into effect — that is, in the case of a trust interest that was the subject of a security lending arrangement (SLA) that was made between January 1, 2002 and February 27, 2004, after 2001, and, in all other cases, after February 27, 2004.

Proposed Amendment — Application of S.C. 2001, c. 17, s. 80

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 25, will amend the application of the amendments made to subsec. 107(1) by S.C. 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 80(1) to (3) (see above), deemed in force on June 14, 2001, to read as follows:

> The opening words of para. 107(1)(a) amended, para. 107(1)(b) and the closing words of para. 107(1)(d) repealed, by 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 80(1) to (3), applicable to 2000 et seq. except that, in respect of transfers after 1999 and before 2007, for the purposes of subsec. 107(1), as amended, the residence of a transferee trust shall be determined without reference to s. 94, in its application to taxation years that end before 2007.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Paragraph 107(1)(a) applies for the purpose of computing a taxpayer's taxable capital gain from the disposition of a capital interest in a personal trust (or a prescribed trust described in section 4800.1 of the Regulations), except where the interest was an interest in a non-resident inter vivos trust purchased by the taxpayer and the disposition was not by way of a distribution to which subsection 107(2) applies. For this purpose the residency of the trust is to be determined without reference to section 94 as it read before 2002.

This amendment to the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000, ensures that, in applying subsection 107(1) in respect of transfers that occur after 1999 and before 2007, the residence of a transferee trust will be determined without reference to section 94 of the Act, as it reads in its application to taxation years that began before 2007.

Para. 107(1)(c) amended, and para. (d) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(1), applicable to dispositions that occur after April 26, 1995 except that, for dispositions that occur before 1998, the first reference to "loss" in para. 107(1)(c) shall be read as "capital loss". Para. 107(1)(c) formerly read:

> (c) where the taxpayer is a corporation and the interest is not an interest in a prescribed trust, its capital loss from the disposition at any time of the interest or part thereof shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the amount of its loss otherwise determined exceeds the amount, if any, by which
> (i) the total of all amounts each of which was received by the trust before that time (and, where the trust is a unit trust, after 1987) and designated by it under subsection 104(19) or (20) in respect of the corporation
> (ii) such portion of the total referred to in subparagraph (i) as can reasonably be considered to have resulted in a reduction under this paragraph of its capital loss otherwise determined from the disposition before that time of an interest in the trust,

Para. 107(1)(a) amended by 1995, c. 21, s. 35, applicable to taxation years that end after February 21, 1994. Para. (a) formerly read:

> (a) where the trust is a personal trust or a prescribed trust, for the purposes of computing the taxpayer's taxable capital gain, if any, from the disposition of the interest or part thereof, as the case may be, the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer thereof immediately before the disposition shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the greater of the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer thereof otherwise determined immediately before that time and the cost amount to the taxpayer thereof immediately before that time,

Para. 107(1)(c) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 47, applicable to 1988 et seq. That para. formerly read:

> (c) where the taxpayer is a corporation and the interest is not an interest in a prescribed trust, its capital loss from the disposition at any time of the interest or part thereof shall be deemed to be the amount of its loss otherwise determined minus the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the trust before that time and designated by it in respect of the corporation under subsection 104(19) or (20),

Para. 107(1)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 76(1), to add "or a prescribed trust", applicable to dispositions occurring after 1987, other than a disposition of an interest in a trust, the units of which were listed on October 1, 1987 on a prescribed stock exchange, occurring before the earlier of

> (b) any date after October 1, 1987 on which a beneficial interest in the trust was or is issued.

Regulations: 4800.1 (prescribed trust).

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-38: Distribution of all of the property of an estate.

(1.1) Cost of capital interest in a trust — The cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest of the taxpayer in a personal trust or a prescribed trust is deemed to be,

> (a) where the taxpayer elected under subsection 110.6(19) in respect of the interest and the trust does not elect under that subsection in respect of any property of the trust, the taxpayer's cost of the interest determined under paragraph 110.6(19)(a); and
> (b) in any other case, nil, unless
> (i) any part of the interest was acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before that acquisition, or
> (ii) the cost of any part of the interest would otherwise be determined not to be nil under section 48 as it read in its application before 1993 or under paragraph 111(4)(e) or 128.1(1)(c) or (4)(c).

Related Provisions: 107.4(3)(k)–(m) — Cost of capital interest in trust following qualifying disposition; 107.4(4) — Fair market value of capital interest in trust; 248(25.4) — Addition to cost of capital interest in trust.

History: Subsec. 107(1.1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(4), applicable to 2000 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

> (1.1) For the purpose of subsection (1) and notwithstanding paragraph 69(1)(c), the cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest in a trust, other than an interest acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before its acquisition by the taxpayer or an interest issued to the taxpayer for consideration paid by the taxpayer that is equal to the fair market value of the interest at the time of issuance, is deemed to be
> (a) where the taxpayer elects under subsection 110.6(19) in respect of the interest and the trust does not elect under that subsection in respect of any property of the trust, the taxpayer's cost of the interest determined under paragraph 110.6(19)(a); and

(b) in any other case, nil.

Subsec. 107(1.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(2), applicable to 1994 et seq. Subsec. 107(1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) For the purposes of subsection (1) and notwithstanding paragraph 69(1)(c), the cost to a taxpayer of a capital interest in a trust, other than an interest acquired by the taxpayer from a person who was the beneficiary in respect of the interest immediately before the acquisition thereof by the taxpayer or an interest issued to the taxpayer for consideration paid by the taxpayer that is equal to the fair market value thereof at the time of issuance, shall be deemed to be nil.

Regulations: 4800.1 (prescribed trust).

Proposed Addition — 107(1.2)

(1.2) Deemed fair market value — non-capital property — For the purpose of section 10, the fair market value at any time of a capital interest in a trust is deemed to be equal to the amount that is the total of

(a) the amount that would, if this Act were read without reference to this subsection, be its fair market value at that time, and

(b) the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount that would be described, in respect of the capital interest, in subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1) if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I), that has become payable to the taxpayer before that time.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 54(2), will add subsec. 107(1.2), applicable to dispositions that occur, and valuations made,

(a) after 2001 in respect of qualified trust units, as defined in subsec. 260(1), in respect of which an amount described in para. 260(5.1)(b), as amended, or that would have been so described had no election been made under subsec. 155(12) of the draft legislation, is paid after 2001 and before February 28, 2004, except that para. 107(1.2)(b) is, with respect to amounts described in subcl. 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(I) that were payable on or before 2002, to be read without reference to the words "if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I)"; and

(b) in any other case, after February 27, 2004, except that, subject to para. (a), para. 107(1.2)(b) is, with respect to amounts described in subcl. 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(I) that were payable on or before February 27, 2004, to be read without reference to the words "if that subparagraph were read without reference to its subclause (B)(I)".

Technical Notes (July 2010): Where an interest in a trust is held as an inventory, the fair market value of the interest at valuation for the purpose of section 10 can be affected by non-taxable distributions from the trust, potentially producing a tax loss to the holder of the interest even though the holder had suffered no economic loss (due to the non-taxable distribution the holder has already received).

New subsection 107(1.2) requires that at any particular valuation time the fair market value of an interest in a trust be deemed to be the total of the fair market value otherwise determined and the sum of any returns of capital and non-taxable capital gains payable before that time.

The new subsection applies to valuations of trust interests that take place after February 27, 2004, and to valuations after 2001 if the trust interest in question is a qualified security, as defined in subsection 260(1), and an SLA compensation payment or a dealer compensation payment, as defined in subsection 260(1), has been paid in respect of the trust unit after 2001 and before February 27, 2004.

There is an exception to the application of the new subsection. Distributions of the non-taxable portion of capital gains will be added to the fair market value of an interest in a trust only if those distributions took place after the new subsection came into effect — that is, in the case of a trust interest that was the subject of a security lending arrangement (SLA) that was made between January 1, 2002 and February 27, 2004, after 2001, and, in all other cases, after February 27, 2004.

Related Provisions: 107.4(4) — Fair market value of vested capital interest.

(2) Distribution by personal trust — Subject to subsections (2.001), (2.002) and (4) to (5), if at any time a property of a personal trust or a prescribed trust is distributed (otherwise than as a SIFT trust wind-up event) by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust and there is a resulting disposition of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust,

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time;

(b) subject to subsection (2.2), the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the total of its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time and the specified percentage of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the capital interest or part of it, as the case may be, immediately before that time (determined without reference to paragraph (1)(a))

exceeds

(ii) the cost amount to the taxpayer of the capital interest or part of it, as the case may be, immediately before that time;

(b.1) for the purpose of paragraph (b), the specified percentage is,

(i) where the property is capital property (other than depreciable property), 100%,

(ii) where the property is eligible capital property in respect of a business of the trust, 100%, and

(iii) in any other case, 75%;

Proposed Amendment — 107(2)(b.1)(iii)

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 54(3), will amend subpara. 107(2)(b.1)(iii) to replace "75%" with "50%", applicable to distributions made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 107(2) applies where a personal trust or a prescribed trust described in section 4800.1 of the Regulations distributes property to a beneficiary and there is a resulting disposition of part or all of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust. Under paragraph 107(2)(a), the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to the property's cost amount. Under paragraph 107(2)(b), the property is deemed to have been acquired by the beneficiary for an amount equal to the total of the amount described in paragraph 107(2)(a) and a "bump" equal to the specified percentage of any excess of the adjusted cost base to the beneficiary of the capital interest over its cost amount (as defined by subsection 108(1)) to the beneficiary of the interest. Under subparagraph 107(2)(b.1)(iii), the specified percentage for property (other than non-depreciable capital property and eligible capital property) is 75%. Where subsection 107(2) applies, paragraph 107(2)(c) provides that the beneficiary is deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the capital interest for proceeds equal to the amount determined under that paragraph.

Subparagraph 107(2)(b.1)(iii) is amended to replace the reference to 75% with a reference to 50%, consistent with the current capital gains inclusion rate.

(c) the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the capital interest for proceeds equal to the amount, if any, by which

(c) the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the capital interest in the trust (or of the part of it) disposed of by the taxpayer on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 54(4), will amend the opening words of para. 107(2)(c) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after 1999.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Paragraph 107(2)(c) is amended to clarify that it applies to determine a taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of the capital interest in a trust (or of the part of it) disposed of by the taxpayer on a distribution, to which subsection 107(2) applies, of property by the trust.

(i) the cost at which the taxpayer would be deemed by paragraph (b) to have acquired the property if the specified percentage referred to in that paragraph were 100%

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an eligible offset at that time of the taxpayer in respect of the capital interest or the part of it;

(d) where the property so distributed was depreciable property of a prescribed class of the trust and the amount that was the capital cost to the trust of that property exceeds the cost at which the taxpayer is deemed by this section to have acquired the property, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a)

(i) the capital cost to the taxpayer of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the capital cost of the property to the trust, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the taxpayer in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing income for taxation years before the acquisition by the taxpayer of the property;

(d.1) [Repealed]

(e) [Repealed]

(f) where the property so distributed was eligible capital property of the trust in respect of a business of the trust,

(i) where the eligible capital expenditure of the trust in respect of the property exceeds the cost at which the taxpayer is deemed by this subsection to have acquired the property, for the purposes of sections 14, 20 and 24,

(A) the eligible capital expenditure of the taxpayer in respect of the property shall be deemed to be the amount that was the eligible capital expenditure of the trust in respect of the property, and

(B) ¾ of the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed under paragraph 20(1)(b) to the taxpayer in respect of the property in computing income for taxation years ending

(I) before the acquisition by the taxpayer of the property, and

(II) after the adjustment time of the taxpayer in respect of the business, and

(ii) for the purpose of determining after that time the amount required by paragraph 14(1)(b) to be included in computing the taxpayer's income in respect of any subsequent disposition of property of the business, there shall be added to the value otherwise determined for Q in the definition "cumulative eligible capital" in subsection 14(5) the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount, if any, determined for Q in that definition in respect of the business of the trust immediately before the distribution,

B is the fair market value of the property so distributed immediately before the distribution, and

C is the fair market value immediately before the distribution of all eligible capital property of the trust in respect of the business.

(2.1) Other distributions — Where at any time a property of a trust is distributed by the trust to a beneficiary under the trust, there would, if this Act were read without reference to paragraphs (h) and (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1), be a resulting disposition of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust (which interest or part, as the case may be, is in this subsection referred to as the "former interest") and the rules in subsections (2) and (3.1) and sections 88.1 and 132.2 do not apply in respect of the distribution,

(a) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the beneficiary is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the proceeds determined under paragraph (a);

(c) subject to paragraph (e), the beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the portion of the former interest disposed of by the beneficiary on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which exceed the total of

(ii) where the property is not a Canadian resource property or foreign resource property, the amount, if any, by which

(A) the fair market value of the property at that time

exceeds the total of

(C) the portion, if any, of the excess that would be determined under this subparagraph if this subparagraph were read without reference to this clause that represents a payment to which paragraph (h) or (i) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies, and

(iii) all amounts each of which is an eligible offset at that time of the taxpayer in respect of the former interest;

(d) notwithstanding paragraphs (a) to (c), where the trust is non-resident at that time, the property is not described in paragraph (2.001)(b) or (c) and, if this Act were read without reference to this paragraph, there would be no income, loss, taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss of a taxpayer in respect of the property because of the application of subsection 75(2) to the disposition at that time of the property,

(i) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to the cost amount of the property,

(ii) the beneficiary is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the fair market value of the property, and

(iii) the beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the portion of the former interest disposed of by the beneficiary on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the fair market value of the property

(i) this subsection shall be read without reference to paragraph (c), and

(ii) the beneficiary's proceeds of disposition of the portion of the former interest disposed of by the beneficiary on the distribution are deemed to be equal to the amount determined under paragraph (a).

History: The opening words of subsec. 107(2.1) amended to substitute "subsections (2) and (3.1) and sections 88.1 and" for "subsection (2) and section" by 2009, c. 2, subsec. 26(2), applicable after July 14, 2008.

Subsec. 107(2.1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(12), applicable to distributions made after 1999, except that

(a) the amendment does not apply to distributions made before March 2000 in satisfaction of rights described in subsec. 52(6) that were acquired before 2000; and

(b) for distributions made from a trust before June 14, 2001, an election under that subsec. 107(2.1) is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the trust's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001.

Subsec. 107(2.1) formerly read:

(2.1) Where at any time any property of a trust is distributed by the trust to a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust or in satisfaction of a right described in subsection 52(6), and subsection (2) does not apply in respect of the distribution, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act other than section 132.2,

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the beneficiary shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value; and

(c) the beneficiary shall be deemed to have disposed of the interest or part thereof in the trust or the right, as the case may be, for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost at which the beneficiary is deemed by paragraph (b) to have acquired the property.

The opening words of subsec. 107(2.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(4), applicable to distributions made after June 1994. The opening words formerly read:

(2.1) Where at any time any property of a trust has been distributed by the trust to a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust or in satisfaction of a right described in subsection 52(6) and subsection (2) is not applicable in respect of the distribution, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the following rules apply:

(2.11) Gains not distributed to beneficiaries — Where a trust makes one or more distributions of property in a taxation year in circumstances in which subsection (2.1) applies (or, in the case of property distributed after October 1, 1996 and before 2000, in circumstances in which subsection (5) applied)

(a) where the trust is resident in Canada at the time of each of those distributions and has so elected in prescribed form filed with the trust's return for the year or a preceding taxation year, the income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) shall, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), be computed without regard to all of those distributions to non-resident persons (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership); and

(b) where the trust is resident in Canada at the time of each of those distributions and has so elected in prescribed form filed with the trust's return for the year or a preceding taxation year, the income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) shall, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), be computed without regard to all of those distributions.

Proposed Amendment — 107(2.11)

(2.11) Gains not distributed to beneficiaries — If a trust that is resident in Canada for a taxation year makes in the taxation year one or more distributions to which subsection (2.1) applies and the trust elects in prescribed form filed with the trust's return for the year or a preceding taxation year to have one of the following paragraphs apply, the income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) shall, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), be computed without regard

(a) if the election is to have this paragraph apply, to all of those distributions (other than distributions of cash denominated in Canadian dollars) to non-resident persons (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership); and

(b) if the election is to have this paragraph apply, to all of those distributions (other than distributions of cash denominated in Canadian dollars).

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 18(1), will amend subsec. 107(2.11) to read as above, applicable to 2002 et seq; it also applies to the 2000 and 2001 taxation years of a trust if the trust so elects, by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing on or before its filing-due date for its taxation year that includes the day on which this draft legislation is assented to, in which case the opening words of subsec. (2.11) are to be read as follows for the 2000 and 2001 taxation years of the trust:

(2.11) If a trust that is resident in Canada for a taxation year makes in the taxation year one or more distributions to which subsection (2.1) applies (or, in the case of property distributed after October 1, 1996 and before 2000, in circumstances in which subsection (5) applied) and the trust elects in prescribed form filed with the trust's return for the year or a preceding taxation year, the income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) shall, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), be computed without regard

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(2.11) provides a special rule that, for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), allows income of a trust for a taxation year (computed without reference to subsection 104(6)) to be computed without regard to the tax consequences under subsection 107(2.1) (and former subsection 107(5)) of property distributed in kind to beneficiaries. This ensures that the gains, if any, that might arguably flow-out in some circumstances to beneficiaries as a consequence of the operation of subsections 107(2.1) and former 107(5), will instead be included in income at the trust level.

Subsection 107(2.11) is amended to ensure that it does not apply to distributions of cash denominated in Canadian dollars. As a result, notwithstanding an election by a trust under subsection 107(2.11), income paid out of the trust in the form of a distribution of such cash, will be included in the beneficiary's income by operation of subsection 104(13).

This amendment applies to the 2002 and subsequent taxation years. It also applies to the 2000 and 2001 taxation years of a trust if a trust so elects in writing on or before the trust's filing due date for the taxation year that includes Royal Assent.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 15, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letters of April 4, 2001 and October 19, 2001, concerning the application of the Income Tax Act ("the Act") to a distribution of property by a mutual fund trust. I would also like to acknowledge your conversations with Mr. Grant Nash of this Division.

You have raised an issue concerning the possible taxation of income at the trust level where a trust, that has elected under subsection 107(2.11) in respect of the distribution of its property, makes a cash payment to unitholders out of the trust's income or capital gains. You submit that the effect of the election under subsection 107(2.11) extends to all of the trust's distributions, including cash payments to beneficiaries out of trust income or capital gains. If, as a result of subsection 107(2.11), the payments out of income or capital gains were ignored for the purposes of subsection 104(6) and (13), you submit that the corresponding amounts of income and capital gains would be recognized at the trust level. We confirm that such a result would be unintended.

The purpose of subsection 107(2.11) is to provide trusts with a mechanism of ensuring that capital gains, that arguably would otherwise be considered to be paid out to a unitholder upon a distribution of property from the trust to the unitholder, are not paid out on the distribution. Given this policy, the provision should generally apply only to distributions of property that would be expected to result in the realization at the trust level of such capital gains. Accordingly, the effect of an election under subsection 107(2.11) should not extend to distributions of cash denominated in Canadian dollars.

We are prepared to recommend amendments to subsection 107(2.11) of the Act to clarify its intended application in the circumstances described above. In addition, we are prepared to recommend that such an amendment apply to distributions of property made by a mutual fund trust after 2001, and, where the trust so elects, to distributions made by a mutual fund trust after 1999.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(i) the transfer of the liability by the trust to the corporation is deemed not to have occurred, and

(4) Trusts in favour of spouse, common-law partner or self — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) at any time to property distributed to a beneficiary by a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) where

(a) the beneficiary is not

(i) in the case of a post-1971 spousal or common-law partner trust, the spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a),

(ii) in the case of an alter ego trust, the taxpayer referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a), and

(iii) in the case of a joint spousal or common-law partner trust, the taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a); and

(b) a taxpayer, spouse or common-law partner referred to in subparagraph (a)(i), (ii), or (iii), as the case may be, is alive on the day of the distribution.

Proposed Amendment — 107(4)(b)

(b) the distribution of the property occurs on or before the earlier of

(i) a reacquisition, in respect of any property of the trust, that occurs immediately after the day described by paragraph 104(4)(a), and

(ii) the cessation of the trust's existence.

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 18(2), will amend para. 107(4)(b) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(4) applies to certain distributions of property by specified trusts. For this purpose, a specified trust is a post-1971 spousal or common-law partner trust, an alter ego trust or a joint spousal or common-law partner trust (as defined in subsection 248(1)). These trusts are all required to contain terms requiring that a specified beneficiary (e.g., in the case of a spousal trust, the beneficiary spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a)) be entitled to receive all of the income of the trust that arises before specified beneficiary's death and that no person, except the specified beneficiary, receive or otherwise obtain the use of any of the income or capital of the trust before the specified beneficiary's death.

Subsection 107(4) applies in respect of a distribution from a specified trust if the trust distributes property to a beneficiary other than the trust's specified beneficiary and the specified beneficiary is alive on the day of the distribution. For example, such a distribution may occur on the day on which the specified beneficiary dies, but before the end of that day. Alternatively, and perhaps more rarely, such a distribution might be made before the day on which the specified beneficiary dies and, therefore, in breach of the terms of the trust. Subsection 107(4) recognizes that the making of such a distribution is inconsistent with the rationale (i.e., that the relevant property is for, or for the benefit of, the specified beneficiary during his or her lifetime) for the deferral of gains taxation in respect of the settlement of property on the specified trust.

Subsection 107(4) is amended to clarify that it applies on a distribution of property by a specified trust to a beneficiary (other than a specified beneficiary) under the trust if the distribution occurs on or before the earlier of the trust ceasing to exist and the reacquisition, by the trust of any property, determined under paragraph 104(4)(a) in respect of the trust.

Related Provisions: 53(4) — Effect on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest; 104(6) — Deduction in computing income of trust; 107(5) — Distribution to non-resident beneficiary; 108(1) — "accumulating income".

History: Subsec. 107(4) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(15), applicable to distributions made after 1999. The subsec. formerly read:

(4) Where trust in favour of spouse [or common-law partner] — Where

(a) at any time property of a trust is distributed by the trust to a beneficiary in circumstances to which subsection (2) would, but for this subsection, apply,

(a.1) the trust is described in paragraph 104(4)(a),

(a.2) the property so distributed by the trust was capital property, a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property or property that was land included in the inventory of the trust,

(b) the taxpayer to whom the property is so distributed is a person other than the spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph 104(4)(a) in respect of the trust, and

(c) that spouse or common-law partner is alive on the day the property is so distributed,

notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

(d) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property and to have received proceeds of disposition therefor equal to its fair market value at that time,

(e) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to those proceeds, and

(f) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost at which, but for this subsection, the taxpayer would be deemed by paragraph (2)(b) to have acquired the property, minus the amount of any debt assumed by the taxpayer or of any other legal obligation assumed by the taxpayer to pay any amount, if the distribution of the property to the taxpayer was conditional on the assumption by the taxpayer of the debt or obligation.

Subsec. 107(4) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

All that portion of subsec. 107(4) preceding para. (e) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 43(4), applicable to distributions occurring after December 20, 1991 except that para. (d) as amended does not apply to distributions occurring before 1993. That portion formerly read:

(4) Where trust in favour of spouse — Where the trust referred to in subsection (2) was a trust described in paragraph 104(4)(a) and

(a) the property so distributed by the trust was capital property, a Canadian resource property, a foreign resource property or property that was land included in the inventory of the trust,

(b) the taxpayer to whom the property was so distributed was a person other than the spouse, and

(c) the spouse was alive at the time the property was so distributed,

notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

(d) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property and to have received proceeds of disposition therefor equal to,

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — non-resident trusts), s. 10, will amend the opening words of para. 107(4.1)(b) to read as above, applicable to distributions after August 27, 2010.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 107(4.1) prevents the application of subsection 107(2) on a distribution of trust property to a beneficiary where, generally, subsection 75(2) was at any time applicable in respect of property of the trust. Subsection 107(4.1) is amended so that the determination of whether subsection 75(2) was at any time applicable in respect of property is made without regard to paragraph 75(3)(c.2). Therefore, if subsection 75(2) is otherwise applicable in respect of the property, the property remains such a property for the purposes of subsection 107(4.1) even though the property is one in respect of which an electing contributor will not be attributed income under subsection 75(2).

Proposed Amendment — 107(4.1)(b) opening words

(b) subsection 75(2) was applicable, or would have been applicable if it were read without reference to the phrase "while the person is resident in Canada" and subsection 75(3) were read without reference to paragraph (c.2), at a particular time in respect of any property of

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 18(3), will amend the opening words of para. 107(4.1)(b) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(4.1) prevents the application of subsection 107(2) to a distribution of trust property to a beneficiary where, generally, subsection 75(2) was at any time applicable in respect of property of the trust. Subsection 107(4.1) is amended so that the determination, for purposes of subsection 107(4.1), of whether subsection 75(2) was at any time applicable in respect of property is made as though subsection 75(2) was applicable to attribute amounts in respect of property to non-resident persons.

(i) the particular trust, or

(ii) a trust the property of which included a property that, through one or more dispositions to which subsection 107.4(3) applied, became a property of the particular trust, and the property was not, at any time after the particular time and before the distribution, the subject of a disposition for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition;

(c) the taxpayer was neither

(i) the person (other than a trust described in subparagraph (b)(ii)) from whom the particular trust directly or indirectly received the property, or property for which the property was substituted, nor

(ii) an individual in respect of whom subsection 73(1) would be applicable on the transfer of capital property from the person described in subparagraph (i); and

(d) the person described in subparagraph (c)(i) was in existence at the time the property was distributed.

History: Subsec. 107(4.1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(17), applicable to distributions made after March 15, 2001. The subsec. formerly read:

(4.1) Where any property of a personal trust or a prescribed trust is distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust and

(a) subsection 75(2) was applicable at any time in respect of any property of the trust,

(b) the taxpayer was a person other than

(i) the person from whom the trust directly or indirectly received the property, or property for which the property was substituted, or

(ii) an individual in respect of whom subsection 73(1) would be applicable on the transfer of capital property from the person described in subparagraph (i), and

(c) the person described in subparagraph (b)(i) was alive at the time the property was distributed, subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) in respect of the distribution.

The closing words of subsec. 107(4.1) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 80(16), applicable to distributions made after 1999. The closing words formerly read:

Proposed Amendment — Application of S.C. 2001, c. 17 amendment to 107(4.1)

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, s. 58, will amend S.C. 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(27) (application of the amendment made to subsec. 107(4.1)) to read as follows, deemed to have come into force on June 14, 2001:

(27) Subsection (17) applies to distributions made on or after March 16, 2001, except that for a distribution made after 2001 and before 2009 by a particular trust of property (in this subsection referred to as "distributed property"), paragraph 107(4.1)(b) of the Act, as enacted by subsection (17), is to be read without reference to its subparagraph (ii), if

(a) subsection 75(2) of the Act was not applicable in respect of the distributed property, or property for which it was substituted (in this subsection referred to as "substituted property"), at any time during which the distributed property or the substituted property was held by

(i) the particular trust,

(ii) a trust that made a disposition, to which subsection 107.4(3) of the Act applied, to the particular trust, or

(iii) a trust that made a disposition, to which subsection 107.4(3) of the Act applied, to a trust described by subparagraph (ii) or by this subparagraph; and

(b) the only property in respect of which subsection 75(2) of the Act was applicable at a time at which it was held by a trust described by paragraph (a) is a property that was held by the trust before 1989 at a time at which subsection 75(2) of the Income Tax Act, R.S.C., 1952 was applicable in respect of the property.

Technical Notes: Subsection 80(27) of the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000 contains an application rule in respect of earlier amendments to subsection 107(4.1) of the Income Tax Act.

Under this amendment, subsection 107(4.1) is to be read without reference to its subparagraph (b)(ii) if two conditions are met. The first is that subsection 75(2) was not applicable in respect of the property distributed, or any property for which it was substituted, at any time during which it was held by the trust that distributed the property or by any other trust, the property of which included property that, through one or more tax-deferred dispositions, became the property of the trust. The second condition is that the only property in respect of which subsection 75(2) was applicable during a period of time during which it was held by any of the trusts described in the first condition above is property that was held by one of those trusts before 1989 at a time at which 75(2) of the Act was applicable in respect of the property.

This transitional relief allows a trust that holds no property on any of the conditions described by subsection 75(2) to distribute property to a beneficiary on a tax-deferred basis after 2001 and before 2009 even though the trust may have received property, through one or more tax-deferred transfers from another trust that held property in respect of which subsection 75(2) had applied before 1989.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Oct. 19, 2007:

Ms. Kathy M. Munro, [xxx]

Dear Ms. Munro:

I am writing in connection with your letter, and subsequent discussions with officials of the Tax Policy Branch, concerning the application of subsection 107(4.1) of the Income Tax Act. In your view, subsection 107(4.1) is inappropriately broad in its effect on distributions from trusts, particularly where the trust was created before the provision's introduction.

You have provided an example of an inter vivos trust that was settled in 1986 through the gift of a gold coin with nominal value. Because the terms of the trust set out that decisions of the trust are to be determined by a majority that includes the settlor of the trust, subsection 75(2) of the Act may apply to attribute any income earned on the gold coin back to the settlor. As a result of the application of subsection 75(2) to the gold coin, subsection 107(4.1) will also apply to distributions of property from the trust. The effect of the application of subsection 107(4.1) will be to have subsection 107(2.1) of the Act apply to the distributions of property and thus prevent a rollover of the trust's properties to the beneficiaries (other than the settlor). Unlike subsection 75(2), which applies only in respect of the property contributed to the trust by the settlor, subsection

107(4.1) will apply not just to the gold coin, but to all of the properties of the trust that are distributed to beneficiaries. In your view, because the trust was established before 1989 (the year in which distributions were first subject to subsection 107(4.1)) it would be appropriate to allow some form of relief to the trust, particularly in respect of the property of the trust to which subsection 75(2) has never applied.

Having regard to your submission, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subparagraph 107(4.1)(b)(ii) of the Act be amended so as not to apply in determining whether subsection 107(2.1) applies in respect of a trust distribution that occurs after 2001 and before 2009 where

(a) the distribution is of property to which subsection 75(2) had not applied at any time while the property was held by any of the trusts referred to in subparagraph 107(4.1)(b)(ii),

(b) one of the trusts referred to in subparagraph 107(4.1)(b)(ii),

- was created before 1989, and
- held, at a time before 1989, particular property that was, at that time, subject to subsection 75(2), and

(c) none of the trusts referred to in subparagraph 107(4.1)(b)(ii) held any property (other than the particular property) that was subject to subsection 75(2).

While I cannot offer any assurance that Parliament will agree with our recommendation, I hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful to you.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, General Director — Legislation, Tax Policy Branch

Regulations: 4800.1 (prescribed trust).

Proposed Addition — 107(4.2)

(4.2) Distribution of property received on qualifying disposition — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) at any time to property distributed after December 20, 2002 to a beneficiary by a personal trust or a trust prescribed for the purpose of subsection (2), if

(a) at a particular time before December 21, 2002 there was a qualifying disposition (within the meaning assigned by subsection 107.4(1)) of the property, or of other property for which the property is substituted, by a particular partnership or a particular corporation, as the case may be, to a trust; and

(b) the beneficiary is neither the particular partnership nor the particular corporation.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 54(21), will add subsec. 107(4.2), applicable to distributions made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): New subsection 107(4.2) prevents a tax-deferred distribution of property after December 20, 2002 from a personal trust or a trust prescribed for the purpose of subsection 107(2) to a beneficiary of the trust if specified conditions are met. The specified conditions are that:

- at a particular time before December 21, 2002 there was a qualifying disposition (within the meaning assigned by subsection 107.4(1)) of the property, or of other property for which the property is substituted, by a particular partnership or a particular corporation, as the case may be, to any trust; and
- the beneficiary is neither the particular partnership nor the particular corporation.

Where the specified conditions are met, subsection 107(2.1) will apply so that the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to the property's fair market value at the time of distribution.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

(5) Distribution to non-resident — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) in respect of a distribution of a property (other than a share of the capital stock of a non-resident-owned investment corporation or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) by a trust resident in Canada to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) in satisfaction of all or part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust.

Proposed Amendment — 107(5)

(5) Distribution to non-resident — Subsection (2.1) applies (and subsection (2) does not apply) in respect of a distribution of a property (other than a share of the capital stock of a non-resident-owned investment corporation or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) by a trust to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) in satisfaction of all or part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 54(21), will amend subsec. 107(5) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after February 27, 2004.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 107(5) applies to the distribution of property (other than shares in non-resident-owned investment corporations or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii))) by a trust resident in Canada to a non-resident beneficiary. In these circumstances, the rollover under subsection 107(2) is not available and instead subsection 107(2.1) will apply to determine the Canadian income tax consequences of the distribution to the trust and the beneficiary.

Subsection 107(5) is amended so that it applies whether the trust making the distribution is resident in Canada or not.

Related Provisions: 53(4) — Effect on ACB of share, partnership interest or trust interest; 94(4)(g) [proposed] — Deeming non-resident trust to be resident in Canada does not apply to 107(5); 107(2.11) — Election for gain not to be flowed out to beneficiary; 107(5.1) — Gain does not increase instalment requirements; 126(2.22) — Foreign tax credit to trust on disposition of property by non-resident beneficiary; 212(11) — Payment to non-resident beneficiary deemed paid as income of trust for withholding tax purposes; 220(4.6)–(4.63) — Security for tax on distribution of taxable Canadian property to non-resident beneficiary.

History: Subsec. 107(5) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(18), applicable to distributions made after October 1, 1996, except that for distributions made after October 1, 1996 and before 2000, subsec. 107(5) shall be read as follows:

(5) Where subsection (2) applies to a distribution at any time by a trust resident in Canada of a property (other than a share of the capital stock of a non-resident-owned investment corporation or property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)) to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) who is a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c),

(a) the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the taxpayer is deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value; and

(c) the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust, for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of that interest or part of the interest, as the case may be, immediately before that time.

Subsec. 107(5) formerly read:

(5) Where subsection (2) applies to the distribution by a trust of any property (other than a Canadian resource property, excluded property or property that would, if at no time in the taxation year of the trust in which it is so distributed the trust is resident in Canada, be taxable Canadian property) to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) who is a beneficiary under the trust, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c),

(a) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to that fair market value; and

(c) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of all or part, as the case may be, of the taxpayer's interest in the trust, for proceeds of disposition equal to the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the interest or part thereof, as the case may be, immediately before the property was so distributed.

That portion of subsec. 107(5) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 43(5), applicable to distributions occurring after 1991. That portion formerly read:

(5) Where subsection (2) is applicable in respect of the distribution by a trust of any property (other than a Canadian resource property or property that is or would, if at no time in the taxation year of the trust in which it was so distributed the trust had been resident in Canada, be taxable Canadian property) to a non-resident taxpayer (including a partnership other than a Canadian partnership) who was a beneficiary under the trust, notwithstanding paragraphs (2)(a) to (c), the following rules apply:

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-70: Distribution of taxable Canadian property by a trust to a non-resident.

(5.1) Instalment interest — Where, solely because of the application of subsection (5), paragraphs (2)(a) to (c) do not apply to a distribution in a taxation year of taxable Canadian property by a trust, in applying sections 155, 156 and 156.1 and subsections 161(2), (4) and (4.01) and any regulations made for the purpose of those provisions, the trust's total taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 for the year are deemed to be the lesser of

(a) the trust's total taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 for the year, determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year, and

Proposed Amendment — 107(5.1) before (b)

(5.1) Instalment interest — If, solely because of the application of subsection (5), paragraphs (2)(a) to (c) do not apply to a distribution in a taxation year of taxable Canadian property by a trust, in applying sections 155 and 156 and subsections 156.1(1) to (3) and 161(2), (4) and (4.01) and any regulations made for the purposes of those provisions, the trust's tax payable under this Part for the year is deemed to be the lesser of

(a) the trust's tax payable under this Part for the year, determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year, and

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 18(4), will amend the portion of subsec. 107(5.1) before para. (b) to read as above, applicable to distributions made after October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(5.1) is a rule that applies for the purposes of computing the instalment interest of a trust where paragraphs 107(2)(a) to (c) do not apply in respect of certain gains recognized on a distribution of property from the trust solely because of the application of subsection 107(5).

Subsection 107(5.1) is amended to remove cross-references to Part I.1, which was repealed by S.C. 2001, c. 17, and to subsection 156.1(4) to ensure consistency with a similar provision found in section 128.1.

(b) the amount that would be determined under paragraph (a) if subsection (5) did not apply to each distribution in the year of taxable Canadian property to which the rules in subsection (2) do not apply solely because of the application of subsection (5).

History: Subsec. 107(5.1) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 80(18), applicable to distributions made after October 1, 1996.

(6) Loss reduction — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, where a person or partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "vendor") has disposed of property and would, but for this subsection, have had a loss from the disposition, the vendor's loss otherwise determined in respect of the disposition shall be reduced by such portion of that loss as may reasonably be considered to have accrued during a period in which

(a) the property or property for which it was substituted was owned by a trust; and

(b) neither the vendor nor a person that would, if section 251.1 were read without reference to the definition "controlled" in subsection 251.1(3), be affiliated with the vendor had a capital interest in the trust.

Proposed Amendment — 107(6)(a), (b)

(a) the property or property for which it was substituted was held by a trust; and

(b) either

(i) the trust was non-resident and the property (or property for which it was substituted) was not taxable Canadian property of the trust, or

(ii) neither the vendor — nor a person that would, if section 251.1 were read without reference to the definition "controlled" in subsection 251.1(3), be affiliated with the vendor — had a capital interest in the trust.

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 18(5), will amend paras. 107(6)(a) and (b) to read as above, applicable to dispositions made after October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subsection 107(6) is an anti-avoidance rule designed to deal with an acquisition of a capital interest in a trust that has a property with an accrued loss. Where the property is distributed to the beneficiary in satisfaction of that interest, any loss realized on a subsequent disposition of the property by that beneficiary is denied to the extent that it can reasonably be considered to have accrued when the property was owned by the trust and at a time when neither the beneficiary nor certain affiliated persons had a capital interest in the trust.

Paragraph 107(6)(a) is amended to replace the word "owned" with the word "held". This change is strictly technical and is not intended to represent a change in policy.

Paragraph 107(6)(b) is amended to also apply to deny the loss realized by a beneficiary on a subsequent disposition of property to the extent that the loss can reasonably be considered to have accrued during a period in which the trust holding the property (or property for which it was substituted) was non-resident and the property (or property for which it was substituted) is not taxable Canadian property.

The following example illustrates the intended operation of this provision.

Example

Trust A distributes property to a beneficiary and subsection 107(2) applies in respect of the distribution. The adjusted cost base to Trust A of the property is $1,000 and its fair market value at the time of its distribution was $700 (an accrued loss to the trust, as of the time of distribution, of $300). Assume that the adjusted cost base to the beneficiary of the property is, as a result of the distribution, $1,000. Throughout the period that Trust A held the property it was non-resident. The property is at all times at which it was held by Trust A not taxable Canadian property of the trust. The beneficiary subsequently disposes of that property for proceeds of disposition of $500, resulting in a loss of $500. Subsection 107(6) would apply in these circumstances to deny the beneficiary recognition of the $300 portion of the beneficiary's loss that was attributable to the period during which the property was held by Trust A, resulting in a loss available to the beneficiary in respect of the disposition of the property of $200.

If, on the other hand, subsection 107(2.1), and not subsection 107(2), had applied to the distribution of the property to the beneficiary, the beneficiary's adjusted cost base of the property as of the time of the distribution would have been $700 and the beneficiary's loss on subsequent disposition of the property would have been $200. In that case, no part of the beneficiary's loss would be viewed as accruing during the period in which the trust held the property. Subsection 107(6) would not apply to restrict the amount of the beneficiary's loss on a subsequent disposition of the property.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

History: Para. 107(6)(b) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 128(6), applicable after April 26, 1995. Para. 107(6)(b) formerly read:

(b) neither

(i) the vendor, nor

(ii) any person related to the vendor, nor

(iii) any partnership of which the vendor or a person related to the vendor was a majority interest partner (within the meaning assigned by subsection 97(3.1))

had a capital interest in the trust.

107.1 Distribution by certain employment-related trusts — If at any time any property of an employee life and health trust, an employee trust, a trust governed by an employee benefit plan or a trust described in paragraph (a.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1) has been distributed by the trust to a taxpayer who was a beneficiary under the trust in satisfaction of all or any part of the taxpayer's interest in the trust, the following rules apply:

(a) in the case of an employee life and health trust, an employee trust or a trust described in paragraph (a.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1),

(i) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property immediately before that time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at that time, and

(ii) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to its fair market value at that time;

(b) in the case of a trust governed by an employee benefit plan,

(i) the trust shall be deemed to have disposed of the property for proceeds of disposition equal to its cost amount to the trust immediately before that time, and

(ii) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at a cost equal to the greater of

(A) its fair market value at that time, and

Proposed Amendment — 107.4(1) opening words

107.4 (1) Qualifying disposition — In this section, a "qualifying disposition" of a property means a disposition of the property before December 21, 2002 by a person or partnership, and a disposition of property after December 20, 2002 by an individual, (which person, partnership or individual is referred to in this subsection as the "contributor") as a result of a transfer of the property to a particular trust where

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 57(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 107.4(1) to read as above, deemed to have come into force on December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 107.4(3) generally provides for a rollover of property to a trust where the property is transferred to the trust by way of a qualifying disposition. For this purpose, subsection 107.4(1) defines "qualifying disposition" to be a disposition of property to a trust that does not result in any change in the beneficial ownership of the property and that otherwise meets the conditions set out in that subsection. A change in beneficial ownership would occur if any person other than the taxpayer may receive or otherwise obtain the use of any income or capital of the trust during or after the taxpayer's lifetime otherwise than as a distribution from the taxpayer's estate. A partnership, corporation or individual (including a trust) are all qualified transferors for the purpose of applying the definition "qualifying disposition" in subsection 107.4(1). Where the transferee trust is a non-resident trust, a qualifying disposition will occur only where the conditions in paragraph 107.4(1)(c) are satisfied. Another condition that must be met for there to be a qualifying disposition is found in paragraph 107.4(1)(d), which requires that the disposition not be by a partnership, if the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events that begins after December 17, 1999 and includes the cessation of the partnership's existence and a subsequent distribution from a personal trust to a former member of the partnership in circumstances to which subsection 107(2) applies.

Subsection 107.4(1) is amended so that after December 20, 2002 only an individual (including a trust) may make a qualifying disposition to a trust. As a result, paragraph 107.4(1)(d) is repealed.

For a related amendment, see the commentary to new subsection 107(4.2).

(a) the disposition does not result in a change in the beneficial ownership of the property;

(b) the proceeds of disposition would, if this Act were read without reference to this section and sections 69 and 73, not be determined under any provision of this Act;

(c) if the particular trust is non-resident, the disposition is not

(i) by a person resident in Canada or by a partnership (other than a partnership each member of which is non-resident), or

(ii) a transfer of taxable Canadian property from a non-resident person who was resident in Canada in any of the ten calendar years preceding the transfer;

Proposed Amendment — 107.4(1)(c)

(c) the particular trust is resident in Canada at the time of the transfer;

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 57(2), will amend para. 107.4(1)(c) to read as above, applicable to dispositions that occur after February 27, 2004.

Technical Notes (July 2010): In addition, paragraph 107.4(1)(c) is amended so that a qualifying disposition can only be made where the transferee trust is resident in Canada at the time of the transfer regardless of the residency of the transferor.

(d) the contributor is not a partnership, if the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events that begin after December 17, 1999 that includes the cessation of the partnership's existence and a subsequent distribution from a personal trust to a former member of the partnership in circumstances to which subsection 107(2) applies;

Proposed Repeal — 107.4(1)(d)

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 57(3), will repeal para. 107.4(1)(d), deemed to have come into force on December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): See under 107.4(1) opening words above.

(e) unless the contributor is a trust, there is immediately after the disposition no absolute or contingent right of a person or partnership (other than the contributor or, where the property was co-owned, each of the joint contributors) as a beneficiary (determined with reference to subsection 104(1.1)) under the particular trust;

(f) the contributor is not an individual (other than a trust described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1)), if the particular trust is described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1);

(g) the disposition is not part of a series of transactions or events

(i) that begins after December 17, 1999 and that includes the subsequent acquisition, for consideration given to a personal trust, of a capital interest or an income interest in the trust,

(ii) that begins after December 17, 1999 and that includes the disposition of all or part of a capital interest or an income interest in a personal trust, other than a disposition solely as a consequence of a distribution from a trust to a person or partnership in satisfaction of all or part of that interest, or

(iii) that begins after June 5, 2000 and that includes the transfer to the particular trust of particular property as consideration for the acquisition of a capital interest in the particular trust, if the particular property can reasonably be considered to have been received by the particular trust in order to fund a distribution (other than a distribution that is proceeds of disposition of a capital interest in the particular trust);

(h) the disposition is not, and is not part of, a transaction

(i) that occurs after December 17, 1999, and

(ii) that includes the giving to the contributor, for the disposition, of any consideration (other than consideration that is an interest of the contributor as a beneficiary under the particular trust or that is the assumption by the particular trust of debt for which the property can, at the time of the disposition, reasonably be considered to be security);

(i) subsection 73(1) does not apply to the disposition and would not apply to the disposition if

(i) no election had been made under that subsection, and

(ii) section 73 were read without reference to subsection 73(1.02); and

(j) if the contributor is an amateur athlete trust, a cemetery care trust, an employee life and health trust, an employee trust, an inter vivos trust deemed by subsection 143(1) to exist in respect of a congregation that is a constituent part of a religious organization, a related segregated fund trust (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 138.1(1)(a)), a trust described in paragraph 149(1)(o.4) or a trust governed by an eligible funeral arrangement, an employees profit sharing plan, a registered disability savings plan, a registered education savings plan, a registered supplementary unemployment benefit plan or a TFSA, the particular trust is the same type of trust.

(a) to dispositions that occur after December 23, 1998; and

(b) in respect of 1993 et seq., to transfers of capital property that occurred before December 24, 1998, except that, in its application to transfers before December 24, 1998, subsec. 107.4(1) shall be read as follows:

107.4 (1) For the purpose of this section, a "qualifying disposition" of a property means a transfer of the property to a particular trust that was not a disposition of the property for the purpose of subdivision c because of paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in section 54, except where

(a) if the transfer is from another trust to the particular trust,

(i) each trust can reasonably be considered to act as agent for the same beneficiary or beneficiaries in respect of the property transferred, or

(ii) the transferee trust can reasonably be considered to act as agent for the transferor trust in respect of the property transferred; and

(b) in any other case, it is reasonable to consider that the particular trust acts as agent in respect of the property transferred.

(2) Application of paragraph (1)(a) — For the purpose of paragraph (1)(a),

(a) except where paragraph (b) applies, where a trust (in this paragraph and subsection (2.1) referred to as the "transferor trust"), in a period that does not exceed one day, disposes of one or more properties in the period to one or more other trusts, there is deemed to be no resulting change in the beneficial ownership of those properties if

(i) the transferor trust receives no consideration for the disposition, and

(ii) as a consequence of the disposition, the value of each beneficiary's beneficial ownership at the beginning of the period under the transferor trust in each particular property of the transferor trust (or group of two or more properties of the transferor trust that are identical to each other) is the same as the value of the beneficiary's beneficial ownership at the end of the period under the transferor trust and the other trust or trusts in each particular property (or in property that was immediately before the disposition included in the group of identical properties referred to above); and

(b) where a trust (in this paragraph referred to as the "transferor") governed by a registered retirement savings plan or by a registered retirement income fund transfers a property to a trust (in this paragraph referred to as the "transferee") governed by a registered retirement savings plan or by a registered retirement income fund, the transfer is deemed not to result in a change in the beneficial ownership of the property if the annuitant of the plan or fund that governs the transferor is also the annuitant of the plan or fund that governs the transferee.

(ii) in computing the amount determined under paragraph 138.1(1)(i) in respect of a subsequent disposition of an interest in the transferee trust where the interest is deemed to exist in connection with a particular life insurance policy, the acquisition fee (as defined by subsection 138.1(6)) in respect of the particular policy shall be determined as if each amount determined under any of paragraphs 138.1(6)(a) to (d) in respect of the policyholder's interest in the transferor had been determined in respect of the policyholder's interest in the transferee trust;

(h) if the transferor is a trust to which property had been transferred by an individual (other than a trust),

(i) where subsection 73(1) applied in respect of the property so transferred and it is reasonable to consider that the property was so transferred in anticipation of the individual ceasing to be resident in Canada, for the purposes of paragraph 104(4)(a.3) and the application of this paragraph to a disposition by the transferee trust after the particular time, the transferee trust is deemed after the particular time to be a trust to which the individual had transferred property in anticipation of the individual ceasing to reside in Canada and in circumstances to which subsection 73(1) applied, and

(ii) for the purposes of paragraph (j) of the definition "excluded right or interest" in subsection 128.1(10) and the application of this paragraph to a disposition by the transferee trust after the particular time, where the property so transferred was transferred in circumstances to which this subsection would apply if subsection (1) were read without reference to paragraphs (1)(h) and (i), the transferee trust is deemed after the particular time to be a trust an interest in which was acquired by the individual as a consequence of a qualifying disposition;

(i) if the transferor is a trust (other than a personal trust or a trust prescribed for the purposes of subsection 107(2)), the transferee trust is deemed to be neither a personal trust nor a trust prescribed for the purposes of subsection 107(2);

(j) if the transferor is a trust and a taxpayer disposes of all or part of a capital interest in the transferor because of the qualifying disposition and, as a consequence, acquires a capital interest or part of it in the transferee trust

(i) the taxpayer is deemed to dispose of the capital interest or part of it in the transferor for proceeds equal to the cost amount to the taxpayer of that interest or part of it immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) the taxpayer is deemed to acquire the capital interest or part of it in the transferee trust at a cost equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) that cost amount

exceeds

(B) the amount by which the taxpayer's loss otherwise determined from the disposition referred to in subparagraph (i) would be reduced because of paragraph 107(1)(c) or (d) if the proceeds under that subparagraph were equal to the fair market value of the capital interest or part of it in the transferor immediately before the particular time;

(k) where the transferor is a trust, a taxpayer's beneficial ownership in the property ceases to be derived from the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor because of the qualifying disposition and no part of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor was disposed of because of the qualifying disposition, there shall, immediately after the particular time, be added to the cost otherwise determined of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferee trust, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the cost amount to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor immediately before the particular time,

B is the fair market value immediately before the particular time of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor,

C is the fair market value at the particular time of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor (determined as if the only property disposed of at the particular time were the particular property), and

D is the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the cost amount to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor immediately before the particular time exceeds the fair market value of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) the maximum amount by which the taxpayer's loss from a disposition of a capital interest otherwise determined could have been reduced because of paragraph 107(1)(c) or (d) if the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor had been disposed of immediately before the particular time;

(l) where paragraph (k) applies to the qualifying disposition in respect of a taxpayer, the amount that would be determined under that paragraph in respect of the qualifying disposition if the amount determined for D in that paragraph were nil shall, immediately after the particular time, be deducted in computing the cost otherwise determined of the taxpayer's capital interest in the transferor;

(m) where paragraphs (j) and (k) do not apply in respect of the qualifying disposition, the transferor is deemed to acquire the capital interest or part of it in the transferee trust that is acquired as a consequence of the qualifying disposition

(i) where the transferee trust is a personal trust, at a cost equal to nil, and

(ii) in any other case, at a cost equal to the excess determined under paragraph (b) in respect of the qualifying disposition; and

(n) if the transferor is a trust and a taxpayer disposes of all or part of an income interest in the transferor because of the qualifying disposition and, as a consequence, acquires an income interest or a part of an income interest in the transferee trust, for the purpose of subsection 106(2), the taxpayer is deemed not to dispose of any part of the income interest in the transferor at the particular time.

Proposed Amendment — 108(1)"testamentary trust" opening words

"testamentary trust", in a taxation year, means a trust that arose on and as a consequence of the death of an individual (including a trust referred to in subsection 248(9.1)), other than

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 58(1), will amend the opening words of the definition "testamentary trust" in subsec. 108(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 108(1) defines "testamentary trust" generally as a trust or estate that arose on and in consequence of the death of an individual, and provides some exceptions to that definition.

Subsection 104(1) provides that references to a "trust" in subdivision k of Division B of Part I of the Act (i.e., sections 104 to 108) include a trust or estate. The definition "testamentary trust" in subsection 108(1) is therefore amended to remove the reference to "estate" because the references in that definition to a "trust" include an estate.

(a) a trust created by a person other than the individual,

(b) a trust created after November 12, 1981 if, before the end of the taxation year, property has been contributed to the trust otherwise than by an individual on or after the individual's death and as a consequence thereof, and

(c) a trust created before November 13, 1981 if

(i) after June 28, 1982 property has been contributed to the trust otherwise than by an individual on or after the individual's death and as a consequence thereof, or

(ii) before the end of the taxation year, the total fair market value of the property owned by the trust that was contributed to the trust otherwise than by an individual on or after the individual's death and as a consequence thereof and the property owned by the trust that was substituted for such property exceeds the total fair market value of the property owned by the trust that was contributed by an individual on or after the individual's death and as a consequence thereof and the property owned by the trust that was substituted for such property, and for the purposes of this paragraph the fair market value of any property shall be determined as at the time it was acquired by the trust; and

Proposed Addition — 108(1)"testamentary trust"(d)

(d) a trust that, at any time after December 20, 2002 and before the end of the taxation year, incurs a debt or any other obligation owed to, or guaranteed by, a beneficiary or any other person or partnership (which beneficiary, person or partnership is referred to in this paragraph as the "specified party") with whom any beneficiary of the trust does not deal at arm's length, other than a debt or other obligation

(i) incurred by the trust in satisfaction of the specified party's right as a beneficiary under the trust

(A) to enforce payment of an amount of the trust's income or capital gains payable at or before that time by the trust to the specified party, or

(B) to otherwise receive any part of the capital of the trust,

(ii) owed to the specified party, if the debt or other obligation arose because of a service (for greater certainty, not including any transfer or loan of property) rendered by the specified party to, for or on behalf of the trust, or

(iii) owed to the specified party, if

(A) the debt or other obligation arose because of a payment made by the specified party for or on behalf of the trust,

(B) in exchange for the payment, the trust transfers property, the fair market value of which is not less than the principal amount of that debt or other obligation, to the specified party within 12 months after the payment was made (or, where written application has been made to the Minister by the trust within that 12 months, within any longer period that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances), and

(C) it is reasonable to conclude that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with the trust, except where the trust is the individual's estate and that payment was made within the first 12 months after the individual's death (or, where written application has been made to the Minister by the estate within that 12 months, within any longer period that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances);

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 58(2), will add para. (d) to the definition "testamentary trust" in subsec. 108(1), applicable to taxation years that end after December 20, 2002, except that

(a) a transfer that is required, by cl. (d)(iii)(B) of the definition, as amended, to be made within 12 months after a payment was made is deemed to be made in a timely manner if it is made within 12 months after this draft legislation is assented to; and

(b) for those taxation years that end before the day on which this draft legislation is assented to, the reference to "within the first 12 months after the individual's death" in cl. (d)(iii)(C) of the definition, as amended, is to be read as a reference to "after the individual's death and no later than 12 months after the day on which the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2010 [this draft legislation] is assented to".

Technical Notes (July 2010): New paragraph (d) of the definition "testamentary trust" is an anti-avoidance rule. That new paragraph provides that a testamentary trust in a taxation year does not include a trust (in the commentary on this amendment, references to "trust" include an estate) that incurs, after December 20, 2002 and before the end of the taxation year, a debt or any other obligation to pay an amount to, or guaranteed by, a beneficiary or any other person or partnership (referred to in this commentary as the "specified party") with whom any beneficiary of the trust does not deal at arm's length. However, such a debt will not affect the status of the trust as a testamentary trust if it is a debt or other obligation owed to the specified party and

- it is incurred by the trust in satisfaction of the specified party's right as a beneficiary under the trust to enforce payment of an amount of income or capital gains payable by the trust to the specified party or to otherwise receive any part of the capital of the trust,

- it arose because of a service (for greater certainty, not including any transfer or loan of property) rendered by the specified party to, for or on behalf of the trust; for example, this would include debts or other obligations arising in respect of services rendered in a person's capacity as an executor or administrator of an estate, as a liquidator of succession or as a trustee of a trust, or

- it arose because of a payment made by the specified party for or on behalf of (but not to) the trust; for example, a payment of funeral expenses on behalf of the deceased's estate. However, to qualify under this provision, additional conditions must be satisfied. In very general terms, these conditions are that the trust fully reimburse the specified party within a year of the specified party making the payment. More precisely, in exchange for the payment the trust must transfer property (the fair market value of which is not less than the principal amount of that debt or other obligation that arose because of the payment) to the specified party within 12 months after the specified party made the payment (or, where written application has been made to the Minister by the trust within that 12 months, within any longer period that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances). A transfer of property, within the required period by the trust to the specified party, which does not result in the settlement or cancellation of that debt or obligation would not satisfy this requirement. It must also be reasonable to conclude that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with the trust. This third requirement is suspended, however, where the trust is an individual's estate and the payment giving rise to the debt or obligation was made within the first 12 months after the individual's death (or, where written application has been made to the Minister of National Revenue by the estate within that 12 months, within any longer period that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances).

These amendments apply to trust taxation years that end after December 20, 2002. However, a transfer that is required, by clause (d)(iii)(B) of the definition "testamentary trust" in subsection 108(1) to be made within 12 months after a payment was made, is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made no later than 12 months after this amended definition receives Royal Assent. In effect, the deadline imposed by that clause for the full reimbursement of the specified party by the trust or estate is extended, without need for written application, provided that the full reimbursement is made within 12 months after Royal Assent.

In addition, for taxation years that end before Royal Assent, the exception from the arm's length condition for obligations owed by an estate (which condition and exception are set out in clause (d)(iii)(C) of the definition) will apply so that a payment that is made by a specified party for or on behalf of the estate and that is described in clause (d)(iii)(A) will not be subject to the arm's length requirement where the payment is made at any time after the individual's death and not later than 12 months after Royal Assent. For these taxation years, if such a qualifying payment is not made within 12 months after Royal Assent, then the Minister may grant a further extension of the period, beyond 12 months after Royal Assent, if written application is made to the Minister by the estate within 12 months after Royal Assent.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, April 28, 2004:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of March 3, 2004, concerning proposed paragraph (d) of the definition "testamentary trust" in subsection 108(1) of the Income Tax Act, contained in the Legislative Proposals and Draft Regulations relating to Income Tax ("Legislative Proposals"), released by the Minister of Finance on February 27, 2004.

Subsection 108(1) of the Act defines "testamentary trust" generally as a trust that arose on and as a consequence of the death of an individual, and provides some exceptions to that definition. A reference in that definition to a trust includes an estate.

Proposed paragraph (d) of the definition "testamentary trust" is an anti-avoidance rule that is intended to respond to the use of testamentary trusts as vehicles for income splitting. That new paragraph provides that a testamentary trust in a taxation year does not include a trust or estate that incurs, after December 20, 2002 and before the end of the taxation year, a debt or any other obligation to pay an amount to, or guaranteed by, a beneficiary or any other person or partnership (referred to in the proposed definition as the "specified party") with whom any beneficiary of the trust or estate does not deal at arm's length.

Certain of such debts and obligations would, however, not cause a trust or estate to lose its status as a testamentary trust. For example, under proposed subparagraph (d)(iii) of the definition, a debt or obligation would not affect the status of a trust or estate as a testamentary trust if it is a debt or other obligation owed to the specified party, it arose because of a payment made by the specified party for or on behalf of the trust or estate, the trust or estate fully reimburses the specified party within a year of the specified party making the payment and it is reasonable to conclude that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with the trust or estate.

In your letter you have expressed concern that the last condition in subparagraph (d)(iii) of that definition — that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with the trust or estate — will, in practice, not be satisfied in the case of the vast majority of estates of deceased individuals. We understand from your letter that this is because of the legal limitations placed on the estate executor's ability to deal with property of the estate, such that family members of a deceased individual will often undertake to make payments on behalf of the estate — for example, the payment of funeral expenses or a tax liability — without any expectation, or arrangement to the effect, that the reimbursement by the estate of such payments include an arm's length amount of interest. As a result, under that proposed paragraph of the definition "testamentary trust" the estate would lose its status under the Act as a testamentary trust.

We are of the view that the loss of an estate's status as a testamentary trust, in these circumstances, would be inconsistent with the policy objectives of proposed paragraph (d) of the definition. Therefore, we are prepared to recommend a modification to proposed subparagraph (d)(iii) of the definition "testamentary trust", to provide that the requirement in clause (C) of that subparagraph — that the specified party would have been willing to make the payment if the specified party dealt at arm's length with an individual's estate — not apply where the payment for or on behalf of an estate is made within the first 12 months after the individual's death (or, where written application has been made to the Minister of National Revenue by the estate within that 12 months, within any longer period that that Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances). As a result, where the remaining conditions of proposed subparagraph (d)(iii) of that definition are satisfied, to the extent that the circumstances do not involve an attempt to use the estate as a vehicle for income splitting, the anti-avoidance provisions of the Act would not be expected to apply to cause the estate to lose its status as a testamentary trust.

For these purposes, we will also recommend that an application, otherwise required to be filed before 120 days after the amending legislation containing that proposed subparagraph (d)(iii) receives Royal Assent, be deemed to have been filed on a timely basis if it is filed in writing with the Minister of National Revenue within 120 days after that Royal Assent.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Application: The December 14, 2011 draft legislation, s. 8, will amend para. (a) of the definition "trust" in subsec. 108(1) to read as above, in force or deemed in force on the day of the coming into force of S.C. 2012, c. 16 (Bill C-25, Royal Assent June 18, 2012). Pooled Registered Pension Plans Act.

Technical Notes: Section 108 provides definitions and rules that apply for the purposes of subdivision k of the Act, which deals with the taxation of trusts and their beneficiaries. For the purposes of the 21-year deemed disposition rule and other specified measures, subsection 108(1) defines trust to exclude certain trusts. Under paragraph (a) of the definition "trust", trusts governed by registered retirement savings plans and a number of other special income plans are among those trusts excluded for these purposes.

As a consequence of the introduction of pooled registered pension plans (PRPPs) and the income tax rules to accommodate them, paragraph (a) of the definition "trust" is amended to add a reference to PRPPs as excluded trusts for these purposes. For further information regarding PRPPs, please see the commentary to new section 147.5.

Proposed Amendment — 108(1)"trust" between (e.1) and (f)

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 58(4), will delete "and section 106" from the portion of the definition "trust" in subsec. 108(1) between paras. (e.1) and (f), applicable to 1998 et seq.

Technical Notes (July 2010): For the purposes of the 21-year deemed disposition rule and other specified measures, subsection 108(1) defines "trust" to exclude certain listed trusts.

For these purposes, paragraph (f) of the definition excludes unit trusts (as defined in subsection 108(2)) and paragraph (g) excludes, except as specified, trusts all interests in which have vested indefeasibly.

This definition is amended so that section 106 is not a provision for the purposes of which paragraphs (f) and (g) of the definition apply. Section 106 provides rules in respect of an "income interest" (as defined in subsection 108(1)) in a "personal trust" (as defined in subsection 248(1)). As a result of this amendment, for the purpose of section 106, references to a trust will include a trust described in paragraph (g) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1). (As the definition "personal trust" expressly excludes a unit trust, paragraph (f) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1) is not relevant for this purpose.)

(f) a trust that, at that time, is a unit trust, or

(g) a trust all interests in which, at that time, have vested indefeasibly, other than

(i) an alter ego trust, a joint spousal or common-law partner trust, a post-1971 spousal or common-law partner trust or a trust to which paragraph 104(4)(a.4) applies,

(ii) a trust that has elected under subsection 104(5.3),

Proposed Repeal — 108(1)"trust"(g)(ii)

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 19(2), will repeal subpara. (g)(ii) of the definition "trust" in subsec. 108(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: For the purposes of the 21-year deemed disposition rule and other specified measures, subsection 108(1) defines "trust" to exclude certain trusts. Paragraph (g) of the definition "trust" refers to a trust in which all interests have vested indefeasibly but excludes certain trusts. Paragraph (g) of the definition "trust" is amended to remove one of those exclusions, specifically the exclusion for a trust that has made an election under subsection 104(5.3). Subsection 104(5.3), which provides a deferral of the 21-year deemed disposition date that would otherwise have applied to certain family trusts before 1999, is repealed for taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011, on the basis that the most recent deemed disposition date that could be deferred under that provision was January 1, 1999. Consequently, [sub]paragraph (g)[(ii)] of the definition "trust" is also repealed.

(iii) a trust that has, in its return of income under this Part for its first taxation year that ends after 1992, elected that this paragraph not apply,

(iv) a trust that is at that time resident in Canada where the total fair market value at that time of all interests in the trust held at that time by beneficiaries under the trust who at that time are non-resident is more than 20% of the total fair market value at that time of all interests in the trust held at that time by beneficiaries under the trust,

(v) a trust under the terms of which, at that time, all or part of a person's interest in the trust is to be terminated with reference to a period of time (including a period of time determined with reference to the person's death), otherwise than as a consequence of terms of the trust under which an interest in the trust is to be terminated as a consequence of a distribution to the person (or the person's estate) of property of the trust if the fair market value of the property to be distributed is required to be commensurate with the fair market value of that interest immediately before the distribution, or

(vi) a trust that, before that time and after December 17, 1999, has made a distribution to a beneficiary in respect of the beneficiary's capital interest in the trust, if the distribution can reasonably be considered to have been financed by a liability of the trust and one of the purposes of incurring the liability was to avoid taxes otherwise payable under this Part as a consequence of the death of any individual;

Technical Notes: Subsection 108(2) sets out the requirements for a trust to be a "unit trust". To be a unit trust, if the issued units of a trust do not meet the conditions of paragraph 108(2)(a), the trust must at that time meet the requirements of paragraph 108(2)(b) or (c). For a trust that relies upon paragraph 108(2)(b), subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iii) imposes upon the trust the condition that at least 80% of the trust's property consist of any combination of property described in clauses 108(2)(b)(iii)(A) to (G). Subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv) requires, in general terms, that at least 95% of the trust's income over certain periods of time be derived from investments, or dispositions of investments, in property described in subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iii).

Subsection 39(2) deems the net amount of certain gains and losses resulting from the fluctuation in value of foreign currency to be a capital gain or loss from the disposition of foreign currency.

Subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv) is amended so that for the purposes of determining whether the conditions in paragraph 108(2)(b) have been met, the trust's income will be determined without regard to subsection 39(2).

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 7, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of October 17, 2002, concerning the interaction of paragraph 108(2)(b) and subsection 39(2) of the Income Tax Act.

As you know, if the issued units of a trust do not meet the conditions of paragraph 108(2)(a) of the Act, the trust must at that time meet the requirements of paragraph 108(2)(b) or (c) in order to qualify at any time as a "unit trust" under the Act. For a trust that relies upon paragraph 108(2)(b), subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iii) imposes upon the trust the condition that at least 80% of the trust's property consist of any combination of property described in clauses 108(2)(b)(iii)(A) to (G). Subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv) requires, in general terms, that at least 95% of the trust's income over certain periods of time be derived from investments, or dispositions of investments, in property described in subparagraph (iii).

Subsection 39(2) of the Act deems certain gains resulting from the fluctuation in value of foreign currency to be capital gains from the disposition of foreign currency.

In your letter, you describe a trust that seeks to rely on paragraph 108(2)(b) to qualify as a unit trust. Some of the trust's property may consist of foreign investments. The trust may seek to minimize its risk of foreign currency fluctuations by funding its foreign investments with debt denominated in the foreign currency in which those foreign investments are denominated. We assume that the trust carries on, at all relevant times, these activities in a manner that permits it to satisfy the limitations, in subparagraph 108(2)(b)(ii), on its undertaking.

You are concerned that the portion, if any, of the trust's income in a given year that arises from the application of subsection 39(2) would not be income derived from investments, or the disposition of investments, described in subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iii), such that the trust might not be able to satisfy the conditions of subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv). As a result, you are seeking an amendment to subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv) so that the trust's income would be computed without regard to subsection 39(2).

In our view, the deemed capital gains that arise because of the application of subsection 39(2) should not be included in computing the income of a trust for the purpose of subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv). We are, therefore, prepared to recommend a clarifying amendment to the Act so that, in applying subparagraph 108(2)(b)(iv), the trust's income would be computed without regard to subsection 39(2). We will also recommend that such an amendment apply for the 2003 and subsequent taxation years.

Of course, we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendation that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Thank you for writing.

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(6) Variation of trusts — Where at any time the terms of a trust are varied

(a) for the purposes of subsections 104(4), (5) and (5.2) and subject to paragraph (b), the trust is, at and after that time, deemed to be the same trust as, and a continuation of, the trust immediately before that time;

(b) for greater certainty, paragraph (a) does not affect the application of paragraph 104(4)(a.1); and

(c) for the purposes of paragraph 53(2)(h), subsection 107(1), paragraph (j) of the definition "excluded right or interest" in subsection 128.1(10) and the definition "personal trust" in subsection 248(1), no interest of a beneficiary under the trust before it was varied is considered to be consideration for the interest of the beneficiary in the trust as varied.

History: Subsec. 108(6) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 83(12), applicable to 2000 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

(6) For the purposes of subsections 104(4), (5) and (5.2), where at any time the terms of a trust are varied, the trust shall at and after that time be deemed to be the same trust as, and a continuation of, the trust immediately before that time, but, for greater certainty, nothing in this subsection affects the application of paragraph 104(4)(a.1).

Subsec. 108(6) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 44(9), applicable to variations occurring after February 11, 1991.

(7) Interests acquired for consideration — For the purposes of paragraph 53(2)(h), subsection 107(1), paragraph (j) of the definition "excluded right or interest" in subsection 128.1(10) and the definition "personal trust" in subsection 248(1),

Proposed Amendment — 108(7) opening words

(7) Interests acquired for consideration — For the purposes of paragraph 53(2)(h), subparagraph (c)(i) of the definition "exempt amount" in subsection 94(1), subsection 107(1), paragraph (j) of the definition "excluded right or interest" in subsection 128.1(10) and paragraph (b) of the definition "personal trust" in subsection 248(1),

Application: The August 27, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — non-resident trusts), s. 11, will amend the opening words of subsec. 108(7) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after 2006, and to each earlier taxation year of a trust to which subsec. 94(3), as amended, applies and each taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust in which one of those earlier taxation years of the trust ends.

Technical Notes (Sept. 10, 2010): Subsection 108(7) contains a rule that, in general terms, provides that a person (or two or more related persons) can make a contribution to a trust and retain an interest under the trust without the interest being considered to have been acquired for consideration. This rule applies for the purposes of paragraph 53(2)(h), subsection 107(1), paragraph (j) of the definition "excluded right or interest" in subsection 128.1(10) and the definition "personal trust" in subsection 248(1).

Subsection 108(7) is amended so that it also applies for the purpose of subparagraph (c)(i) of the definition "exempt amount" in subsection 94(1). For more detail on that definition, see the commentary above.

This amendment applies to taxation years that end after 2006. It also applies to each earlier taxation year of a trust to which subsection 94(3) applies (because of a valid election by the trust under the coming-into-force provision for new section 94) and each taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust in which one of those earlier taxation years of the trust ends.

(a) an interest in a trust is deemed not to be acquired for consideration solely because it was acquired in satisfaction of any right as a beneficiary under the trust to enforce payment of an amount by the trust; and

(b) where all the beneficial interests in a particular inter vivos trust acquired by way of the transfer, assignment or other disposition of property to the particular trust were acquired by

(i) one person, or

(ii) two or more persons who would be related to each other if

(A) a trust and another person were related to each other, where the other person is a beneficiary under the trust or is related to a beneficiary under the trust, and

(B) a trust and another trust were related to each other, where a beneficiary under the trust is a beneficiary under the other trust or is related to a beneficiary under the other trust, any beneficial interest in the particular trust acquired by such a person is deemed to have been acquired for no consideration.

History: Subsec. 108(7) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 83(12), applicable after December 23, 1998.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 59(1), will amend para. 110(1)(k) to read as above, applicable to 2003 et seq.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Paragraph 110(1)(k) provides a deduction in computing a corporation's taxable income. The amount of the deduction is equal to a multiple of the amount of any tax payable by the corporation for the year under Part VI.1 of the Act on dividends it pays on taxable preferred shares. This deduction approximates the income that would have generated an amount of income tax under Part I equal to the tax under Part VI.1. To produce that result, the multiple used for this deduction is based on the implied combined federal and provincial corporate income tax rate used for the purpose of Part VI.1. This amendment increases the multiple used in paragraph 110(1)(k) for the 2003 and subsequent taxation years in light of the changes made to Part VI.1 to reflect the reductions in the general federal corporate income tax rate. This amendment is made in the course of the review of provisions in the Income Tax Act that assume a specific underlying corporate income tax rate in the context of the reductions in the general federal corporate income tax rate, as was announced in the Economic Statement delivered on October 30, 2007. The review of other such provisions continues and any other amendments will be announced upon completion of that review.

Proposed Amendment — 110(1.7), (1.8)

(1.7) Reduction in exercise price — If the amount payable by a taxpayer to acquire securities under an agreement referred to in subsection 7(1) is reduced at any particular time and the conditions in subsection (1.8) are satisfied in respect of the reduction,

(a) the rights (referred to in this subsection and subsection (1.8) as the "old rights") that the taxpayer had under the agreement immediately before the particular time are deemed to have been disposed of by the taxpayer immediately before the particular time;

(b) the rights (referred to in this subsection and subsection (1.8) as the "new rights") that the taxpayer has under the agreement at the particular time are deemed to be acquired by the taxpayer at the particular time; and

(c) the taxpayer is deemed to receive the new rights as consideration for the disposition of the old rights.

(1.8) Conditions for subsec. (1.7) to apply — The following are the conditions in respect of the reduction:

(a) that the taxpayer would not be entitled to a deduction under paragraph (1)(d) if the taxpayer acquired securities under the agreement immediately after the particular time and this section were read without reference to subsection (1.7); and

(b) that the taxpayer would be entitled to a deduction under paragraph (1)(d) if the taxpayer

An election by a taxpayer under subsec. 7(10) to have subsec. 7(8) apply is deemed to have been filed in a timely manner if

(a) it is filed on or before the 60th day after this draft legislation is assented to;

(b) it is in respect of a security acquired by the taxpayer before this draft legislation is assented to;

(c) the taxpayer is entitled to a deduction under para. 110(1)(d) in respect of the acquisition; and

(d) the taxpayer would not have been so entitled if subsec. 110(1.7), as amended, did not apply.

I.T. Technical News: ITTN-38 (employee stock option deduction).

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 110(1.7) provides that the definitions in subsection 7(7) relating to employee security options also apply for the purposes of subsections 110(1.5) and 110(1.6). Since subsection 7(7) also provides for the definitions to so apply, existing subsection 110(1.7) is unnecessary and is repealed.

A new subsection 110(1.7) is added that applies in circumstances where there is a reduction in the amount (referred to in these notes as the "exercise price") payable by an employee to acquire securities under an employee security option and the conditions in new subsection 110(1.8) are satisfied.

This new subsection ensures that a reduction in the exercise price under an employee security option does not disqualify the employee from claiming the security option deduction under paragraph 110(1)(d), if the reduction could have been effected by way of an exchange of options without jeopardizing the employee's eligibility for the deduction.

Paragraph 110(1)(d) provides a deduction in computing taxable income in circumstances where subsection 7(1) deems an employee to have received a benefit from employment in connection with the exercise or disposition of rights under an employee option agreement. The deduction is currently equal to one-half of the amount of the employment benefit, and the effect of the deduction is to tax the benefit at a rate equivalent to the capital gains inclusion rate.

Paragraph 110(1)(d) sets out certain conditions that must be satisfied in order to qualify for the security option deduction. These conditions include a minimum exercise price requirement under the option giving rise to the benefit under subsection 7(1) and, if that option was acquired as a consequence of one or more qualifying exchanges of options, under each of the previous options. Thus, if a reduction in the exercise price under an employee security option causes the exercise price to fall below the minimum threshold established under paragraph 110(1)(d) for that option, the employee will not be entitled to claim the security option deduction.

However, there are situations in which an otherwise disqualifying reduction in an option exercise price could be effected by way of an exchange of options without jeopardizing the employee's eligibility for the deduction. This would be the case, for example, if the exercise price had originally been set at the fair market value (FMV) of the underlying securities at the time of grant, there is a subsequent decline in the FMV of the securities and the exercise price is adjusted to that lower FMV. The combined effect of subsections 110(1.7) and (1.8) is to deem such a reduction to have been effected by way of an exchange, thus ensuring that the employee remains eligible for the security option deduction.

In particular, new subsection 110(1.7) provides that, where there is a reduction in the exercise price under an employee security option and the conditions in subsection 110(1.8) are satisfied, the employee is deemed to have disposed of the rights under the option immediately before the reduction and to have acquired the amended rights immediately thereafter as consideration for the disposition.

New subsection 110(1.8) sets out two conditions that must be satisfied in order for new subsection 110(1.7) to apply.

- First, the employee would not qualify for the security option deduction if the option were exercised immediately after the exercise price reduction (and subsection 110(1.7) were disregarded).

- Second, the employee would have been eligible for the deduction had there, in fact, been an exchange of options and the employee exercised the option immediately after the exchange.

These conditions ensure that the provisions of subsection 110(1.7) apply only where an otherwise disqualifying reduction in the exercise price under an employee security option could have been effected by way of an exchange of options without so disqualifying the employee.

Example:

Pierre is granted an option to acquire ten shares of Company A at an exercise price of $100 a share, which is the FMV of such a share at that time. After a downturn of the business, the Company amends the option to reduce the exercise price to $30 a share, which is the new FMV of such a share.

Results:

Without the benefit of subsection 110(1.7), paragraph 110(1)(d) would require that the exercise price under the option at the time of exercise be no less than the FMV of the underlying share at the time the option was granted. Since the exercise price of $30 would be less than the FMV of $100 at the time the option was issued, this condition would not be met and Pierre would not be eligible for the security option deduction.

If the reduction had been effected by way of an exchange of options, there would have been no increase in the net benefit associated with the option (i.e., the difference between the FMV of the shares under the "new option" and the "new exercise price" ($300 - $300 = $0) would have been no greater than the difference between the FMV of the shares under the "old option" and the "old exercise price" ($300 - $1,000 = $0)). Thus, the exchange would have been an exchange to which subsection 7(1.4) applied.

If Pierre had exercised the new option immediately after the exchange, paragraph 110(1)(d) would have required that the following exercise price tests be met:

- The exercise price under the old option at the time it was disposed of would have to be not less than the FMV of the underlying shares when the option was granted. Since the exercise price of $100 was equal to the FMV at the date of grant, this condition would have been met.
- The exercise price under the new option at the time of exercise would have to be not less than the exercise price set when the new option was acquired. Since Pierre would have paid $30 a share on exercise, which was the exercise price established when the new option was acquired, this condition would have been met.

Thus, if the reduction had been effected by way of an exchange and Pierre had exercised the option immediately after the exchange, he would have been eligible for the security option deduction.

Since the requirements of subsection 110(1.8) are satisfied, subsection 110(1.7) applies to deem the reduction to have been effected by way of an exchange. Consequently, the reduction will not disqualify Pierre from claiming the stock option deduction.

Extended Deadline for Deferral Election

Where certain conditions are satisfied, subsection 7(8) allows an employee to defer taxation of a security option benefit to the year in which the employee disposes of the security. One condition is that the employee be eligible to claim the deduction under paragraph 110(1)(d) in respect of the benefit. Another condition is that the employee files an election to defer before January 16th of the year following the year in which the option is exercised (or before August 14, 2001 for securities acquired in 2000).

The coming-into-force provisions for subsections 110(1.7) and (1.8) extend the deferral election deadline for securities which are acquired before this legislation receives Royal Assent, and which become qualified for the deduction under paragraph 110(1)(d) only by reason of amended subsection 110(1.7), to the later of

- the election deadline that would otherwise apply, and
- the day that is 60 days after Royal Assent.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 13, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letters of August 5, 1999 and October 3, 2000 concerning the stock option deduction provided under paragraph 110(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act (Act).

As you know, we are prepared to recommend that the Act be amended to ensure that an employee is not disqualified from claiming the stock option deduction because of a reduction in the option exercise price to an amount below the value of the underlying share when the option was granted, provided the reduction could have been accomplished by way of an exchange of options to which subsection 7(1.4) of the Act would have applied. The effect of the amendment would be to allow paragraph 110(1)(d) to apply as though there had, in fact, been such an exchange of options. By requiring that the hypothetical option exchange satisfy the conditions of subsection 7(1.4), this relief would be limited to those situations in which the reduction in exercise price provides no immediate increase in the net benefit associated with the option. We will recommend that this amendment, if adopted, apply to reductions in exercise price occurring after 1998.

We are also prepared to recommend the [sic] section 6204 of the Income Tax Regulations be amended. That section sets out certain conditions that must be met in order for an employee who has acquired a stock option share to be eligible for the stock option deduction. One of the conditions [Reg. 6204(1)(b) — ed.] is that there be no reasonable expectation, at the time the share is acquired, that the paid-up capital (PUC) of the share will be reduced in the following two years, although an exception is made for a reduction in PUC that may be expected to occur in the context of an amalgamation or wind-up of a subsidiary.

We will recommend that an exception also be made for a reduction in PUC that may be expected to occur in the context of a distribution which, because of subsection 84(2) of the Act, would not be recharacterized as a dividend for tax purposes. This would ensure that an employee who acquires a stock option share of a Canadian-resident corporation, while the corporation is in the process of a reorganization, discontinuance or wind-up, is not precluded from claiming the stock option deduction simply because that activity may give rise to a reasonable expectation of a distribution by the corporation and an associated reduction in PUC. We will recommend that this amendment, if adopted, apply with respect to options exercised after 1998.

Thank you for bringing these matters to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 29, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

This is in response to your letter of March 12, 2002 concerning proposed amendments to the Income Tax Act to ensure that an employee is not disqualified from claiming the stock option deduction under paragraph 110(1)(d) of the Act because of a reduction in the option exercise price.

As you know, it is intended that the proposed relief be provided in those situations where a disqualifying reduction in exercise price could have been effected by way of an exchange of options without jeopardizing an employee's eligibility for the stock option deduction. This would require that the hypothetical exchange satisfy the conditions of subsection 7(1.4) of the Act, which means that there must be no immediate increase in the net benefit associated with the option. We expect to recommend that relief be provided in these situations by deeming the amendment to have been effected by way of an exchange of options.

You have noted that, in order to reflect a diminishment in share value following a spin-off transaction, a corporation will commonly amend outstanding employee stock options to both reduce the exercise price and increase the number of shares, and that such amendments are structured so that there is no increase in the net benefit associated with the stock option. You have asked if the proposed relieving provision is meant to apply in such a situation, or if the fact that there is a share increase in conjunction with the exercise price reduction will serve to deny access to the provision.

I wish to confirm that there is no intent to preclude the application of the relieving provision to an amendment that reduces the exercise price under a stock option simply because the amendment also increases the number of shares covered by the option. However, as with a simple reduction in exercise price, the proposed relieving provision is intended to apply only if the stock option amendment could have been effected by way of an exchange of options without jeopardizing access to the stock option deduction. Consequently, a prerequisite for the proposed provision to apply is that the combined changes not result in an increase in the net benefit associated with the option.

I wish to thank you for writing and trust that this letter provides you with the clarification you require.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(a) charitable gifts — the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of a gift (other than a gift described in paragraph (b), (c) or (d)) made by the corporation in the year or in any of the five preceding taxation years to a qualified donee, not exceeding the lesser of the corporation's income for the year and the amount determined by the formula

(a) charitable gifts — the total of all amounts each of which is the eligible amount of a gift (other than a gift described in paragraph (b), (c) or (d)) made by the corporation in the year or in any of the five preceding taxation years [to a qualified donee], not exceeding the lesser of the corporation's income for the year and the amount determined by the formula

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 60(1), will amend the opening words of para. 110.1(1)(a) to read as above [including the italicized text to reflect the changes made by the 2011 Budget second bill, which are expected to be replicated when this legislation is reintroduced — ed.], applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Section 110.1 provides a deduction in computing taxable income in respect of gifts made by corporations to registered charities and to certain other entities. Section 110.1 is amended [by adding 110.1(1)(a)(iv.1), now replaced by 149.1(1)"qualified donee"(a)(iii) — ed.] to expand the entities referred to in this section to include municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada. This amendment is in response to the Quebec Court of Appeal decision in Tawich Development Corporation v. Deputy Minister of Revenue of Quebec, 2001 D.T.C. 5144 [2000 CarswellQue 764 — ed.]. For additional information, see the commentary to paragraph 149(1)(d.5).

Section 110.1 is also amended as a consequence of the addition of new subsections 248(30) to (38). Generally, those subsections clarify the circumstances under which a transfer of property will be considered a gift notwithstanding that the transferor may be entitled to receive an advantage or benefit in respect of the property. New subsection 248(31) generally provides that the "eligible amount" of the gift is the excess of the fair market value of a property transferred by way of gift over the value of the advantage or benefit, if any, to which the transferor is entitled. For additional information, see the commentary to new subsections 248(30) to (39).

Paragraphs 110.1(1)(a) to (d) provide, respectively, for the deduction by a corporation of amounts in respect of "charitable gifts", "gifts to Her Majesty", "gifts to institutions" and "ecological gifts". The amount deductible by the corporation is generally the fair market value of the gift. These paragraphs are amended, consequential to the addition of new subsection 248(31), to provide that the amount deductible by the corporation is generally the "eligible amount" of a gift.

In addition, paragraphs 110.1(1)(a) and 110.1(1)(d) are expanded to provide that a deduction is available in respect of gifts made by corporations to municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada.

Paragraph 110.1(1)(d) is also amended to clarify its application to "real servitudes" under the Civil Code of Quebec.

Proposed Amendment — 110.1(2) opening words

(2) Proof of gift — An eligible amount of a gift shall not be included for the purpose of determining a deduction under subsection (1) unless the making of the gift is evidenced by filing with the Minister

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 60(8), will amend the opening words of subsec. 110.1(2) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 110.1(2) provides that a corporation may not deduct an amount in respect of a gift unless the gift is evidenced by a receipt containing prescribed information. (a) a corporation makes a gift of

(i) capital property to a qualified donee, or to the effect that the property will be held for use in the public interest, and

(b) the fair market value of the property at that time exceeds its adjusted cost base to the corporation, such amount, not greater than the fair market value otherwise determined and not less than the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property at that time, as the corporation designates in its return of income under section 150 for the year in which the gift is made is, if the making of the gift is proven by filing with the Minister a receipt containing prescribed information, deemed to be its proceeds of disposition of the property and, for the purposes of subsection (1), the fair market value of the gift made by the corporation.

Proposed Amendment — 110.1(2.1), (3)

(2.1) Where subsec. (3) applies — Subsection (3) applies in circumstances where

(a) a corporation makes a gift at any time of

(i) capital property to a donee described in paragraph (1)(a), (b) or (d) [to be changed to "to a qualified donee", to match the 2011 Budget second bill amendment to 110.1(3) above — ed.], or

(ii) in the case of a corporation not resident in Canada, real or immovable property situated in Canada to a prescribed donee who provides an undertaking, in a form satisfactory to the Minister, to the effect that the property will be held for use in the public interest; and

(b) the fair market value of the property otherwise determined at that time exceeds

(i) in the case of depreciable property of a prescribed class, the lesser of the undepreciated capital cost of that class at the end of the taxation year of the corporation that includes that time (determined without reference to the proceeds of disposition designated in respect of the property under subsection (3)) and the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property immediately before that time, and

(ii) in any other case, the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 118.1(5.4) — Parallel rule for individuals; 248(35)–(39) — Value of gift limited to cost if acquired within 3 years or as tax shelter.

Regulations: 3504 (prescribed donee for 110.1(2.1)(a)(ii)).

(3) Gifts of capital property — If this subsection applies in respect of a gift by a corporation of property, and the corporation designates an amount in respect of the gift in its return of income under section 150 for the year in which the gift is made, the amount so designated is deemed to be its proceeds of disposition of the property and, for the purpose of subsection 248(31), the fair market value of the gift, but the amount so designated may not exceed the fair market value of the property otherwise determined and may not be less than the greater of

(a) in the case of a gift made after December 20, 2002, the amount of the advantage, if any, in respect of the gift, and

(b) the amount determined under subparagraph (2.1)(b)(i) or (ii), as the case may be, in respect of the property.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 60(9), will add subsec. 110.1(2.1) and amend subsec. (3) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after 1999 except that, for gifts made after 1999 and before December 21, 2002, the expression "subsection 248(31)" in subsec. 110.1(3) is to be read as "subsection (1)".

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 110.1(3) provides that, if a corporation donates capital property to a charity, it may designate a value between the adjusted cost base and the fair market value of the donated property to be treated both as the proceeds of disposition for the purpose of calculating its capital gain and the amount of the gift for the purpose of the deduction allowed for charitable donations under subsection 110.1(1).

Subsection 110.1(3) is restructured as new subsection 110.1(2.1) and revised subsection 110.1(3). New subsection 110.1(2.1) describes the circumstances under which amended subsection 110.1(3), which remains generally unchanged, will apply. However, where the property is depreciable property, subsection 110.1(2.1) includes those situations where the actual value of the gifted property is between the undepreciated capital cost of that class at the end of the taxation year of the corporation and the fair market value of the donated property.

Amended subsection 110.1(3) provides for the amount that may be designated by the corporation. As with the former provision, the amount designated is considered to be the corporation's proceeds of disposition of the gift. The subsection also continues to provide that the amount designated is treated as the fair market value of the property transferred by way of gift. However, under the amended version, this is for the purpose of new subsection 248(31) of the Act instead of for subsection 110.1(1). New subsection 248(31) generally provides that the "eligible amount" of a gift is the excess of the fair market value of a property transferred by way of gift over the value of the advantage or benefit, if any, to which the transferor is entitled. The "eligible amount" is relevant to the determination of the amount deductible under subsection 110.1(1) by the corporation.

Finally, amended subsection 110.1(3) allows a corporation to reduce the amount of recaptured depreciation that might otherwise be calculated in respect of a gift of depreciable property, with a corresponding reduction to the eligible amount deductible under subsection 110.1(1) in respect of the gift. However, the designated amount may not be lower than the amount of any actual proceeds of disposition in respect of the property (or, more specifically, the amount of the advantage in respect of the gift, as defined in new subsection 248(32)).

In particular, the amount designated by the corporation in respect of the property transferred may not exceed the fair market value of the property otherwise determined, and may not be less than the greater of

- the amount of the advantage, if any, in respect of the gift, and
- the adjusted cost base of the property or, if the property is depreciable property of the corporation, the undepreciated capital cost of the class of the property at the end of the corporation's taxation year (determined without reference to the proceeds of disposition designated in respect of the property).

See also the example in the commentary to subsections 118.1(5.4) and (6) of the Act, which apply similarly to individuals as do subsections 110.1(2.1) and (3) to corporations.

110.2 [Lump-sum averaging] — (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section and section 120.31.

"eligible taxation year", in respect of a qualifying amount received by an individual, means a taxation year

(a) that ended after 1977 and before the year in which the individual received the qualifying amount;

(b) throughout which the individual was resident in Canada;

(c) that did not end in a calendar year in which the individual became a bankrupt; and

(d) that was not included in an averaging period, within the meaning assigned by section 119 (as it read in its application to the 1987 taxation year), pursuant to an election that was made and not revoked by the individual under that section.

"qualifying amount" received by an individual in a taxation year means an amount (other than the portion of the amount that can reasonably be considered to be received as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, interest) that is included in computing the individual's income for the year and is

(a) an amount

(i) that is received pursuant to an order or judgment of a competent tribunal, an arbitration award or a contract by which the payor and the individual terminate a legal proceeding, and

(ii) that is

(A) included in computing the individual's income from an office or employment, or

(B) received as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, damages in respect of the individual's loss of an office or employment,

(b) a superannuation or pension benefit (other than a benefit referred to in clause 56(1)(a)(i)(B)) received on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, a series of periodic payments (other than payments that would have otherwise been made in the year or in a subsequent taxation year),

(c) an amount described in paragraph 6(1)(f), subparagraph 56(1)(a)(iv) or paragraph 56(1)(b), or

Proposed Amendment — 110.2(1)"qualifying amount"(c)

(c) an amount described in paragraphs 6(1)(f) or (f.1), subparagraph 56(1)(a)(iv) or paragraph 56(1)(b), or

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, s. 20, will amend para. (c) of the definition "qualifying amount" in subsec. 110.2(1) to read as above, deemed to have come into force on April 1, 2006.

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.2(1) defines the terms used for the purpose of calculating the lump-sum deduction in subsection 110.2(2). If a taxpayer claims a lump-sum deduction in respect of a qualifying amount, that amount is subject to a special tax that is meant approximate the tax and interest that would result if the recipient's income tax return for a prior taxation year were adjusted to include the amount.

In general, a "qualifying amount" is a specific type of lump-sum payment, received in a year but relating to a preceding year, the principal portion of which must be included in income. It can include, for example, certain employment insurance benefits. This definition is amended to add income replacement benefits of Canadian Forces members and veterans, as described in paragraph 6(1)(f.1).

(d) a prescribed amount or benefit, except to the extent that the individual may deduct for the year an amount under paragraph 8(1)(b), (n) or (n.1), 60(n) or (o.1) or 110(1)(f) in respect of the amount so included.

"specified portion", in relation to an eligible taxation year, of a qualifying amount received by an individual means the portion of the qualifying amount that relates to the year, to the extent that the individual's eligibility to receive the portion existed in the year.

Related Provisions: 120.31(1) — Definitions apply to 120.31.

(2) Deduction for lump-sum payments — There may be deducted in computing the taxable income of an individual (other than a trust) for a particular taxation year the total of all amounts each of which is a specified portion of a qualifying amount received by the individual in the particular year, if that total is $3,000 or more.

Related Provisions: 120.31 — Tax payable for other years.

History: S. 110.2 added by 2000, c. 19, s. 17, applicable to amounts received by an individual after 1994 (other than an amount in respect of which tax has been remitted to the individual under subsec. 23(2) of the Financial Administration Act) and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5) of the Income Tax Act, any assessment of the individual's tax payable under that Act for any taxation year that ended before 1999 shall be made as is necessary to take into account the application of s. 110.2.

Proposed Amendment — 110.6(1)"qualified farm property"(a) opening words

Application: The November 5, 2010 draft legislation (misc. technical), subsec. 17(1), will amend the opening words of para. (a) of the definition "qualified farm property" in subsec. 110.6(1) to delete the word "principally", applicable to dispositions of property that occur after May 1, 2006.

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.6(2) provides to individuals an exemption of up to $750,000 for capital gains realized on the disposition of "qualified farm property". Qualified farm property generally includes real property owned by an individual, the individual's spouse or a family farm partnership in which the individual or spouse has an interest. In general, in order to qualify, paragraph (a) of that definition requires that the property have been used principally in a farming business operated by the individual, the individual's spouse or any of their children (including, in general terms, when such business is operated through a family farm corporation or partnership or a personal trust).

Paragraph (a) of that definition is amended to remove the word "principally".

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 20, 2008: Mr. L. Dean Gallimore, KPMG LLP

Dear Mr. Gallimore:

I am writing in response to your letter of December 20, 2007 in which you identified an issue with respect to a change in the application of the definition of "qualified farm property" in subsection 110.6(1) of the Income Tax Act (Act). In your letter you noted that the addition of the word "principally" in paragraph (a) of the definition of "qualified farm property" may result in an overly restrictive interpretation of the definition of "qualified farm property" under the Act.

We agree with your concern that the new definition of "qualified farm property" in subsection 110.6(1) of the Act may be overly restrictive with regard to the circumstances under which property will meet the definition of "qualified farm property" under the Act. As such, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister that paragraph (a) of the definition of "qualified farm property" in subsection 110.6(1) of the Act be amended to remove the word "principally". If our recommendation is acted upon, we anticipate that the amendments would be included in a future technical bill and would apply with respect to taxation years that end on or after May 6, 2006. While I cannot offer any assurance that the Minister will agree with our recommendation, I hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful to you.

Yours sincerely,

Gerard Lalonde, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.6(2.2) provides to individuals an exemption of up to $750,000 for capital gains realized on the disposition of "qualified fishing property". Application: The November 5, 2010 draft legislation (misc. technical), subsecs. 17(3) and (4), will amend subsec. 110.6(1.3) to read as above by replacing paras. (a) and (b) with para. (a), and renumbering para. (c) as (b), applicable to dispositions of property that occur after November 5, 2010.

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.6(1.3) provides that, for the purposes of the definition of "qualified farm property" in subsection 110.6(1), a property will not be considered to have been used in the course of carrying on the business of farming in Canada except in certain circumstances.

In this regard, existing paragraphs 110.6(1.3)(a) and (b) describe conditions of ownership for property that was acquired, generally, after June 17, 1987 and not acquired under an agreement in writing entered into before June 18, 1987. These paragraphs are amended to combine them as new paragraph (a), clarifying that the conditions in both of new paragraphs 110.6(1.3)(a)(i) and (ii) must be met in order for the property to be considered to be used in the business of farming in Canada.

Subsection 110.6(1.3) is also consequentially amended by renumbering paragraph (c) as paragraph (b).

Proposed Amendment — 110.6(6) opening words

(6) Failure to report capital gain — Notwithstanding subsections (2) to (2.3), no amount may be deducted under this section in respect of a capital gain of an individual for a particular taxation year in computing the individual's taxable income for the particular taxation year or any subsequent year, if

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 21(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 110.6(6) to read as above, applicable to taxation years for which a return of income has not been filed before October 31, 2011 except in respect of gains realized in taxation years for which a return of income was filed before October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.6(6) denies a capital gains exemption for certain unreported gains, notwithstanding the amount that could otherwise be claimed as a capital gains exemption under subsections 110.6(2) to (2.3). Subsection 110.6(6) applies where an individual has realized a capital gain on a disposition of capital property in a taxation year and knowingly or under circumstances amounting to gross negligence fails to report the disposition in their return of income for that taxation year or fails to file a return for that taxation year within one year following the taxpayer's filing-due-date for the taxation year and the Minister of National Revenue establishes the facts justifying the denial.

In May 2006, amendments to this provision inadvertently removed the words "or any subsequent taxation year". Subsection 110.6(6) is amended to return the provision to its original wording to clarify that a failure to report a capital gain in a taxation year will result in a denial of the lifetime capital gains exemption against that gain in any subsequent taxation year. This could apply, for example, if a taxpayer were, after initially failing to report any capital gain in the year of a disposition of a capital property, to claim a reserve in respect of the capital gain for the year of disposition, such that a portion of the capital gain would instead be reported in a subsequent year. The amendment ensures that a claim for a capital gains exemption in the subsequent year will not be available.

(a) the individual knowingly or under circumstances amounting to gross negligence

(i) fails to file the individual's return of income for the particular taxation year within one year after the taxpayer's filing-due date for the particular taxation year, or

(ii) fails to report the capital gain in the individual's return of income for the particular taxation year; and

(b) the Minister establishes the facts justifying the denial of such an amount under this section.

History: Opening words of subsec. 110.6(6) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 31(5), to substitute "(2) to (2.3)" for "(2), (2.1) and (2.2)", applicable to taxation years that end after March 18, 2007.

Subsec. 110.6(6) amended by 2007, c. 2, subsec. 17(10), applicable to taxation years that end after May 1, 2006. It formerly read:

(6) Notwithstanding subsections (2) and (2.1), where an individual has a capital gain for a taxation year from the disposition of a capital property and knowingly or under circumstances amounting to gross negligence

(a) fails to file a return of the individual's income for the year within one year after the day on or before which the individual is required to file a return of the individual's income for the year pursuant to section 150, or

(b) fails to report the capital gain in the individual's return of income for the year required to be filed pursuant to section 150,

no amount may be deducted under this section in respect of the capital gain in computing the individual's taxable income for that or any subsequent taxation year and the burden of establishing the facts justifying the denial of such an amount under this section is on the Minister.

(7) Deduction not permitted — Notwithstanding subsections (2) to (2.3), no amount may be deducted under this section in computing an individual's taxable income for a taxation year in respect of a capital gain of the individual for the taxation year if the capital gain is from a disposition of property which disposition is part of a series of transactions or events

(a) there was no delay or postponement of the payment of dividends and no failure to pay dividends in respect of the share;

(b) there was no variation from year to year in the amount of dividends payable in respect of the share (other than where the amount of dividends payable is expressed as an invariant percentage of or by reference to an invariant difference between the dividend expressed as a rate of interest and a generally quoted market interest rate); and

Technical Notes: Subsection 110.6(12) allows trusts described in paragraph 104(4)(a) or (a.1) to take advantage of any unused capital gains exemption of the trust's spouse beneficiary after that person dies. To avoid administrative complexity, this advantage is not extended to pre-1972 spousal trusts described in paragraph 104(4)(a.1) that have made an election under subsection 104(5.3).

Subsection 110.6(12) is amended by removing the reference to subsection 104(5.3), which is repealed for taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011. For further information, see the commentary on subsection 104(5.3).

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), s. 61, will add para. 110.6(14)(d.1), applicable to dispositions that occur after December 20, 2002; and to dispositions made by a taxpayer after 1999, if the taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year in which this draft legislation is assented to.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 110.6(14) provides certain rules that apply for the purposes of the definition "qualified small business corporation share" in subsection 110.6(1) and the capital gains exemption in respect of such shares. This subsection is amended to add new paragraph 110.6(14)(d.1).

New paragraph 110.6(14)(d.1) deems a person who is a member of a partnership that is a member of another partnership (a lower-tiered partnership) to be a member of the lower-tiered partnership. This amendment will permit such a taxpayer to have access to the deduction for taxable capital gains arising on the disposition of a qualified small business corporation share by the lower-tiered partnership.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Aug. 17, 2001:

Monsieur,

La présente fait suite à votre lettre du 18 janvier 2001 relativement à la déduction pour gains en capital pour les actions admissibles de petite entreprise.

Les commentaires que vous avez formulés soulignent le caractère restrictif de l'alinéa 110.6(14)(d) de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu (LIR). Présentement la LIR stipule qu'une société de personnes est réputée liée à une personne pendant chaque période tout au long de laquelle cette personne est une associé de la société de personnes. Elle ne permet donc pas à un particulier qui est l'associé d'une société de personnes, qui elle-même est l'associée d'une autre société de personnes qui dispose d'actions admissibles de petite entreprise, de bénéficier de la déduction pour gain en capital prévue au paragraphe 110.6(2.1) de la LIR puisque cet associé n'est pas réputé lié à cette dernière.

La politique fiscale qui sous-tend cette mesure m'amène toutefois à considérer que la déduction pour gains en capital pour les actions admissibles de petite entreprise ne devrait pas être refusée dans le cas susmentionné. Par conséquent, je suis disposé à recommander que la LIR soit modifiée en ce sens.

Veuillez agréer, Monsieur, l'expression de mes sentiments les meilleurs.

(1.1) [Adjustments to] Net capital losses — Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(b), the amount that may be deducted under that paragraph in computing a taxpayer's taxable income for a particular taxation year is the total of

(a) the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, determined under paragraph 3(b) in respect of the taxpayer for the particular year, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount claimed under paragraph (1)(b) for the particular year by the taxpayer in respect of a net capital loss for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "loss year"),

B is the fraction that would be used for the particular year under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer if the taxpayer had a capital loss for the particular year, and

C is the fraction required to be used under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer for the loss year; and

(b) where the taxpayer is an individual, the least of

(i) $2,000,

(ii) the taxpayer's pre-1986 capital loss balance for the particular year, and

(iii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount claimed under paragraph (1)(b) in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses for the particular year

exceeds

(B) the total of the amounts in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses that, using the formula in subparagraph (a)(ii), would be required to be claimed under paragraph (1)(b) for the particular year to produce the amount determined under paragraph (a) for the particular year.

Proposed Addition — 111(1.1)(c)

(c) the amount, if any, that the Minister determines to be reasonable in the circumstances, after considering the application of subsections 104(21.6), 130.1(4), 131(1) and 138.1(3.2) to the taxpayer for the particular year.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 62(1), will add para. 111(1.1)(c), applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 111(1.1) determines the amount that a taxpayer may deduct in respect of a net capital loss claimed under paragraph 111(1)(b). The 2000 Budget and the 2000 Economic Statement provided for the reduction of the capital gains inclusion rate from ¾ to ⅔ and then to ½, respectively. This reduction in the inclusion rate gave rise to changes to the adjusting factors in subsection 111(1.1). An additional amendment is made to subsection 111(1.1) to permit the Minister of National Revenue to determine a reasonable amount of deduction in respect of net capital loss carryovers where the other rules in that subsection produce inappropriate results.

Proposed Amendment — 111(1.1)(c)

(c) the amount, if any, that the Minister determines to be reasonable in the circumstances for the particular year and after considering the application to the taxpayer of subsections 104(21.6), 130.1(4), 131(1) and 138.1(3.2) as they read in their application to the taxpayer's last taxation year that began on or before October 31, 2011.

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 22(1), will amend para 111(1.1)(c) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subsection 111(1.1) determines the amount that a taxpayer may deduct in respect of a net capital loss claimed under paragraph 111(1)(b). The amount that may be deducted under paragraph 111(1)(b) in respect of net capital losses will differ from the amount claimed under paragraph 111(1)(b) where the inclusion rate for capital gains and losses for the year in which the loss was realized differs from the inclusion rate for the year in which the loss is deducted against taxable capital gains.

Paragraph 111(1.1)(c) provides the Minister of National Revenue the discretion to determine the appropriate deduction where the formula in paragraph 111(1.1)(a) provides an inappropriate result because of the application of one or more of subsections 104(21.6), 130.1(4), 131(1) or 138.1(3.2) to a particular taxpayer. Consequential on the proposed repeal of subsections 104(21.6) and 138.1(3.2) and proposed amendments to subsections 130.1(4) and 131(1), subsection 111(1.1)(c) is amended to refer to those provisions as they applied to the taxpayer's last taxation year that began on or before October 31, 2011.

Related Provisions: 111(2) — Year of death. See also at end of s. 111.

History: Subsec. 111(1.1) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 83(1), applicable to the computation of taxable income for 1985 et seq. Subsec. 111(1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(b), where a taxpayer has claimed an amount under that paragraph for a particular taxation year in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses, the amount that may be deducted under that paragraph in respect of those losses for that year is the lesser of

(a) the total of

(i) the amount, if any, determined under paragraph 3(b) in respect of the taxpayer for the particular year, and

(ii) where the taxpayer is an individual, the lesser of

(A) $2,000, and

(B) the taxpayer's pre-1986 capital loss balance for the particular year; and

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of a net capital loss for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as a "loss year") claimed under paragraph (1)(b),

B is the fraction that would be used for the particular year under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer if the taxpayer had a capital loss for that year, and

C is the fraction required to be used under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer for the loss year.

(2) Year of death — Where a taxpayer dies in a taxation year, for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's taxable income for that year and the immediately preceding taxation year, the following rules apply:

(a) paragraph (1)(b) shall be read as follows:

"(b) the taxpayer's net capital losses for all taxation years not claimed for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's taxable income for any other taxation year;"; and

(b) paragraph (1.1)(b) shall be read as follows:

"(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount claimed under paragraph (1)(b) in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses for the particular year

exceeds the total of

(ii) all amounts in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses that, using the formula in subparagraph (a)(ii), would be required to be claimed under paragraph (1)(b) for the particular year to produce the amount determined under paragraph (a) for the particular year, and

(iii) all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under section 110.6 in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for a taxation year, except to the extent that, where the particular year is the year in which the taxpayer died, the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of the taxpayer for the immediately preceding taxation year exceeds the amount so determined under subparagraph (ii)."

History: Subsec. 111(2) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 83(1), applicable to the computation of taxable income for 1985 et seq. Subsec. 111(2) formerly read:

(2) Where a taxpayer dies in a taxation year, for the purposes of computing the taxpayer's taxable income for that year and the immediately preceding taxation year, subsection (1.1) shall be read as follows:

"(1.1) Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(b), where a taxpayer has claimed an amount under that paragraph for a particular year in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses, the amount that may be deducted under that paragraph in respect of those losses (to the extent they are not deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for any other taxation year) for that year is the total of

(a) an amount not exceeding the amount, if any, determined under paragraph 3(b) in respect of the taxpayer for the particular year, equal to the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the net capital losses for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as a "loss year") claimed under paragraph (1)(b),

B is the fraction that would be used for the particular year under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer if the taxpayer had a capital loss for that year, and

C is the fraction required to be used under section 38 in respect of the taxpayer for the loss year; and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount of the taxpayer's net capital losses claimed under paragraph (1)(b) for the particular year

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount of the taxpayer's net capital losses claimed under paragraph (1)(b) that was determined under paragraph (a) for the particular year, and

(iii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted by the taxpayer under section 110.6 in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for a taxation year."

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-232R3: Losses — their deductibility in the loss year or in other years. See also at end of s. 111.

(3) Limitation on deductibility — For the purposes of subsection (1),

(a) an amount in respect of a non-capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year is deductible, and an amount in respect of a net capital loss for a taxation year may be claimed, in computing the taxable income of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year only to the extent that it exceeds the total of

(i) amounts deducted under this section in respect of that non-capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss in computing taxable income for taxation years preceding the particular taxation year,

(i.1) the amount that was claimed under paragraph (1)(b) in respect of that net capital loss for taxation years preceding the particular taxation year, and

(ii) amounts claimed in respect of that loss under paragraph 186(1)(c) for the year in which the loss was incurred or under paragraph 186(1)(d) for the particular taxation year and taxation years preceding the particular taxation year, and

(b) no amount is deductible in respect of a non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year until

(i) in the case of a non-capital loss, the deductible non-capital losses,

(ii) in the case of a net capital loss, the deductible net capital losses,

(iii) in the case of a restricted farm loss, the deductible restricted farm losses,

(iv) in the case of a farm loss, the deductible farm losses, and

(v) in the case of a limited partnership loss, the deductible limited partnership losses, for preceding taxation years have been deducted.

(a) an amount in respect of a non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year is deductible by a taxpayer in computing taxable income for a particular taxation year only to the extent that it exceeds the total of

(4) Acquisition of control [capital losses] — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where, at any time (in this subsection referred to as "that time"), control of a corporation has been acquired by a person or group of persons

(a) no amount in respect of a net capital loss for a taxation year ending before that time is deductible in computing the corporation's taxable income for a taxation year ending after that time, and

(b) no amount in respect of a net capital loss for a taxation year ending after that time is deductible in computing the corporation's taxable income for a taxation year ending before that time, and where, at that time, the corporation neither became nor ceased to be exempt from tax under this Part on its taxable income,

(c) in computing the adjusted cost base to the corporation at and after that time of each capital property, other than a depreciable property, owned by the corporation immediately before that time, there shall be deducted the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to the corporation of the property immediately before that time exceeds its fair market value immediately before that time, and shall be deemed to have been reacquired by it at that time at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition thereof, except that, where the property is depreciable property of the corporation the capital cost of which to the corporation immediately before the disposition time exceeds those proceeds of disposition, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a),

(iii) the capital cost of the property to the corporation at that time shall be deemed to be the amount that was its capital cost immediately before the disposition, and

(iv) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the corporation in respect of the property under regulations made for the purpose of paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing its income for taxation years ending before that time, and

(f) each amount that by virtue of paragraph (d) or (e) is a capital loss or gain of the corporation from a disposition of a property for the taxation year that ended immediately before that time shall, for the purposes of the definition "capital dividend account" in subsection 89(1), be deemed to be a capital loss or gain, as the case may be, of the corporation from the disposition of the property immediately before the time that a capital property of the corporation in respect of which paragraph (e) would be applicable would be deemed by that paragraph to have been disposed of by the corporation.

Possible Future Amendment — Corporate loss consolidations

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, March 29, 2012: Chapter 3.2: Taxation of Corporate Groups

> Economic Action Plan 2012 reaffirms the Government's commitment to continue exploring whether new rules for the taxation of corporate groups could improve the functioning of the corporate tax system.

Budget 2010 announced that the Government would explore whether new rules for the taxation of corporate groups — such as the introduction of a formal system of loss transfers or consolidated reporting — could improve the functioning of the corporate tax system. Public consultations held between November 2010 and April 2011 provided important feedback from stakeholders that will be helpful going forward. Discussions with stakeholders, including the provinces and territories, are ongoing.

As a new system for the taxation of corporate groups would constitute a fundamental change to the Canadian corporate tax system, the Government will be taking into account the potential effects on taxpayers and the complexity of the tax system, any potential revenue impacts for federal, provincial and territorial governments, and the impact that a new system of group taxation could have on federal-provincial and federal-territorial tax arrangements.

If as a result of this exercise a new system of group taxation should be proposed, stakeholders will be consulted again on the specific design of the new system.

Dept. of Finance news release 2010-112, November 23, 2010: Minister of Finance Announces Public Consultations on the Taxation of Corporate Groups

The Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, today launched public consultations on the taxation of corporate groups to explore whether changes to the tax system can be made to improve its efficiency and to support economic growth.

"Our Government has already taken significant steps to enhance the competitiveness of the tax system for Canadian businesses," said Minister Flaherty. "We are committed to continuing on this track, including by examining whether structural changes could improve the functioning of the tax system."

The Government has heard various concerns from the business community and the provinces regarding the current approach to utilizing tax losses within corporate groups. The consultations will allow for further exploration of potential changes, such as a more formalized system of loss transfers or some form of consolidated reporting.

To help guide the consultations, the Government is releasing a paper entitled The Taxation of Corporate Groups [37 pp — ed.]. A new system for the taxation of corporate groups would constitute a fundamental change to the Canadian corporate tax system. The paper highlights important issues where stakeholder feedback will be helpful in determining what type of group taxation system the Government should consider.

Minister Flaherty also highlighted that the federal government is consulting with the provinces on the taxation of corporate groups. He noted that the Government will carefully consider any potential revenue impacts for both the federal and provincial governments, and the impact that a new system of group taxation could have on federal-provincial tax arrangements.

The purpose of the consultations is to get the views of all stakeholders on a wide range of considerations and possible approaches for a new system of group taxation. As it may be challenging to satisfy the interests of both levels of government and the business community, stakeholders are encouraged to recognize competing interests and provide input about their most important priorities.

If as a result of this consultation exercise a new system of group taxation should be proposed, stakeholders will be consulted again on the specific design of the new system.

The Government invites comments from stakeholders on any element of the paper by February 25, 2011. Detailed instructions on making a submission can be found at fin.gc.ca/activty/consult/tcc-igs-eng.asp.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, March 4, 2010: Taxation of Corporate Groups

Over the last several years, the Government has taken significant steps to improve the competitiveness of the tax system for Canadian businesses, and followed through on Advantage Canada commitments to reduce taxes on business investment. However, there are still specific structural elements of the tax system where it may be possible to make improvements. For example, the Government has heard various concerns from the business community and from the provinces regarding the utilization of tax losses within corporate groups. Going forward, the Government will explore whether new rules for the taxation of corporate groups — such as the introduction of a formal system of loss transfers or consolidated reporting — could improve the functioning of the tax system. Stakeholder views will be sought prior to the introduction of any changes.

Ontario Budget, March 25, 2010: Taxation of Corporate Groups

The 2009 Budget presented a plan to modernize Ontario's tax system that will significantly improve Ontario's competitiveness for new business investment. The implementation of a single corporate tax administration has also streamlined the cost of doing business in Ontario. The McGuinty government continues to look for ways to improve the tax system and strengthen the long-term competitiveness of Ontario's economy.

In its 2010 budget, the federal government made a commitment to explore new rules for the taxation of corporate groups, such as consolidated reporting. Ontario welcomes this review and the federal government's acknowledgment of concerns raised by provincial governments regarding the utilization of tax losses within corporate groups. Ontario looks forward to working collaboratively with the federal government to explore options to address the impact these transactions have on provincial tax and interprovincial income allocation.

In advance of any formal changes to the tax system, Ontario calls on the federal government, in administering Ontario's corporate taxes, to ensure that tax losses are utilized by a corporation in the province where the loss takes place. This will ensure losses are treated in a fair and reasonable manner and do not distort the principles of interprovincial income allocation. Ontario will consider taking action, where appropriate and within its administrative purview, to ensure these principles are upheld

113. (1) Deduction in respect of dividend received from foreign affiliate — Where in a taxation year a corporation resident in Canada has received a dividend on a share owned by it of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation, there may be deducted from the income for the year of the corporation for the purpose of computing its taxable income for the year, an amount equal to the total of

(a) an amount equal to such portion of the dividend as is prescribed to have been paid out of the exempt surplus, as defined by regulation (in this Part referred to as "exempt surplus") of the affiliate,

Proposed Addition — 113(1)(a.1)

(a.1) an amount equal to the total of

(i) one-half of such portion of the dividend as is prescribed to have been paid out of the hybrid surplus, as defined by regulation (in this Part referred to as "hybrid surplus"), of the affiliate, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total of

(I) the product obtained when the foreign tax prescribed to be applicable to the portion of the dividend referred to in subparagraph (i) is multiplied by the amount by which

1. the corporation's relevant tax factor for the year

exceeds

2. one-half, and

(II) the product obtained when

1. the non-business-income tax paid by the corporation applicable to the portion of the dividend referred to in subparagraph (i) is multiplied by

2. the corporation's relevant tax factor for the year, and

(B) the amount determined under subparagraph (i);

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 17(1), will add para. 113(1)(a.1), applicable in respect of dividends received after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 113(1) permits a corporation resident in Canada to deduct specified amounts in respect of dividends received from a foreign affiliate out of the exempt, taxable and pre-acquisition surpluses of the foreign affiliate. The amounts so deductible are determined largely with reference to Part LIX of the Regulations.

Subsection 113(1) is being amended consequential to the introduction of the new "hybrid surplus" concept discussed in the overview section of these notes. New paragraph 113(1)(a.1) allows a corporation to deduct one-half of any dividends paid out of hybrid surplus plus an additional amount in respect of "hybrid underlying tax" and withholding tax. The mechanics for the additional deduction are similar to those for taxable surplus, with one important difference: the gross-up for underlying tax is based on the relevant tax factor minus one-half.

New paragraph 113(1)(a.1) applies to dividends received after August 19, 2011.

Example

Assumptions

1. Canco, a corporation resident in Canada, owns 100% of the shares of FA1, a non-resident corporation. Canco's adjusted cost base ("ACB") in the FA1 shares is nominal. Canco has owned these shares since FA1 was incorporated.

2. FA1 owns, and has always owned, 100% of the shares of FA2, also a non-resident corporation. FA1's ACB of the FA2 shares is $1,000 and the shares have a fair market value of $1,500.

3. On June 30, 2012, FA1 sells all of the shares of FA2 to Canco for cash proceeds of $1,500.

4. The shares of FA2 are excluded property, as defined in subsection 95(1), at the time of their sale to Canco.

5. FA1's capital gain of $500 is subject to foreign income tax of $50.

6. On July 1, 2012, FA1 pays a cash dividend of $450 to Canco. No foreign withholding tax is levied in respect of the dividend.

7. Immediately prior to the sale of the FA2 shares by FA1 to Canco, neither FA1 nor FA2 had any surplus or deficit balances in respect of Canco.

8. Canco's tax rate for its 2012 taxation year is 25%.

Analysis

Since no portion of FA1's capital gain on the disposition of the FA2 shares is included in FAPI (because the shares are excluded property), FA1's capital gain of $500 is included in its hybrid surplus at the time of the disposition. In addition, the $50 of foreign income tax paid by FA1 is included in FA1's hybrid underlying tax and reduces FA1's hybrid surplus.

The $450 dividend paid by FA1 on July 1, 2012 is deemed to be paid out of FA1's hybrid surplus. As such, Canco will entitled to the following deductions under paragraph 113(1)(a.1):

50% × $450			$225
113(1)(a.1)(ii)
The lesser of:	(A) $50 × 3.5 [being (1/0.25) – 0.5]; and	$175
	(B) the amount determined in (a.1)(i)	225	$175
Total paragraph 113(1)(a.1) deductions			$400

It is notable that if the $500 gain in this example had been subject to the pre-August 19, 2011 regime whereby 50% of the capital gain would be included in FA1's exempt surplus and 50% in taxable surplus (with the $50 included in FA1's underlying foreign tax and reducing taxable surplus), the subsection 113(1) deductions in respect of a total distribution by FA1 of the resulting exempt and taxable surplus balances would also aggregate $400, as follows:

113(1)(a)			$250
113(1)(b)
The lesser of:	(i) $50 × 3 [being (1/0.25) – 1]; and	$150
	(ii) the taxable surplus dividend	200	$150
Total subsection 113(1) deductions			$400

It is also noteworthy that, under the hybrid surplus regime, if the foreign tax rate in respect of the capital gain had been one-half of the 25% Canadian tax rate, i.e. equal to the Canadian capital gains rate, such that hybrid underlying tax would be $500 × 12.5% = $62.50 and hybrid surplus would be $500 – $62.50 = $437.50, the relevant numbers would be as follows:

113(1)(a.1)(i)
50% × $437.50			$218.75
113(1)(a.1)(ii)
The lesser of:	(A) $62.50 × 3.5 [being (1/0.25) – 0.5]; and	$218.75
	(B) the amount determined in (a.1)(i)	218.75	$218.75
Total paragraph 113(1)(a.1) deductions			$437.50

The result in such a case is a full deduction for the hybrid surplus dividend.

(b) an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the product obtained when the foreign tax prescribed to be applicable to such portion of the dividend as is prescribed to have been paid out of the taxable surplus, as defined by regulation (in this Part referred to as "taxable surplus") of the affiliate is multiplied by the amount by which

Proposed Amendment — 113(1)(b)(i)(A)

(A) the corporation's relevant tax factor for the year

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 63(1), will amend cl. 113(1)(b)(i)(A) to read as above, applicable after 2000.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 113(1) permits a resident corporation to deduct specified amounts in respect of dividends received from a foreign affiliate out of the exempt, taxable and pre-acquisition surplus of the foreign affiliate. The amounts so deductible are determined largely with reference to Part LIX of the Income Tax Regulations. The deductions under paragraphs 113(1)(b) and (c) with regard to dividends out of taxable surplus are also determined with reference to the resident corporation's "relevant tax factor".

Subsection 113(1) is amended, in two places, to explicitly link the "relevant tax factor" to the resident corporation receiving the dividends and the taxation year in which the dividends are received. By virtue of subsection 113(3), the meaning of "relevant tax factor" is derived from the definition of that expression in subsection 95(1).

Technical Notes (July 2010): See under 113(1)(b)(i)(A) above.

(ii) the amount by which such portion of the dividend as is prescribed to have been paid out of the taxable surplus of the affiliate exceeds the deduction in respect thereof referred to in paragraph (b); and

(d) an amount equal to such portion of the dividend as is prescribed to have been paid out of the pre-acquisition surplus of the affiliate,

Application: The August 19, 2011 draft legislation (foreign affiliates), subsec. 17(2), will amend subpara. 113(2)(b)(iii.1) to read as above, applicable after August 19, 2011.

See also Application under s. 90 re extended reassessment deadline.

Technical Notes: Subsection 113(2) is a transitional provision that essentially permits a corporation resident in Canada that owned shares of a foreign affiliate at the end of the corporation's 1975 taxation year to have certain dividends reduce the adjusted cost base ("ACB") of the shares rather than be included in taxable income. Subsection 113(2) provides for the deduction from taxable income, and subsection 92(3) provides for the ACB reduction.

Subparagraph 113(2)(b)(iii.1), which reduces the amount otherwise allowable under subsection 113(2) by any paid-up capital reductions received before the relevant time, is being amended as a consequence of the new treatment of distributions from a foreign affiliate, as discussed above under the commentary to paragraph 53(2)(b) and subsections 90(2) and (3).

"promoter" of a corporation, trust or partnership means a particular person or partnership that initiates or directs the founding, organization or substantial reorganization of the corporation, trust or partnership, and a person or partnership that is affiliated with the particular person or partnership.

History: The definition "promoter" in subsec. 115.2(1) amended by 2002, c. 9, subsec. 35(2), applicable to 2002 et seq. The definition formerly read:

(2) Not carrying on business in Canada — For the purposes of subsections 115(1) and 150(1) and Part XIV, a non-resident person is not considered to be carrying on business in Canada at any particular time solely because of the provision to the person, or to a partnership of which the person is a member, at the particular time of designated investment services by a Canadian service provider if

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 23(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 115.2(2) to read as above, applicable to 1999 et seq.

Technical Notes: Section 115.2 is an interpretive rule that ensures that, provided certain conditions are met, a qualified non-resident is not considered to be carrying on business in Canada solely because of the provision to the non-resident of designated investment services by a Canadian service provider. Subsection 115.2(2) outlines the qualifying conditions and sets out the relevant applications of this interpretive rule. The rule currently applies for the purposes of subsection 115(1) and Part XIV branch tax.

Subsection 115.2(2) is amended to apply the interpretative rule, in addition to subsection 115(1) and Part XIV, for the purposes of subsection 150(1). If a non-resident benefits from section 115.2, the non-resident is considered not to be carrying on business in Canada for the purposes of subsection 150(1).

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Nov. 26, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing further to your letter of August 20, 2002 and your discussions with Ryan Hall, of this Division, concerning section 115.2 of the Income Tax Act. In particular, you ask that the section, which currently applies only for the purposes of subsection 115(1) and Part XIV of the Act, be broadened to apply also for the purposes of the corporate filing requirements under section 150 of the Act.

As you know, section 115.2 is an interpretive rule which ensures that, provided certain conditions are met, the receipt of Canadian investment management services does not by itself cause a non-resident person to be considered to be carrying on business in Canada. (However, it should be noted that the section does not protect from Canadian taxation non-residents who for other reasons would be considered to be earning income from carrying on business in Canada.)

You explain that a non-resident corporation that is entitled to benefit from the protection of section 115.2 may in some cases be required to file a return in Canada solely because of the provision of designated investment services to the non-resident by a Canadian investment manager. Technical Interpretation 2001-0089875, a copy of which you attached to your letter and to which you refer, makes it clear that section 253 will deem a non-resident to be carrying on business in Canada if, for example, the non-resident carries on business outside Canada and receives designated investment services from a Canadian investment manager. Unlike section 115.2, section 253 applies for the purposes of the Act, and, as a result, the non-resident in the example would be required to file a return in Canada under section 150, which requires corporations to file returns if at any time in the year they carry on business in Canada.

You suggest that the filing requirement deters non-resident investment, and that this result is inconsistent with the policy behind section 115.2. While we are not in a position to judge its effect on non-resident investors, we recognize that the requirement adds another step and cost to non-residents who wish to invest through a Canadian investment manager. It is worth noting that the requirement to file under section 150 does not necessarily mean that a corporation entitled to benefit from the protection of section 115.2 will be taxed as if it were carrying on business in Canada. Rather, the corporation is being treated for filing purposes as if it were carrying on business in Canada. That said, expanding the application of section 115.2 to apply for the purposes of section 150 would appear to be consistent with the general policy intent of the section 115.2: to ensure that the use of a Canadian investment manager does not, by itself, cause non-residents to be treated as though they are carrying on business in Canada.

We are therefore prepared to recommend amendments to the Act along the foregoing lines. As you suggest, we will recommend that these amendments be made effective as of the original effective date of section 115.2, namely for taxation years that end after 1998.

Of course, we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendations that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(a) in the case of services provided to a non-resident individual other than a trust, the individual is not affiliated at the particular time with the Canadian service provider;

(b) in the case of services provided to a non-resident person that is a corporation or trust,

(i) the person has not, before the particular time, directly or through its agents,

(A) directed any promotion of investments in itself principally at Canadian investors, or

(B) sold an investment in itself that is outstanding at the particular time to a person who was a Canadian investor at the time of the sale and who is a Canadian investor at the particular time,

(ii) the person has not, before the particular time, directly or through its agents, filed any document with a public authority in Canada in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province in order to permit the distribution of interests in the person to persons resident in Canada, and

(iii) when the particular time is more than one year after the time at which the person was created, the total of the fair market value, at the particular time, of investments in the person that are beneficially owned by persons and partnerships (other than a designated entity in respect of the Canadian service provider) that are affiliated with the Canadian service provider does not exceed 25% of the fair market value, at the particular time, of all investments in the person; and

(c) in the case of services provided to a partnership of which the non-resident person is a member,

(i) the particular time is not more than one year after the partnership was formed, or

(ii) the total of the fair market value, at the particular time, of investments in the partnership that are beneficially owned by persons and partnerships (other than a designated entity in respect of the Canadian service provider) that are affiliated with the Canadian service provider does not exceed 25% of the fair market value, at the particular time, of all investments in the partnership.

Proposed Amendment — 115.2(2)(c)(ii), (iii)

(ii) where the non-resident person is, or is affiliated with, a person or partnership described in clause (A) or (B), the total of the fair market value of all investments in the partnership at the particular time is not less than four times the total of the fair market value of each investment in the partnership beneficially owned at the particular time by

(A) a person or partnership (other than a designated entity in respect of the Canadian service provider), more than 25% of the total of the fair market value, at the particular time, of investments in which are beneficially owned by persons and partnerships (other than a designated entity in respect of the Canadian service provider) that are affiliated with the Canadian service provider, or

(B) a person or partnership (other than a designated entity in respect of the Canadian service provider) that is affiliated with the Canadian service provider, or

(iii) at the particular time, the non-resident person is not affiliated with the Canadian service provider and is not affiliated with any person or partnership described in clause (ii)(A) or (B).

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 23(2), will amend subpara. 115.2(2)(c)(ii) to read as above and add subpara. (iii), applicable to 2002 et seq., except that for the period that begins at the beginning of the 2002 taxation year of a taxpayer and that ends on October 31, 2011, para. 115.2(2)(c), as amended, does not apply to the taxpayer if the taxpayer so elects and files the election in writing with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes October 31, 2011.

Technical Notes: Subparagraph 115.2(2)(c) precludes a non-resident from benefiting from section 115.2 if, at the particular time that is one year after the partnership was formed, the non-resident is a member of a partnership whose members that are affiliated with the Canadian service provider ("CSP") that provides designated investment services to the partnership own more than 25% of the fair market value of the partnership, which is generally referred to as an "independence test".

Subparagraph 115.2(2)(c) is amended to ensure that the independence test between the non-resident and the CSP is applied at the partner level instead of at the partnership level. Consequently, subparagraph 115.2(2)(c)(ii) will preclude a non-resident member from benefiting from section 115.2 if the non-resident member is, or is affiliated with, a person that is affiliated with the CSP or is owned more than 25% by a person or partnership affiliated with the CSP ("an unqualified person") and, either alone or together with other unqualified persons, owns more than 25% of the fair market value of all interests in the partnership.

The amendment applies to taxation years that end after 2001. A transitional provision provides that the amendment will not apply to a taxpayer for the period that ends on October 31, 2011 if the taxpayer elects, in writing, on or before the filing-due date of its taxation year that includes the October 31, 2011.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 4, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing further to discussions you and your colleague, [xxx] have had with Ryan Hall of this Division and your letter of April 8, 2002, in which you raise a concern about the application of paragraph 115.2(2)(c) of the Income Tax Act to non-resident persons who are members of a partnership of which residents of Canada are also members, and you request that certain amendments be made to address this concern.

As you know, section 115.2 is an interpretive rule which ensures that, provided certain conditions are met, the receipt of Canadian investment management services does not by itself cause a non-resident person to be considered to be carrying on business in Canada. (However, it should be noted that the section does not protect from Canadian taxation non-residents who for other reasons would be considered to be earning income from carrying on business in Canada.)

This section was recently amended so that it applies to all non-resident persons, including those who are members of a partnership of which one or more members are resident in Canada. As a result, the rule no longer applies to partnerships per se, but rather to the partners themselves. Paragraph 115.2(2)(c) sets out the circumstances under which the rule applies where investment services are not directly provided to non-residents but to a partnership, of which the non-residents are members.

Your concern is that the restriction in subparagraph 115.2(2)(c)(ii), which places a 25% limit on investments held in a partnership by persons who are affiliated with the Canadian service provider, may in some cases lead to consequences which are inconsistent with the Government's stated policy objectives.

You note in your letter that the explanatory notes for the amendments to section 115.2 explain that the restrictions found in subparagraphs 115.2(2)(c)(i) and (ii) are comparable to those found in subparagraph 115.2(2)(b)(iii), but you express the view that these two restrictions are not analogous. Although we consider the mechanics of the provisions to be comparable, it would appear that the two rules differ substantively: paragraph (b) applies to limit investments in non-residents (in that paragraph, corporations and trusts) to which subsection 115.2(2) applies whereas paragraph (c) does not operate to restrict investments in non-residents who benefit from that subsection, but rather in partnerships of which they are members.

The underlying policy for the investment restrictions in subsection 115.2(2) is to ensure that a reasonable measure of independence exists between non-resident persons who benefit from section 115.2 and their service providers. Making section 115.2 available in those cases where a non-resident is a member of a partnership, of which 25% of the investments are held by persons and partnerships which are affiliated with a service provider but not with the non-resident, would not appear to compromise this policy objective. In short, it seems that the limitation found in paragraph (c) may not be an accurate proxy for gauging the level of independence between any given non-resident and a service provider who supplies investment services to a partnership of which the non-resident is a member.

Given the foregoing, the Government's policy objective — both to treat partnerships as flow-through entities for the purposes of section 115.2 and to ensure a reasonable measure of independence exists between non-resident persons who avail themselves of the benefit of this section and their service providers — would likely be met by replacing the restriction found in paragraph (c) with a limitation that better relates to the measure of independence vis-à-vis a non-resident person and a service provider who provides investment services to a partnership of which the non-resident is a member.

We therefore intend to recommend two things: that subsection 115.2(2) be amended so that a non-resident who is a member of a partnership which receives investment services will not be denied the benefit of section 115.2 because other persons or partnerships, which are affiliated with the service provider but not with the non-resident, hold more than 25% of the fair market value of the interests in the partnership; and that, in keeping with the principle of applying section 115.2 at the partner rather than at the partnership level, the 25% investment limit apply to the non-resident partners themselves. We are prepared to recommend that these amendments apply to the 2002 and subsequent taxation years, if the non-resident so chooses.

Of course, we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendation that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Yours sincerely,
Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Related Provisions: 115.2(3) — Interpretation.

History: Subsec. 115.2(2) amended by 2002, c. 9, subsec. 35(5), applicable to 2002 et seq. In applying subpara. 115.2(2)(b)(i) to taxation years that end after 1998 and before 2002, the opening words of that subpara. shall be read as follows:

(i) the non-resident has not, before the particular time, directly or through its agents,

Subsec. 115.2(2) formerly read:

(2) For the purposes of subsection 115(1) and Part XIV, a qualified non-resident is not considered to be carrying on business in Canada at any particular time solely because of the provision to the non-resident at the particular time of designated investment services by a Canadian service provider if

(a) in the case of a non-resident who is an individual other than a trust, the non-resident is not affiliated at the particular time with the Canadian service provider; and

(b) in the case of a non-resident that is a corporation, trust or partnership,

(i) the non-resident has not, before the particular time, directly or through its agents, directed any promotion of investments in itself principally at, or sold such investments to, persons that the non-resident knew or ought to have known after reasonable enquiry were resident in Canada or partnerships that the non-resident knew or ought to have known after reasonable enquiry had members that were resident in Canada,

(ii) the non-resident has not, before the particular time, directly or through its agents, filed any document with a public authority in Canada in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province in order to permit the distribution of interests in the non-resident to persons resident in Canada, and

(iii) when the particular time is more than one year after the time at which the non-resident was created, the total of the fair market value, at the particular time, of investments in the non-resident that are beneficially owned by persons and partnerships (other than a designated entity in respect of the Canadian service provider) that are affiliated with the Canadian service provider does not exceed 25% of the fair market value, at the particular time, of all investments in the non-resident.

(3) Interpretation — For the purposes of subparagraph (2)(b)(iii) and this subsection,

Proposed Amendment — 115.2(3) opening words

(3) Interpretation — For the purposes of this subsection and subparagraphs (2)(b)(iii) and (c)(ii),

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 23(3), will amend the opening words of subsec. 115.2(3) to read as above, applicable to 2002 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 115.2(3) provides an interpretative rule for the determination of fair market value for the purpose of subparagraph 115.2(2)(b)(iii) and subsection 115.2(3). As subparagraph 115.2(2)(c)(ii) also requires a determination of fair market value for the purpose of that subparagraph in the same manner as subparagraph 115.2(2)(b)(iii), and subparagraph 115.2(2)(c)(ii) has been in force for taxation years that end after 2001, subsection 115.2(3) is amended to apply the interpretative rule to the determination of fair market value for the purposes of subparagraph 115.2(2)(c)(ii) as well.

(a) the fair market value of an investment in a corporation, trust or partnership shall be determined without regard to any voting rights attaching to that investment; and

(b) a person or partnership is, at a particular time, a designated entity in respect of a Canadian service provider if the total of the fair market value at the particular time, of investments in the entity that are beneficially owned by persons and partnerships (other than another designated entity in respect of the Canadian service provider) that are affiliated with the Canadian service provider does not exceed 25% of the fair market value, at the particular time, of all investments in the entity.

(4) Transfer pricing — For the purpose of section 247, where subsection (2) applies in respect of services provided to a person that is a corporation or trust or to a partnership, if the Canadian service provider referred to in that subsection does not deal at arm's length with the promoter of the person or of the partnership, the service provider is deemed not to deal at arm's length with the person or partnership.

History [subsec. 115.2(4)]: Subsec. 115.2(4) amended by 2002, c. 9, subsec. 35(6), applicable to 2002 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

(4) For the purpose of section 247, where subsection (2) applies to a qualified non-resident, if the Canadian service provider referred to in that subsection does not deal at arm's length with the promoter of the qualified non-resident, the service provider is deemed not to deal at arm's length with the non-resident.

Proposed Addition — 115.2(5) [temporary]

(5) Property of a partnership — For the purpose of determining whether a non-resident person's interest in a partnership is, at any particular time before March 5, 2010, a taxable Canadian property, property of the partnership shall not be considered to be used or held by the partnership in a business carried on in Canada, if because of subsection (2) the non-resident person is not considered to be carrying on business in Canada at the particular time.

Application: The October 31, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 23(4), will add subsec. 115.2(5), applicable to 2008 et seq.; and subsec. 23(5) will repeal subsec. 115.2(5), deemed to have come into force on March 5, 2010.

Technical Notes: Prior to March 5, 2010, the definition "taxable Canadian property" in subsection 248(1) included property used or held in carrying on a business in Canada by a partnership as well as the interest of that partnership.

New subsection 115.2(5) applies for the purpose of determining whether a non-resident's interest in a partnership is, at any particular time before March 5, 2010, a taxable Canadian property. For this purpose, property of the partnership is not considered to be used or held by the partnership in a business carried on in Canada, if because of subsection 115.2(2) the member is considered not to be carrying on business in Canada at that particular time.

The subsection applies to taxation years that end after 2007, but is repealed effective March 5, 2010 because as of that date this interpretative rule has no further relevance. The definition "taxable Canadian property" in subsection 248(1) from March 5, 2010 includes only interests of a partnership where more than 50% of the fair market value of the partnership is derived directly or indirectly from a combination of real property in Canada, Canadian resource property, timber resource property and options or interests in any of those properties.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, April 28, 2008:

Dear Mr. [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your correspondence of January 2 and 16, 2008 in which you express a number of concerns, as summarized below, in respect of section 115.2 of the Income Tax Act (Act).

Services Causing a Partnership Interest to be Taxable Canadian Property

As you know, section 115.2 is an interpretive rule for the purposes of subsection 115(1) and Part XIV of the Act; it ensures that, if certain conditions are met, the provision of designated investment services by a Canadian service provider to a non-resident person does not by itself cause the non-resident person to be considered to be carrying on business in Canada.

You are concerned that the interpretive rule in section 115.2 applies only for the purposes of subsection 115(1) and Part XIV of the Act and not for the purposes of applying the definition "taxable Canadian property" in subsection 248(1) of the Act. In particular, you are concerned that the receipt of Canadian investment management services by a non-resident partnership may still result in the partnership being considered, for the purposes of applying the "taxable Canadian property" definition, to be carrying on business in Canada and that an interest in the partnership would therefore, because of the combined effect of paragraphs (b) and (g) of the definition "taxable Canadian property", be considered taxable Canadian property.

In your view, this result is not appropriate from a tax policy viewpoint. We agree with you and, therefore, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subsection 115.2(2) of the Act be amended to ensure that, if the condition in paragraph (c) of the subsection is met (which paragraph requires that the time of the provision of the designated investment services to the partnership by the Canadian service provider be not more than one year after the partnership was formed and that the condition in subparagraph 115.2(2)(c)(ii) placing a 25 percent limit on investments held in the partnership by persons who are affiliated with the Canadian service provider be satisfied), property of a partnership shall, for the purposes of determining whether the non-resident's partnership interest in the partnership is "taxable Canadian property" as defined in subsection 248(1) of the Act, not be considered to be used or held by the partnership in a business carried on in Canada. We will recommend that this amendment be made applicable for taxation years that end after 2007.

Partnership information returns

Similarly, you are concerned that the interpretive rule in section 115.2 may not apply for the purposes of section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations (Regulations), which requires members of a partnership that carries on business in Canada to file information returns. You are, therefore, concerned that non-resident members of a partnership who are entitled to benefit from the protection of section 115.2 may nonetheless be required to file a partnership information return in Canada solely because of the provision of designated investment services to the partnership by a Canadian service provider.

You suggest that amendments be made to eliminate the requirement for non-resident members of a partnership to make a partnership information return for a partnership in respect of which section 115.2 applies. You argue that such a change would be consistent with the purpose of section 115.2; that it would be consistent with the comfort letter dated November 26, 2002 and signed by Mr. Brian Ernewein in which he indicated the intention of this Division to recommend to the Minister a change to section 115.2 to broaden that section such that it applies also for the purpose of the filing requirements of a corporation under section 150 of the Act; and that it would reduce the administrative burden and costs incurred in respect of the preparation of partnership information returns.

While we are in general agreement with the substance of your request, I should note that in one important respect your analysis seems to misinterpret the policy basis of section 115.2. You imply that, because this provision applies in respect of a partnership, the partnership is not carrying on business in Canada, and therefore its members should be excused from having to file information returns. In fact, section 115.2 provides only the assurance that the activities it describes do not in themselves cause a non-resident to carry on business in Canada. A given person or partnership may be the beneficiary of the section and still, as a result of its other activities, be carrying on business in Canada.

That said, we agree that expanding the application of section 115.2 of the Act such that it applies for the purpose of section 229 of the Regulations is consistent with the general policy intent of section 115.2; i.e., to ensure that the use of a Canadian service provider does not, by itself, cause non-residents to be treated as though they are carrying on business in Canada. Accordingly, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister that subsection 115.2(2) of the Act be amended so that it applies also for the purposes of section 229 of the Regulations. We will recommend that this amendment be made applicable for taxation years that end after 2007. [See Oct. 31/11 proposed amendment to Reg. 229(1) — ed.]

Marketing partnership interests to Canadian residents

Paragraph (d) of the definition "designated investment services" in subsection 115.2(1) applies in the case of a corporation, trust, or partnership the only undertaking of which is the investing of its funds in qualified investments; it includes, in designated investment services, the marketing of investments in the corporation, trust or partnership to non-resident investors. You argue that the scope of paragraph (d) is too narrow in that section 115.2 offers protection to non-resident members of a partnership regardless of whether the partnership has a combination of Canadian resident and non-resident members, yet paragraph (d) requires that the Canadian service provider not market investments in the partnership to Canadian residents. You also argue that such a requirement hinders the ability of Canadian asset managers to compete internationally. You therefore propose that paragraph (d) of the definition "designated investment services" in subsection 115.2(1) be broadened to permit Canadian service providers to market investments in the partnership to Canadian residents. We understand your concern; however, we are not prepared to recommend any change at this time. We will keep this matter under consideration.

While we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with our recommendations in respect of the first two matters, we hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Gerard Lalonde

Technical Notes (July 2010): Section 116 sets out rules that apply when a non-resident person disposes of any of certain types of property. Subsection 116(5.2) allows a non-resident vendor to obtain what is commonly known as a "compliance certificate" in respect of the disposition or proposed disposition of, among other things, depreciable property that is a taxable Canadian property. (5.4) Presumption — Where there has been a disposition by a non-resident of a life insurance policy in Canada by virtue of subsection 148(2) or any of paragraphs (a) to (c) and (e) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 148(9), the insurer under the policy shall, for the purposes of subsections (5.2) and (5.3) be deemed to be the taxpayer who acquired the property for an amount equal to the proceeds of disposition as determined under section 148.

(6) Definition of "excluded property" — For the purposes of this section, "excluded property" of a non-resident person means

(a) a property that is a taxable Canadian property solely because a provision of this Act deems it to be a taxable Canadian property;

(a.1) a property (other than real property situated in Canada, a Canadian resource property or a timber resource property) that is described in an inventory of a business carried on in Canada by the person;

Proposed Amendment — 116(6)(a.1)

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 2 — bijuralism), subsec. 212(1), will amend para. 116(6)(a.1) by substituting "real or immovable property" for "real property", to come into force on Royal Assent.

(d) a bond, debenture, bill, note, mortgage, hypothecary claim or similar obligation;

(e) property of a non-resident insurer that

(i) is licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on an insurance business in Canada; and

(ii) carries on an insurance business, within the meaning of subsection 138(1) of the Act, in Canada;

(f) property of an authorized foreign bank that is used or held in the course of the bank's Canadian banking business;

Proposed Amendment — 116(6)(f)

(f) property of an authorized foreign bank that carries on a Canadian banking business;

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 64(2), will amend para. 116(6)(f) to read as above, applicable after June 27, 1999.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 116(6) defines "excluded property" for the purposes of section 116. Paragraph 116(6)(f) defines the "excluded property" of an authorized foreign bank.

Paragraph 116(6)(f) currently treats as an excluded property any property of an authorized foreign bank that is used or held in the bank's "Canadian banking business" (defined in subsection 248(1)). The paragraph is amended to treat as excluded property all of the property of an authorized foreign bank that carries on a Canadian banking business. As a result, the treatment of authorized foreign banks will in this respect be comparable to the treatment of non-resident insurers.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 18, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in reply to your letter of October 24, 2001, regarding the conversion rules of foreign bank branches, particularly subsection 142.7(8) and subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) of the Income Tax Act, as well as your letter of November 13, 2001 regarding the application of section 116 of the Act where an authorized foreign bank disposes of its property to a Canadian resident.

You suggest that it would be difficult for the purchaser of a taxable Canadian property from an authorized foreign bank to determine if the property were used in the bank's Canadian banking business, and thus was an "excluded property" under section 116 such that the transaction would have no withholding implications. Therefore, you request that the purchaser be exempt from the withholding obligation in a manner similar to the relief proposed for the purposes of Part XIII and Regulation 105.

We understand the difficulty facing purchasers and, as a result, are prepared to recommend amendments to alleviate the compliance burden of purchasers acquiring taxable Canadian properties from an authorized foreign bank similar to the relief available to qualified non-resident insurance corporations described in Regulation 810.

It is also our intention to recommend that the above-noted changes be effective after June 27, 1999, coinciding with the other aspects of the taxation rules of authorized foreign bank. While I can offer no assurance that the Minister will accept our recommendations, we expect that measures along the lines I have described will be included in the next package of draft income tax technical amendments.

I trust that the above will satisfy your requirements.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 13, 2001: See under 212(13.3).

118. (1) Personal credits — For the purpose of computing the tax payable under this Part by an individual for a taxation year, there may be deducted an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the appropriate percentage for the year, and

B is the total of,

(a) married or common-law partnership status — in the case of an individual who at any time in the year is a married person or a person who is in a common-law partnership who supports the individual's spouse or common-law partner and is not living separate and apart from the spouse or common-law partner by reason of a breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership, an amount equal to the total of

(i) $10,527[21], and

(ii) the amount determined by the formula

$$$10,527^{21} + C - C.1$$

where

C is

(A) $2,000[22] if the spouse or common-law partner is dependent on the individual by reason of mental or physical infirmity, and

(B) in any other case, nil, and

C.1 is the income of the individual's spouse or common-law partner for the year or, if the individual and the individual's spouse or common-law partner are living separate and apart at the end of the year because of a breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership, the spouse's or common-law partner's income for the year while married to, or in a common-law partnership with, the individual and not so separated,

(a) for the 2011 taxation year, the reference to "$2,000" is to be read as a reference to "nil";

(b) for the 2011 taxation year, subsec. 117.1(1) does not apply for the purposes of computing the amounts to be used under para. (a); and

(c) for the 2012 taxation year, subsec. 117.1(1) does not apply in respect of the amount of $2,000 referred to in para. (a).

Subparas. (a)(i) and (ii) formerly read:

Proposed Amendment — 118(7)"pension income"(a)(i)

(i) a payment in respect of a life annuity out of or under a superannuation or pension plan (other than a pooled registered pension plan) or a specified pension plan,

Application: The December 14, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 9(1), will amend subpara. (a)(i) of the definition "pension income" in subsec. 118(7) to read as above, in force or deemed in force on the day of the coming into force of S.C. 2012, c. 16 (Bill C-25, Royal Assent June 18, 2012), Pooled Registered Pension Plans Act.

Technical Notes: The definition "pension income" in subsection 118(7) applies for the purposes of the pension credit provisions in subsection 118(3) and the pension income splitting provisions in section 60.03.

Subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "pension income" refers to life annuity payments from a superannuation or pension plan. Subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition "pension income" is amended to exclude life annuity payments out of or under a pooled registered pension plan (PRPP). Subparagraph (iii.2) is added to the definition to include in pension income any amounts included in the taxpayer's income under new section 147.5. As a result, taxable benefits paid out of or under a PRPP (including variable benefits and payments from a PRPP qualifying annuity) are eligible for the pension credit and pension income splitting on amounts received after the taxpayer has attained 65 years of age.

For further information, please see the commentary on section 147.5, and in particular, the commentary on new subsections 147.5(1), (5), (20) and (22) regarding qualifying annuities and variable benefits for PRPP purposes.

(ii) an annuity payment under a registered retirement savings plan, under an "amended plan" as referred to in subsection 146(12) or under an annuity in respect of which an amount is included in computing the individual's income by reason of paragraph 56(1)(d.2),

(iii) a payment out of or under a registered retirement income fund or under an "amended fund" as referred to in subsection 146.3(11),

Proposed Addition — 118(7)"pension income"(a)(iii.1)

(iii.1) a payment (other than a payment described in subparagraph (i)) payable on a periodic basis under a money purchase provision (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) of a registered pension plan,

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), s. 65, will add subpara. (a)(iii.1) to the definition "pension income" in subsec. 118(7), applicable to 2004 et seq.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Section 118 provides for a number of credits that are deductible in computing the tax payable by an individual, including the pension credit in subsection 118(3). The pension credit available to a taxpayer who is 65 years of age or older is based on the taxpayer's "pension income", as defined in subsection 118(7). Pension income includes lifetime annuity payments under a pension plan and payments under a registered retirement income fund (RRIF).

The definition "pension income" is amended to add periodic payments under a money purchase provision of a registered pension plan (RPP), to the extent that such payments are not already included. This amendment is consequential on amendments to section 8506 of the Regulations, the purpose of which is to allow money purchase RPPs to provide members with retirement benefits that are payable in the same manner as is permitted under a RRIF. Since these benefits would not be considered to be lifetime annuity payments, it is necessary to ensure that they qualify for the purpose of the pension credit.

Application: The December 14, 2011 draft legislation, subsec. 9(2), will amend subpara. Technical Notes: See under 118(7)"pension income"(a)(i).

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the individual's income for the year by reason of section 12.2 of this Act or paragraph 56(1)(d.1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952;

Possible Future Amendment — Doubling the Children's Fitness Tax Credit and making it refundable

Here for Canada*, Conservative Party election platform (conservative.ca), April 2011: Doubling the Children's Fitness Tax Credit

Parents know that regular exercise is a key part of their children's development. Whether it's hockey or dance or another program of physical activity, it gets them started on a lifetime of healthy, active living.

But the financial costs can put a strain on the family budget. In 2007 Stephen Harper's Government established the Children's Fitness Tax Credit, in the amount of $500, to help cover these costs. In 2008, almost 1.4 million Canadians benefitted from the measure in their tax returns.

Due to the success of the measure, we will double the value of the tax credit, and make it refundable — up to $1,000 to help cover the costs of registration fees for children's physical activities. This measure will be implemented when the federal budget is balanced within our next full term of office.

Related Provisions: 118.03(3) — Apportionment of credit where more than one person eligible; 118.91 — Part-year resident; 118.92 — Ordering of credits; 118.93 — Credits in separate returns; 118.94 — Computing tax payable by a non-resident individual; 118.95(a) — Application in year individual becomes bankrupt; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(2.1) Child fitness tax credit — child with disability — For the purpose of computing the tax payable under this Part by an individual for a taxation year there may be deducted in respect of a qualifying child of the individual an amount equal to $500[7] multiplied by the appropriate percentage for the taxation year if

(a) the amount referred to in the description of B in subsection (2) is $100[7] or more; and

(b) an amount is deductible in respect of the qualifying child under section 118.3 in computing any person's tax payable under this Part for the taxation year.

(3) Apportionment of credit — If more than one individual is entitled to a deduction under this section for a taxation year in respect of a qualifying child, the total of all amounts so deductible shall not exceed the maximum amount that would be so deductible for the year by any one of those individuals in respect of that qualifying child if that individual were the only individual entitled to deduct an amount for the year under this section in respect of that qualifying child, and if the individuals cannot agree as to what portion of the amount each can so deduct, the Minister may fix the portions.

Proposed Amendment — 118.1(1)"total charitable gifts"

"total charitable gifts", in respect of an individual for a taxation year, means the total of all amounts each of which is the eligible amount of a gift (other than a gift described in the definition "total Crown gifts", "total cultural gifts" or "total ecological gifts") made by the individual in the year or in any of the five preceding taxation years (other than in a year for which a deduction under subsection 110(2) was claimed in computing the individual's taxable income) [to a qualified donee, to the extent that the amount was not included in determining an amount that was deducted under this section in computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for a preceding taxation year — ed.];

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 66(2), will amend the definition "total charitable gifts" in subsec. 118.1(1) to read as above [including the italicized text to reflect the changes made by the 2011 Budget second bill, which are expected to be replicated when this legislation is reintroduced — ed.], applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Section 118.1 provides for a charitable donations tax credit to individuals in respect of gifts made to registered charities and to certain other entities. Section 118.1 is amended to expand the entities referred to in this section to include municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada. This amendment is in response to the Quebec Court of Appeal decision in Tawich Development Corporation v. Deputy Minister of Revenue of Quebec, 2001 D.T.C. 5144. For additional information, see the commentary to paragraph 149(1)(d.5).

The amendments to section 118.1, described below, are made consequential to the addition of new subsections 248(30) to (39). Generally, those subsections clarify the circumstances under which a transfer of property will be considered a gift notwithstanding that the donor may be entitled to receive an advantage or benefit in respect of the property. New subsection 248(31) generally provides that the "eligible amount" of the gift is the excess of the fair market value of a property transferred by way of gift over the value of the advantage or benefit, if any, to which the transferor is entitled. For additional information, see the commentary to new subsections 248(30) to (39).

Subsection 118.1(1) provides definitions of the terms "total charitable gifts", "total Crown gifts", "total cultural gifts" and "total ecological gifts". These definitions apply for the purpose of the tax credit available under subsection 118.1(3) to individuals who make such gifts. The amount of a gift that is eligible for a tax credit is, generally, the fair market value of the property disposed of by the individual in the making of the gift.

The definitions "total charitable gifts", "total Crown gifts", "total cultural gifts" and "total ecological gifts" in subsection 118.1(1) are amended, as a consequence of the addition of new subsection 248(31), to provide that the amount that qualifies for the credit under subsection 118.1(3) is the "eligible amount" of a gift.

In addition, the definition of "total charitable gifts" and the definition of "total ecological gifts" in subsection 118.1(1) are expanded to include a gift to a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada.

"total gifts" of an individual for a taxation year means the total of

(a) the least of

(i) the individual's total charitable gifts for the year,

(ii) the individual's income for the year where the individual dies in the year or in the following taxation year, and

(iii) in any other case, the lesser of the individual's income for the year and the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the individual's income for the year,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is a taxable capital gain of the individual for the year from a disposition that is the making of a gift made by the individual in the year, which gift is included in the individual's total charitable gifts for the year,

Proposed Amendment — 118.1(1)"total gifts"(a)(iii)B

B is the total of all amounts, each of which is that proportion of the individual's taxable capital gain for the taxation year in respect of a gift made by the individual in the taxation year (in respect of which gift an eligible amount is included in the individual's total charitable gifts for the taxation year) that the eligible amount of the gift is of the individual's proceeds of disposition in respect of the gift,

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 66(6), will amend the description of B in subpara. (a)(iii) of the definition "total gifts" in subsec. 118.1(1) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Variable B in the formula in the definition of "total gifts" in subsection 118.1(1) generally provides that 100% of a taxable capital gain that results from a gift is included in the annual income limit that applies to gifts. This is an enhancement of the 75% income limit that generally applies to other types of income. Variable B is amended as a consequence of the addition of new subsection 248(31), to ensure that the enhanced income limit only applies to the portion of a taxable capital gain that relates to the eligible amount of a gift.

C is the total of all amounts each of which is a taxable capital gain of the individual for the year, because of subsection 40(1.01), from a disposition of a property in a preceding taxation year,

D is the total of all amounts each of which is determined in respect of the individual's depreciable property of a prescribed class and equal to the lesser of

(A) the amount included under subsection 13(1) in respect of the class in computing the individual's income for the year, and

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is determined in respect of a disposition that is the making of a gift of property of the class made by the individual in the year that is included in the individual's total charitable gifts for the year and equal to the lesser of

(I) the proceeds of disposition of the property minus any outlays and expenses to the extent that they were made or incurred by the individual for the purpose of making the disposition, and

(II) the capital cost to the individual of the property, and

Proposed Amendment — 118.1(1)"total gifts"(a)(iii)D(B)

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is determined in respect of a disposition that is the making of a gift of property of the class made by the individual in the year (in respect of which gift an eligible amount is included in the individual's total charitable gifts for the taxation year) equal to the lesser of

(I) that proportion, of the amount by which the proceeds of disposition of the property exceed any outlays and expenses, to the extent that they were made or incurred by the individual for the purpose of making the disposition, that the eligible amount of the gift is of the individual's proceeds of disposition in respect of the gift, and

(II) that proportion, of the capital cost to the individual of the property, that the eligible amount of the gift is of the individual's proceeds of disposition in respect of the gift, and

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 66(7), will amend cl. (B) in the description of D in subpara. (a)(iii) of the definition "total gifts" in subsec. 118.1(1) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): See under 118.1(1)"total gifts"(a)(iii)B above.

E is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of an amount deducted under section 110.6 in computing the individual's taxable income for the year that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of a gift referred to in the description of B or C,

(b) the individual's total Crown gifts for the year,

History: 1999, c. 22, s. 33 provides the following special rule, applicable to taxation years that ended after November 15, 1997 and before 1998.

For the purposes of the Act, if

(a) a taxpayer made a gift at any particular time before February 1998, and after the end of a taxation year that ended after November 15, 1997 and before 1998, that would be deductible under section 110.1 or 118.1 of the Act in computing the taxpayer's taxable income or tax payable under Part I of the Act for the year if it were made immediately before the end of the year,

(b) the gift was a gift of tangible property (other than real property) or a gift by cash, cheque, credit card or money order,

(c) the gift was not made

(i) through a payroll deduction, or

(ii) where the taxpayer died after 1997, by the taxpayer's will, and

(d) the taxpayer so elects in the taxpayer's return of income under the Act for the year or by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing before 1999, the taxpayer is deemed to have made the gift and, in the case of a gift of tangible property, to have disposed of the property immediately before the end of the taxpayer's taxation year that ended before 1998 and not to have done so at the particular time.

and the fair market value of the property otherwise determined at that time exceeds its adjusted cost base to the individual, such amount, not greater than the fair market value and not less than the adjusted cost base to the individual of the property at that time, as the individual or the individual's legal representative designates in the individual's return of income under section 150 for the year in which the gift is made is, if the making of the gift is proven by filing with the Minister a receipt containing prescribed information, deemed to be the individual's proceeds of disposition of the property and, for the purposes of subsection (1), the fair market value of the gift made by the individual.

Proposed Amendment — 118.1(5.4), (6)

(5.4) Where subsec. (6) applies — Subsection (6) applies in circumstances where

(a) an individual

(i) makes a gift (by the individual's will or otherwise) at any time of capital property to a donee described in the definition "total charitable gifts", "total Crown gifts" or "total ecological gifts" in subsection (1) [expected to be changed to "... capital property to a qualified donee" as per 2011 Budget amendment to 118.1(6) above — ed.], or

(ii) who is non-resident, makes a gift (by the individual's will or otherwise) at any time of real or immovable property situated in Canada to a prescribed donee who provides an undertaking, in a form satisfactory to the Minister, to the effect that the property will be held for use in the public interest; and

(b) the fair market value of the property otherwise determined at that time exceeds

(i) in the case of depreciable property of a prescribed class, the lesser of the undepreciated capital cost of that class at the end of the taxation year of the individual that includes that time (determined without reference to proceeds of disposition designated in respect of the property under subsection (6)) and the adjusted cost base to the individual of the property immediately before that time, and

(ii) in any other case, the adjusted cost base to the individual of the property immediately before that time.

(6) Gifts of capital property — If this subsection applies in respect of a gift by an individual of property, and the individual or the individual's legal representative designates an amount in respect of the gift in the individual's return of income under section 150 for the year in which the gift is made, the amount so designated is deemed to be the individual's proceeds of disposition of the property and, for the purpose of subsection 248(31), the fair market value of the gift, but the amount so designated may not exceed the fair market value of the property otherwise determined and may not be less than the greater of

(a) in the case of a gift made after December 20, 2002, the amount of the advantage, if any, in respect of the gift, and

(b) the amount determined under subparagraph (5.4)(b)(i) or (ii), as the case may be, in respect of the property.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 66(9), will add subsec. 118.1(5.4) and amend subsec. (6) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after 1999 except that, for gifts made after 1999 but before December 21, 2002, the expression "subsection 248(31)" in subsec. 118.1(6) shall be read as "subsection (1)".

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 118.1(6) provides that, if an individual donates capital property to a charity, the individual may designate a value between the adjusted cost base and the fair market value of the donated property to be treated both as the proceeds of disposition for the purpose of calculating the individual's capital gain and the amount of the gift for the purpose of calculating the tax credit allowed for charitable donations under subsection 118.1(3).

Subsection 118.1(6) is restructured as new subsection 118.1(5.4) and revised subsection 118.1(6). New subsection 118.1(5.4) describes the circumstances under which amended subsection 118.1(6), which remain generally unchanged, will apply. However, where the property is depreciable property, subsection 118.1(5.4) includes those situations where the actual value of the gifted property is between the undepreciated capital cost of that class at the end of the taxation year of the individual and the fair market value of the gifted property.

Amended subsection 118.1(6) provides for the amount that may be designated by the individual. As with the former provision, the amount designated is deemed to be the individual's proceeds of disposition of the gift. The provision also continues to provide that the amount designated is treated as the fair market value of the property transferred by way of gift. However, under the amended version, this is for the purpose of new subsection 248(31) (changed from subsection 118.1(1)). New subsection 248(31) generally provides that the "eligible amount" of the gift is the excess of the fair market value of a property transferred by way of gift over the value of the advantage or benefit, if any, to which the transferor is entitled. The "eligible amount" is relevant to the determination of the tax credit deductible by the individual under subsection 118.1(3).

Finally, amended subsection 118.1(6) effectively allows an individual to reduce the amount of recaptured depreciation that might otherwise be calculated in respect of a gift of depreciable property, with a corresponding reduction to the eligible amount deductible in respect of the gift under subsection 118.1(6). However, the designated amount may not be lower than the amount of any actual proceeds of disposition in respect of the property (or, more specifically, the amount of the advantage in respect of the gift, as defined under new subsection 248(32)).

In particular, the amount designated by the individual in respect of the property transferred may not exceed the fair market value of the property otherwise determined, and may not be less than the greater of

- the amount of the advantage, if any, in respect of the gift, and
- the adjusted cost base of the property or, if the property is depreciable property of the individual, the undepreciated capital cost of the class of the property at the end of the individual's taxation year (determined without reference to the proceeds of disposition designated in respect of the property).

Subsections 118.1(5.4) and (6) (as amended) generally apply in respect of gifts made after 1999. For additional details regarding the eligible amount and the amount of the advantage in respect of a gift, see the commentary to new subsections 248(31) and (32).

Example

Mr. Adams transfers a rental property with a fair market value of $200,000 to a registered charity, in exchange for proceeds of disposition of $95,000. The original cost to Mr. Adams when he purchased the property in 1985 was $65,000. The rental property is the only depreciable property in its class, with an undepreciated capital cost balance before the transfer of $45,000.

Assuming that the transfer qualifies as a gift (see the commentary to subsections 248(30) to (32)), Mr. Adams may designate any amount between $95,000 and $200,000 as the proceeds of disposition for the gift. Mr. Adams could have designated an amount as low $45,000, if he had received a lesser amount in actual proceeds from the charity.

Mr. Adams decides to designate $150,000 as its proceeds of disposition. The taxable gain to Mr. Adams on the transfer can therefore be allocated as follows:

Designated proceeds		$ 150,000
Adjusted cost base (original cost)	65,000	65,000
Capital Gain		85,000
Taxable Capital Gain		42,500
Undepreciated Capital Cost	45,000
Recaptured depreciation		20,000
Total Income Inclusion		$ 62,500

Designated proceeds	$150,000
Amount of advantage (consideration)	95,000
Eligible amount of the gift	55,000

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Feb. 15, 2000:

Dear [xxx]

The Honourable Paul Martin, Minister of Finance, has forwarded your letter of September 7, 1999 to me for reply. It is my understanding that you have requested amendments to the Income Tax Act (the Act) that would address a situation where a resident of Switzerland would be required to pay Canadian income tax as a result of a donation of a Canadian rental building to a charity. More specifically, upon the donation to charity of their Canadian rental buildings, your Swiss clients would be required to pay tax under Part I of the Act on the resulting recaptured capital cost allowance ("CCA"), without the ability to deduct a charitable donations tax credit.

I also understand that Mr. Ed Short of this Department spoke with you in this regard and asked whether you were seeking amendments to the Act that would allow for an elective reduction of the deemed proceeds of disposition as a result of the gift (with a concurrent reduction of the base upon which the charitable donations tax credit is calculated) or amendments that would allow the claim of the charitable donations tax credit against tax on other sources of income. Your letter dated November 1, 1999 suggests that you are seeking both. That is, you have suggested not only that the disposition should (on an elective basis) not give rise to tax but that the charitable donations tax credit should also be allowed to be claimed against tax on other Canadian sources of income that a non-resident may have.

You have indicated that, on an ongoing basis, your Swiss clients have elected under section 216 of the Act to pay Part I tax on their net incomes from rental property, rather than to pay tax at the flat rate on gross rents that otherwise applies to non-residents under Part XIII of the Act. In this regard, they have claimed CCA against their rental revenues. Disposing of the rental properties for proceeds above their undepreciated capital costs would, therefore, result in recaptured CCA and, potentially, capital gains.

As you are aware, the charitable donations tax credit may be claimed by a non-resident individual to offset tax imposed under Part I of the Act on income from a business or employment carried on in Canada. The charitable donations tax credit is also available in respect of certain other sources of income, other than income from property, where the non-resident elects under section 217 of the Act to file a Part I tax return.

Property income of non-residents is, however, taxed under Part XIII, and is generally calculated as a percentage of the gross amount of revenues. The exceptions are rental income from real property and timber royalties, for which a non- resident may elect to pay tax under Part I on net income from the property. Although this election is provided in order to give non-residents some relief from Part XIII tax, the basis of relief is the method of calculating income, not the availability of tax credits. Just as the Part XIII tax on property income may not be reduced by the charitable donations tax credit, the elective Part I tax on property income may not be reduced.

However, an amendment that the Minister of Finance is prepared to support would extend the existing election to report a reduced amount of capital gain on the donation of capital property to also reduce the recaptured CCA that must be reported on the donation of a depreciable capital property. This amendment would apply equally to residents who file under section 152 of the Act and non-residents who are required to file under subsection 216(5). The result of this amendment would be that taxpayers, resident and non-resident alike, would not be required to pay tax on the donation of a depreciable property.

I understand that the Minister of Finance intends to recommend that the requisite amendments to the Income Tax Act be effective for donations made after 1999.

Yours sincerely,

Munir A. Sheikh
Senior ADM, Tax Policy Branch

(d) the amount, not greater than that fair market value at the time the gift is made and not less than the cost amount of the property to the individual, that is designated in the individual's return of income under section 150 for the year in which the gift is made is, if the making of the gift is proven by filing with the Minister a receipt containing prescribed information, deemed to be the individual's proceeds of disposition of the work of art and, for the purposes of subsection (1), the fair market value of the gift made by the individual.

Proposed Amendment — 118.1(7)(d)

(d) the amount that the individual or the individual's legal representative designates in the individual's return of income under section 150 for the year in which the gift is made is deemed to be the individual's proceeds of disposition of the work of art and, for the purpose of subsection 248(31), the fair market value of the work of art, but the amount so designated may not exceed the fair market value otherwise determined of the work of art and may not be less than the greater of

(i) the amount of the advantage, if any, in respect of the gift, and

(ii) the cost amount to the individual of the work of art.

Application: The July 16, 2010 draft legislation (Part 1 — technical), subsec. 66(11), will amend para. 118.1(7)(d) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes (July 2010): Subsection 118.1(7) provides that, if an artist donates artwork created by the artist and held in the artist's inventory, the artist may designate a value between the cost amount and the fair market value of the artwork to be treated both as the proceeds of disposition for the purpose of calculating the artist's income and the amount of the gift for the purpose of calculating the tax credit allowed for charitable donations under subsection 118.1(3).

If the artwork is certified as a cultural gift, as described in subsection 118.1(1), subsection 118.1(7.1) applies instead of subsection 118.1(7). Under subsection 118.1(7.1), the artist is treated as having received proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount to the artist of the work of art for the purpose of calculating the artist's income, but the fair market value of the artwork is not affected. This means that the artist is entitled to a credit based on the value of the donation, but that the artist recognizes neither a profit nor a loss on the disposition of the work of art in computing income from a business for income tax purposes.

Paragraphs 118.1(7)(d) and (7.1)(d) are amended consequential to the addition of subsections 248(31) and (32). Amended paragraph 118.1(7.1)(d) generally provides that the artist's proceeds of disposition from a gift of cultural property that was created by the artist and held as inventory may not be lower than the amount of any actual proceeds of disposition in respect of the property (or, more specifically, the amount of the advantage in respect of the gift, as defined under new subsection 248(32)). In particular, the amount that may be designated by the artist must be the greater of the cost amount of the work of art and the amount of the advantage in respect of the gift. As a result, the artist will have business income from the disposition if the amount of the advantage in respect of the gift exceeds the cost amount to the artist of the work of art.

For gifts from an artist's inventory that are not certified cultural property, amended paragraph 118.1(7)(d) provides that the amount designated in the artist's return of income is deemed to be the artist's proceeds of disposition. The provision also continues to provide that the amount designated is treated as the fair market value of the property transferred by way of gift. However, under the amended version, this is for the purpose of new subsection 248(31) (changed from subsection 118.1(1)). New subsection 248(31) generally provides that the "eligible amount" of the gift is the excess of the fair market value of a property transferred by way of gift over the value of the advantage or benefit, if any, to which the transferor is entitled. The "eligible amount" is relevant to the determination of the tax credit deductible by the individual under subsection 118.1(3).

The amount designated in the artist's return of income in respect of the property transferred may not exceed the fair market value of the property otherwise determined, and may not be less than the greater of

- the amount of the advantage, if any, in respect of the gift, and
- the cost amount to the artist of the work of art.

As a result, the artist will have business income from the disposition to the extent that the amount of the advantage in respect of the gift (or some other amount designated in the artist's return of income, if greater) exceeds the cost amount to the artist of the work of art.

For additional details regarding the eligible amount and the amount of the advantage in respect of a gift, see the commentary to new subsections 248(31) and (32).
